Jury finds pair who cut youths' throats guilty

POMONA — On March 23, two men forced their way into a Pomona home during a birthday party, robbed the family in the house, and slashed the throats of two family members.

Saturday afternoon, jurors in Superior Court here concluded two and a half days of deliberations in the case, finding a pair of Riverside men guilty of burglary, robbery, and assault with intent to commit murder. Additionally, one of the men, Arnold Keith Spears, 21, was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon.

Since late September, Spears and James Franklin Hooker, 22, have been on trial before Judge August J. Goebel on nine counts, four of robbery, one of burglary, two of assault with intent to commit murder, and two of assault with a deadly weapon. Both men were found innocent of one count of assault with a deadly weapon, while Hooker alone was found guilty of one count of assault with intent to commit murder.

The pair will be sentenced Nov. 9.

George Ryan, his wife June, their daughter Gale, and their son Mark were the victims of the incident in the late evening hours of March 23. They have since moved from their former home at 797 E. Harrison Ave.

The robbers slit both Mark and Gale's throats, but they survived. Gale, more severely hurt, required 97 stitches in her neck to close the wound. She was hospitalized nearly a week according to Dr. Frederick H. Summers of Pomona Valley Community Hospital, but recovered nearly fully.

A 15-year-old was used as a phony survey-taker to get the family to open its door. She was subsequently turned over to Riverside County juvenile authorities with the disposition of her case kept secret under Juvenile Court rules.

Start of the month-long trial was delayed by defense attorney's motions to have the case moved elsewhere. They argued a change of venue would protect the defendants from the effects of publicity about the robbery-attack.

During the trial Hooker took the stand to claim he was arrested early in the morning following the crime after he had changed clothes with a person named "Sidney." He claimed he was in a Riverside library at the time of the incident and came to Pomona after receiving a call from Spears.

Egypt protests flight of 2 U.S. spy planes

CAIRO (UPI) —Egypt issued an official protest to the United States against a flight of two American reconnaisance planes over Egyptian air space Saturday, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said.

(U.S. diplomatic sources in Washington declined to confirm or deny the Egyptian claim.)

It said the two planes, allegedly SR71A spy planes, came from bases in either Greece or Turkey.

The two planes broke the sound barrier over Cairo at 1:28 p.m., causing a loud sonic boom, the newspaper said. A few seconds later an air raid alert was sounded.

The newspaper said acting foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi summoned the Spanish charge d'affairs, Javier Villacieros, and Richard Smith, acting chief of the U.S. diplomatic mission in Cairo, to protest the overflights.

Spain looks after American interests in Egypt in the absence of diplomatic relations which were broken at the height of the 1967 Middle East war. The U.S. diplomatic mission operates out of the Spanish embassy.

Al Ahram said Fahmi protested "strongly" to the two diplomats and "drew their attention to the serious consequences of such aggression."

It said the overflight was a "clear and direct provocation" of Egypt and Sryria.

The two planes were picked up on Egyptian radar screens when they were 127 miles from Port Said, the newspaper said. They flew south over the Suez Canal and Red Sea coast, then turned southwestward in the direction of Naja Hammadi, a town 350 miles south of Cairo, the paper said. It said the two planes turned in a semicircle to fly over Cairo and headed east toward Sinai and then northeast toward Israel and Syria.

The flight was also picked up by Syrian radar which "followed the operation until its end," the newspaper said.

The Al Ahram report followed a report by the semiofficial Egyptian Middle East News Agency Thursday night which said U.S. Air Force Phantom jets joined Israeli planes in attacking Egyptian troops. MENA later canceled the dispatch without explanation.

In 1967, the late Egyptian President Gamal Nasser charged that direct U.S. assistance to Israel was responsible for the Egyptian loss. He used the charge as an excuse to break diplomatic relations with the United States, but long afterwards admitted the allegation was groundless. Relations were never restored, however.

The Egyptian protest followed an Egyptian communique reporting that two planes of a type "owned only by the United States" flew over Egypt.

In London, a Syrian embassy spokesman said American Phantoms and Sky Hawks bearing no Israeli markings and piloted by American Vietnam veterans had taken part in air raids on Syria.

He said the same American planes had also taken part in the raid which destroyed the Banias oil refinery.

"This latest American intervention in the present war of liberation constitutes a dangerous escalation for which both Israel and America should bear the consequences," the spokesman said.

"After the heavy losses inflicted on the Israeli air force by our air defenses and after we had demolished the myth of Israeli air superiority it has become clear that American and Israeli tools of aggression are working in full harmony and cooperation," the spokesman said.

Damascus airport bombed

Egypt mounts attack all along Suez Canal front

By United Press International

Israel said Egypt launched a general attack along the entire length of the Suez Canal front Sunday.

A military spokesman said the attack came at 6 a.m. (midnight Saturday EDT) with artillery and air attacks. He said Egyptian armored units tried to advance in many areas but were repulsed by Israeli forces that destroyed 30 Arab tanks.

Ninety minutes after the attack on the southern war front began, a formation of Israeli warplanes bombed Damascus international airport, witnesses said.

A pall of black smoke rose from the area of the airport, which is 15 miles from the center of the capital.

The Israeli formation, estimated to number six aircraft, did not encounter interceptor or missile opposition, the witnesses said.

Israel said it brought its biggest artillery to within 18 miles of Damascus and shelled military installations guarding the Syrian capital Saturday night.

Jordan said its troops were sent into action in Syria— Amman's first direct involvement in the eight-day-old war—but no contact was reported.

The Israeli communique indicated a two-mile advance along the 20-mile-wide Israeli spearhead toward Damascus during the day. Israel said its forces were slowed by a side action which decimated two Iraqi brigades coming to the aid of the embattled Syrians. One Israeli officer described the Iraqi force as "cannon fodder."

There was no reported contact with the contingent of Jordanian troops which Amman said were sent to Syria. The Israeli-Jordanian border was reported quiet.

Israel said it shot down 19 Syrian warplanes and destroyed 50 to 60 tanks during the day. An Israeli spokesman said half the Syrian air force had been destroyed since fighting began one week ago.

Israel gave no indication of its intentions, but a military spokesmen said, "The main target of our forces was to shoot tanks, to destroy and not to gain territory. It was a good day." He said eight to 10 Syrian villages were overrun by the advancing Israeli columnn.

Syrian communiques reported only intense battles along the entire front, but did not specify where the fighting was taking place. Correspondents accompanying the Israeli troops said they battled from bunker to bunker as the Syrians fell back along their defense line littered with burned-out tanks and dead Syrian soldiers.

On the southern Sinai front, Israel said it pushed back two Egyptian drives on the southern and central sectors of the front, apparently designed to ease pressure against the Syrians in the north. Egypt clamped a news blackout on fighting in Sinai after announcing it had captured the last remaining Israeli holdouts along the Bar Lev line. A Western pool correspondent said he saw the Israelis—five officers and 32 enlisted men—paddle across the canal to Egyptian captivity.

Early Sunday, Israeli national radio said Israeli forces struck at Egyptian antiaircraft batteries at Port Said. The radio also said there was a tank battle in the Bitter Lakes area of the Suez Canal.

U.S. defense department officials said the United States would begin a limited resupply of planes and tanks lost by Israel. The magnitude of the resupply mission was reported to be in dispute.

The last Israeli communique said: "Israeli guns tonight shelled military targets near Damascus." No details of the targets or damage inflicted were given.

Late Saturday night, Syria said Israeli helicopters dropped bombs near the capital.

The official high command communique gave few details of the attack.

Despite nomination, Ford 'can't abandon' festival

By PAUL VARIAN

CEDAR SPRINGS, Mich. (UPI) —The man President Nixon chose as his vice president flew home Saturday to the cheers of his neighbors and to watch some of them parade in red flannel underwear.

Rep. Gerald Ford, first elected to congress in this western Michigan district in 1948, was making his 24th consecutive appearance at the Cedar Springs "Red Flannel" festival.

The small town calls itself the red flannel underwear capital of the world.

"I have such a great affection for Cedar Springs," he said, "that I just couldn't bring myself to abandon my tradition of attending its festival."

Ford arrived from Washington aboard a U.S. Air Force jet less than 24 hours after Nixon nominated him as the country's 40th vice president.

His plane landed at Grand Rapids, the town where he grew up and won all state football honors in high school, but there were no official greetings or ceremonies.

Instead, the 60-year-old Republican leader of the House drove 30 miles north to Cedar Springs, waving and smiling to the few persons cheering him along the road.

The first thing he asked when he stepped from his car at Jordan College, a religious academy operated by the United Holiness Church in Cedar Springs, was: "How's the game going?"

The game he meant was Michigan versus Michigan State, the annual big game. Ford once played center for Michigan and was named the team's most valuable player in 1934. Michigan won 31-0.

Inside the Academy's church, Ford chatted, answered a few political questions and discussed old friends and times. He also recalled his feelings when Nixon asked him to assume the post left vacant by Spiro T. Agnew.

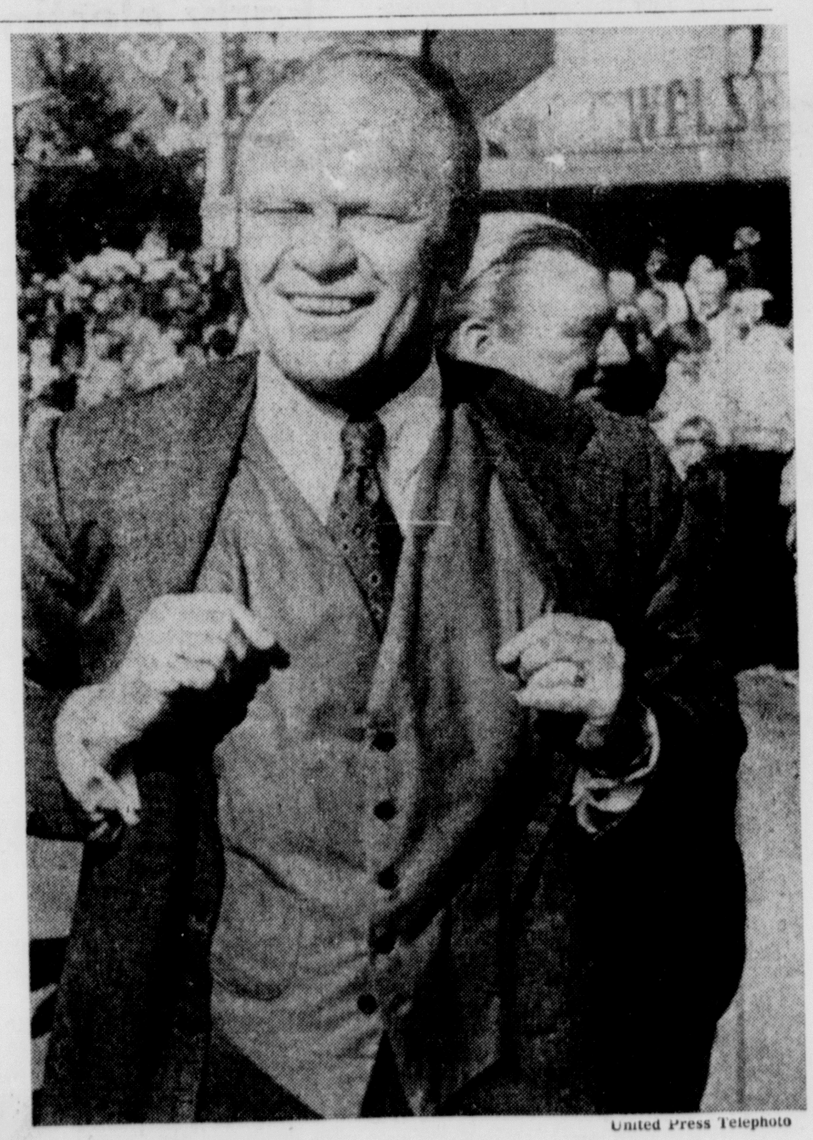

"I was a little overwhelmed, to be frank," Ford said, "but I was thrilled."

Of politics, he said he considered Agnew a good friend and that he believed he could carry out Nixon's wishes in handling both foreign and domestic issues.

Asked if he would match Agnew's political style, Ford replied, "Well, my style in politics has been to talk affirmatively about responsibilities we might have and the job we might have to do."

He reiterated that he has no political ambitions in 1976 but did not flatly rule out that he seek another congressional term that year.

Ford also said he could think of nothing that would block his confirmation by Congress.

La Verne youth, 12, found unharmed after being lost

BAKERSFIELD — A 12-year-old La Verne boy lost overnight at the 7,000-foot level of the Piute mountains was found Saturday in good condition, sheriff's deputies here said.

Glenn Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Joseph of 2703 Kendall St., was found about two miles from where he was last seen by his father Friday in French Meadow about 25 miles southeast of Lake Isabella.

The boy weathered the 30-degree nighttime temperatures by finding a vacant cabin in which to sleep. He was found by a hunter.

The youth became separated from his father while the elder Joseph was hunting deer with several companions.

The boy was not hospitalized.

Office seekers unprepared for early election

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

A new state law that sets local elections next year a month earlier finds most prospective candidates in the Pomona Valley surprised and somewhat perturbed, but not upset.

The law moved election times for most California cities to March rather than April and, consequently, will cause the entire election machinery to start a month earlier.

Thus, nomination papers for offices in all cities in the Pomona Valley area, except for Pomona, will be available Dec. 6 instead of Jan. 3, and must be filed by Dec. 27, instead of the end of January.

The municipal elections will be held March 5 instead of April 2. Pomona is not affected by the new law because it is a charter city—one of 17 in Los Angeles County.

Prospective candidates for offices—those whose terms will expire a month earlier—generally felt that they have been caught unprepared.

"It was a surprise to me," Mayor Mike Morales of La Verne declared. "It means not only that I have to start campaigning earlier, but that I have another job to do—explaining to everyone that the election will be held at a different time. I don't see the point to it and I don't like it."

Soviet to blame for war—Golda

TEL AVIV (UPI) —Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir accused the Soviet Union Saturday night of planning and financing a Middle East war for the Arabs that again has "washed away in blood" Israel's frontiers.

"I don't know what will happen after this," she said.

Mrs. Meir gave no indication of Israeli intentions in Syria, nor did she say whether her government would accept a cease-fire with Egyptian troops still in the Sinai on the eastern bank of the Suez Canal.

In a 55-minute nationally televised news conference, Mrs. Meir said Israel was confident of victory in the war and that there is only "one way" for the Arabs to proceed: "To decide there is a willingness to live in peace and then negotiate an honorable peace for all concerned."

For more than six years since Israel's decisive victory in the 1967 war, Mrs. Meir said, Moscow has trained the Arabs and contributed "billions of dollars worth of tanks and planes and guns and ammunition...for one purpose only: To prepare them for a massive attack on Israel.

"And here we are again in a war which we did not want, which we did not initiate.

"This war was forced upon us," she said.

She said that after the 1948 and 1967 wars, Israel had refused to return to the pre-war borders "because these borders were washed away in blood.

"Now they've washed away borders" again, she said.

Mrs. Meir said the Soviets did not act out of love for the Arab people but rather for their own "callous interest."

"Therefore, thousands upon thousands upon thousands of Egyptians and Syrians can be killed and numbers of Israelis can be killed, and they don't care," she said. "That's the most terrible aspect of the entire situation.

"We are small and we are surrounded...a nation that has decided to live. And if we will have to pay for it, we will. This is a people that won't give in.

"Giving up means destruction of our sovereignty and our people," Mrs. Meir said. "We will fight with all that is in us. We are confident of victory."

Since the war of 1967, which the Israelis won decisively in six days, she said Israel has been seeking without success to negotiate a peace settlement with the Arabs. She said the current war will not change Israel's attitude.

"For six years, we have been saying like parrots, 'Let us sit down and negotiate as equals,' " she said.

"We will have nothing new after this war in terms of a proposal."

She blamed the Soviet Union for preparing the Arab states to attack Israel, saying the Soviets trained and equipped them to strive for the destruction of the Jewish state.

Mrs. Meir said the Soviet Union has sent 120 warplanes to Egypt and Syria in the past few days.

She declined to discuss Israel's intentions in its northern offensive toward the Syrian capital of Damascus. She predicted the fighting against Egypt in the Sinai Peninsula "will probably continue for a few days."

U.S. to replace Israeli losses

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States has decided to replace at least some of the jet fighters, tanks and other equipment lost by Israel in the first week of the Middle East war, U.S. government sources said Saturday.

The decision, said to have been made on Friday, was cloaked in unusually heavy secrecy because of its sensitive nature. The Defense Department refused any comment on the subject.

COME AND GET IT

Woodruff "Wino" DeSilva serves up some of his special chili sauce at the annual Cucamonga Chili Appreciation Society's cookoff dinner in La Verne Saturday.

Cooking champ warms up for world chili cookoff

By PAT SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — It was billed as a warmup for the World Chili Cookoff, but no competitors materialized, so Cucamonga's Woodruff "Wino" DeSilva had the kitchen to himself Saturday at the Cucamonga Chili Appreciation Society's fifth annual dinner.

Nattily attired in spotless white clothes, DeSilva put the final touch on 45 quarts of "medium-hot Mexican chili" that had been simmering since Friday for a hungry crowd of some 50 society members gathered at the Foothill Terrace Mobilehome Park.

DeSilva, a former aviation director at Ontario International Airport and a blue ribbon pickle curing champ at the Los Angeles County Fair, has been concocting chili of "always secret" recipes for the past seven years in hopes of capturing the championship.

He's come in as a runner-up once and will try to better that record on Nov. 3 in Terlingua, Tex., as a representative of the Cucamonga chili fanciers.

DeSilva starts with "the toughest beef you can get," uses only New Mexico chili powder (it has a nice aftertaste and aroma), adds a number of spices and herbs including the Biblical woodruff, and as a final fillip tosses in some Cold Duck.

DeSilva discovered the uses of champagne and earned himself the nickname "Wino" in 1971 when, on a flight to the world event, the pilot strayed off-course, got chased by a Mexican fighter plane and finally arrived late for the cookoff.

Forced to figure out some quick way to get his beef defrosted and on the stove, he grabbed the handiest liquid, some Cucamonga bubbly, doused the meat and began kneading it.

The trick worked, the name stuck and another bit of lore was added to the colorful history of championship chili-making.

Jet crash kills four servicemen

RAMSTEIN, Germany (UPI) —A U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter crashed Saturday into an American armored personnel carrier during an Allied war exercise, killing its two pilots and two other U.S. servicemen.

An Air Force spokesman said the Phantom crashed during a ground support mission for American troops in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) "Reforger" maneuver. About 37,000 United States, West German and Canadian troops are participating in the exercise in the Bavarian region.

40 colleges to send aides to MSAC fair

WALNUT — Over 40 California private and public colleges and universities will be represented during Mt. San Antonio College's "College Fair" Nov. 1.

College and university representatives will meet with MSAC students from 10 a.m. to noon in the Student Center to discuss transfer programs, course prerequisites, financial aid, housing, costs and application deadlines.

U.S. hits Arab reports on U.S. war involvement

By TOM BRYAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The State Department, expressing "serious regret" at Jordan's commitment of troops to the Middle East war, said Saturday the United States was concerned by false reports of U.S. military involvement in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

"It is most disturbing to us that we continue to get and read false reports of American military involvement," department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told reporters. He described the accounts as "reminiscent of the big lie technique employed in 1967" by Arab nations during the Six Day war.

McCloskey said there was "no truth whatsoever" to two recent dispatches from Arab countries —"one that a United States aircraft was reportedly involved in Syria and second that a Phantom jet bearing United States Air Force markings was shot down while fighting over Damascus."

"It is most disturbing to us that these allegations emanate from Arab quarters where they ask the U.S. on a number of occasions to help negotiate a basis for a settlement (and) at the same time vilifying us according to these reports," he said.

McCloskey said the Arab appeals for help in negotiating a settlement came last weekend during Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's discussions with foreign ministers at the U.N. General Assembly.

Kissinger reviewed the Middle East situation Saturday with President Nixon, and met with visiting Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban; Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and a group of top-level U.S. military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers known as the Washington Special Action Group.

McCloskey said the Saudi Arabian foreign minister delivered a message from King Faisal to Nixon when he met Kissinger on Friday. The contents of the note were not disclosed.

The spokesman said there was "no basis" to reports that the Saudi government had threatened to break diplomatic relations or cut off oil supplies to the United States.

Move to keep Haldeman out of jury probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —While President Nixon's attorneys plotted their next step in the Watergate tapes battle, a lawyer for former presidential aide H.R. Haldeman said Saturday he will seek to keep his client from testifying again before federal grand juries probing 1972 campaign tactics.

Frank H. Strickler said he and John J. Wilson, Haldeman's other attorney, would ask U. S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica to quash the grand jury suppoenas requested by special prosecutor Archibald Cox. He said the government's requests for Haldeman 's testimony were becoming slightly "oppressive."

White House lawyers meanwhile were reported studying the legal question which was almost certain to result in a Supreme Court showdown — whether President Nixon can be compelled to give up tapes of his Watergate-related conversations. A presidential spokesman said Saturday there was no indication what action the attorneys would take.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Friday that Nixon could not use the claim of executive privilege to keep the tapes from Cox. The court ordered the President to turn them over to Sirica for judicial review and stayed its order for five days in anticipation of a White House appeal.

Haldeman, former White House chief of staff who resigned under pressure last April 30, has been subpoenaed to testify before two grand juries: one which convened after the break-in and bugging of the Democratic National Committee headquarters and a new grand jury has been formed to investigate charges of irregularities in campaign financing and political "dirty tricks."

Unless Sirica quashes the subpoena, Haldeman was expected to come before at least one of the grand juries Wednesday and testify through Friday.

Libya frees two Guerrillas who took Jews hostage

BEIRUT (UPI) —Libya has released the two Palestinian guerrillas who took Soviet Jewish emigrants hostage in Austria Sept. 28 so that they can take part in the war against Israel, Beirut newspapers said Saturday.

The newspapers Al Moharrer and Al Sharq, both with close guerrilla connections, said the two men—Abou Ali and Abou Selim—were freed Friday. They were allowed to leave for an unidentified Arab country "to take part in the fighting against Israel."

Early election . . .

that was given to Senate Bill 230, which was signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan Oct. 2, was reflected by confusion even in the Los Angeles County Registrar's office.

While the registrar's public information office was saying that school boards also will be effected by the earlier election date, the election section was telling school districts that they probably would not be.

An official of the registrar's office said he had not yet seen a copy of the law, and therefore he could not say whether school districts would be effected.

"I understand it's a very complicated bill," he explained. "I'll have to study it."

He later reported that it was his understanding school districts were covered by the new law, at least until further interpretations.

The next school trustee elections are in 1975.

As for the municipal elections, there apparently was no confusion, only dismay.

"I wish I had known sooner," San Dimas Councilman D.F. Hooper said. "But it's really no inconvenience. I'll just have to make up my mind a month earlier whether I'll run."

Inconvenience, however, was a main objection of Mrs. Bertye Smith, Claremont councilwoman.

"The filing period comes the same time as the Christmas holidays," she explained. "Particularly for a woman who is also a homemaker, it interferes with the holidays."

Mrs. Smith said she "groaned with dismay" when she learned she would have one month less to make up her mind whether to run. But she admitted that the new law would be tougher this year on challengers who would have to conduct briefer, more intensive campaigns.

One of the prospective candidates who saw no inconvenience with the new state law was Chino Councilman Leonard Frketich, who said he was notified in plenty of time.

"All it means is a readjustment of my schedule," he said. "A month won't make that much difference."

In Claremont, Deputy City Manager Norman King thought the earlier election date would work out well for the city.

"It would give newly elected members an extra month to study the budget," he explained. "Until now, a new councilman, elected in April, had to familiarize himself with all those intricate figures in two months."

U.S. orders oil cutback

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The administration, hoping to stave off fuel shortages this winter, ordered mandatory allocations of jet fuel, diesel oil and fuel oil for home heating. Airlines immediately announced a cutback in flights.

The Interior Department will administer the program, which will allow wholesalers as much of the oil as they purchased during the 1972 calendar year. If there is not as much diesel and fuel oil available, they will receive a supply proportional to their share last year.

Walnut board to study goals of instruction

WALNUT — Ancient Greece held that the well-rounded person was the ideal of society, and modern education in Walnut schools may follow the same principle if the school district's Board of Trustees supports a policy drawn up by a community committee.

High on the agenda of Monday's 8 p.m. meeting of the board in the multipurpose room of Walnut High School, a recommended district policy statement of instructional goals is due for its first reading. Mrs. Bettye Gilpin, chairwoman of the steering committee which directed the study that led to the proposed statement, will make a special presentation to the board.

Noting that "the primary goal of the school district should be the maximum intellectual development of its students," the report goes on to list ways in which this goal is to be reached. Among other things, it points out development of communication and reasoning skills, preparation of students to enter the world of work, development of student price and sense of self-worth, understanding of democratic ideas and ideals, a capacity to cope with changes in the world, self-management, and the use of leisure time.

Other items on the agenda include discussion of needs and requirements for a bond election, possible adoption of a "school community resource assistant" job description, and possible approval of applications for federal funds.

Funds would be sought for three projects, under the terms of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) Title III. A conservation curriculum and career education program would be outlined with $38,371; staff, equipment and materials for an early childhood education materials development center are the topic of a request for $29,624, while a multimedia materials development and career training center would be supported by $48,250.

Valley lawmakers like choice of Ford

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Rep. Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., Saturday paid warm tribute to Gerald Ford, President Nixon's choice to replace Spiro Agnew who resigned Wednesday as Vice President.

"I think Gerry will be very good for the country," Pettis said. "I think he will perform a great service for the President and for his country by being able to spend his full time telling the President what will sell and won't sell.

"He knows what people are thinking on the issues facing the country. Very few men in our country know this better than Ford."

Two other congressmen from Pomona Valley districts also expressed their satisfaction with the Ford nomination.

Said Rep. George Brown Jr., D-38th Dist.:

"I'm satisfied that the President made a good nomination. I feel Congressman Ford has respect for the integrity of and dedication for the welfare of the American people."

Brown, who would have preferred either Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Montana, Senate Majority Leader, or Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., Speaker of the House of Representatives, fill the vacancy created by Agnew's resignation, said he will "vote to confirm the nomination of Ford unless there is some information revealed during the hearings which would cause me to change my mind."

Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., likewise lauded Ford, but said he will come under close scrutiny by the House Judiciary Committee, which reportedly will hold hearings on the nomination before making a recommendation to the full House.

"Even though he is a friend, that does not relieve us from scrutinizing his qualifications very carefully," Wiggins said.

However, neither Brown nor Wiggins were as high in their praise of Ford as was Pettis, who predicted shortly after the news of Agnew's resignation that the House Minority Leader from Michigan would probably be Mr. Nixon's nominee.

"I can't think of a better guy to have sitting along side of the President telling him what he thinks answers are to the country's problems," Pettis said. "I think the President has been isolated in this area.

"Gerry's not only run for office every two years, he also goes all over the country every week talking on behalf of candidates. This gives him a unique advantage on assessing the country's moods.

"From the standpoint of the government, and particularly the executive branch, the President has not had this kind of advice in recent years. Agnew did not have this kind of background, and I think the President will find he has a real polished diamond in Gerry Ford as he faces some very different problems in the months ahead."

Unlike many, Pettis does not feel that Ford's "greatest advantage would be as liaison between the White House and the Congress."

"All kinds of people do that," Pettis noted. "His greatest advantage will be as a counselor to the President, and one who will be believed because he is fresh from the people."

Pettis, Brown and Wiggins agreed (as did most others throughout the country) that Ford will have little difficulty obtaining Congressional approval for the nation's No. 2 political spot.

"Of all the potential nominees, he's probably the one who will find it easiest to get approval of the House and Senate," Brown said.

"I do not know a Democrat, and this is especially true of Democratic leaders, who does not like Gerry Ford," Pettis said. "And that's unusual for a man who has been in public life for 25 years to have so many friends on both sides of the aisle and in both Houses."

California's two Democratic senators—Alan Cranston and John Tunney—also viewed the nominee favorably. However, both men said Ford should be "carefully examined" before judgment.

"Although Sen. Tunney feels that Mr. Ford is not likely to have difficulty in being confirmed, he does think his background and qualifications should be examined—especially campaign finances because of Agnew and Watergate," a spokesman said.

The spokesman also said that Sen. Tunney served with Ford in the House in the past, and that "he (Tunney) has a high regard for Ford and thinks he was an effective floor leader."

Cranston said he plans to meet with business, civic and California GOP leaders to discuss the Ford nomination before making a decision.

President's war power reduced?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House passed and sent to President Nixon Friday a bill limiting presidential war-making powers to a maximum of 90 days without congressional consent. Threats of a veto were repeated by Republican leaders during debate.

The bill passed by a vote of 238 to 123, not enough to override a presidential veto.

The Senate earlier had given the bill a 75-20 margin, well above the two thirds necessary for an override.

FREIGHTLINER DEDICATION — Company executives fill the stand as hundreds of employes, their families and friends, fill a large building at the new Chino plant of Freightliner Corp. to hear dedicatory speeches. Tours of the plant were conducted for some 3,000 visitors during an 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. open house. Children were given balloons and visitors were served refreshments.

3,000 attend Chino Freightliner rites

CHINO — Some 3,000 men, women and children toured the new Freightliner Corp. facility at Schaefer and Monte Vista avenues, Saturday, listened to dedicatory speeches during morning ceremonies and accepted balloons and refreshments during day-long open house tours.

It was a festive occasion. Blue skies and warm sunshine added to the party atmosphere, as did numerous women employes wearing long dresses and corsages who served as hostesses.

Mayor Bob McLeod, speaking during dedication ceremonies at 11:30 a.m., pledged the cooperation of the city "in making this a successful location for Freightliner."

A. Gordon Clark of Cleveland, Ohio, vice president of sales and marketing, told his listeners: "You are the people who built this great truck and it is second to none in the industry."

Freightliner President Kenneth W. Self pledged to "maintain our position as No. 1 citizens in Chino" and added that he "greatly enjoyed meeting the grandchildren of a number of Freightliner employes today."

Self briefly outlined Freightliner history in California, saying the Pomona plant was built in 1960 and the Chino plant begun five months ago. "The reason for the move was simple," he explained. "The market was out there and we were out of capacity in Pomona."

Turning to Clark, Self said: "You sell em. We'll build em.'

The Chino plant is part of a $10 million Freightliner expansion program.

It will enable the firm to increase production at its three U. S. plants to over 60 units a day by the beginning of 1974. The Chino plant is sceduled to reach 22 units a day, with a maximum capacity of 30 a day.

5 finalists on Nixon's Veep list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon reviewed the Middle East war with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, briefed Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford and then flew to Camp David, Md., Saturday for an overnight stay with his family.

A White House official meanwhile reported that Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson were among the five finalists on the President's list of leading candidates for vice president before Ford was chosen.

The official, who refused to be identified, said the other two finalists —previously mentioned in widespread speculation — were former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

This official said White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr. made two telephone calls to Connally before the President decided early Friday morning to nominate Ford. The two discussed the vice presidency, he said, but Haig never relayed a firm offer of the job to the former Democratic governor of Texas.

Hong Kong flu may attack U.S. again, but in disguise

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR

ATLANTA (UPI) —The Hong kong flubug that felled millions of Americans in the fluenza virus, quite different may reappear this winter in a new guise.

The villian is a type of influenze virus quite different from the A-2 or Asian strain that first struck this country five years ago. It is known at the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) as the B-Hong Kong-5-72 strain.

Like the old A-2 Hong Kong virus, the B-Hong Kong was first isolated from a patient in Hong Kong last year. And like the flu of five years ago, it represents an antigenic shift that makes the general population susceptible to it.

Basically, it is almost a new influenza virus against which most persons have almost no natural immunity.

But unlike 1968 when a protective vaccine did not become available until late in the flu season, pharmaceutical houses already have a specific vaccine ready to combat the new Hong Kong flu.

Dr. Robert Rubin, an epidemiologist at the NCDC, said the new flu virus has already made widespread attacks in Japan. The strain, or ones similar to it, also have been identified in Australia, England and Germany. So far, however, it has not been found in this country, he said.

Rubin said it was too early to predict what kind of influenza season this country will have. But he added that since the B-Hong Kong is a new strain "the possibility exists that the disease could be extensive."

He said six pharmaceutical houses are manufacturing protective vaccine and that the supply appears to be sufficient.

"We have not received any reports of widespread shortages," he added.

Unlike past years when a single shot of vaccine gave protection against the A and B influenza strains, this flu season two injections will be necessary, Rubin said. One of the shots contains specific antibodies to combat the new Hong Kong flu.

State high court will hear redistrict plan

SAN FRANCISCO — The State Supreme Court will hold oral arguments Oct. 30 on the reapportionment plan proposed by its special Masters Panel.

The panel, composed of three retired judges, submitted its plan to the court Aug. 31 after extensive hearings.

The plan, as it now stands, would unite a heretofore politically fragmented Pomona Valley. Most of the Valley would be placed in one Assembly and one State Senate district, while the entire area would be included in a single congressional district.

According to the Associated Press, more than 120 letters, petitions and resolutions and at least 16 friend-of-the-court briefs were submitted to the court between Aug. 31 and Oct. 1, with most opposing some parts of the plan.

The court will hear arguments on three consolidated cases which seek reapportionment of the 43 congressional, 40 State Senate and 80 Assembly districts.

Most opponents of the plan reportedly criticized realignment of districts which in some cases split counties or communities.

Pomona meeting

Comprehensive RTD proposal to be aired

POMONA — Consultant recommendations for the Southern California Rapid Transit District development of a comprehensive public transportation system will be discussed at a public meeting here Monday.

The meeting will be held in the City Council Chambers and will start at 7:30 p.m. It will precede the council's regular, 8 p.m. meeting.

Moderator for the RTD presentation will be Louis Collier, community relations representative. Other personnel from RTD and consultants also are expected to attend.

The presentation will include slides, with information packets being distributed.

Asst. City Administrator Joseph Korpsak has recommended that after the presentation, members of the audience be given the opportunity to ask questions.

'Inexpressibles'

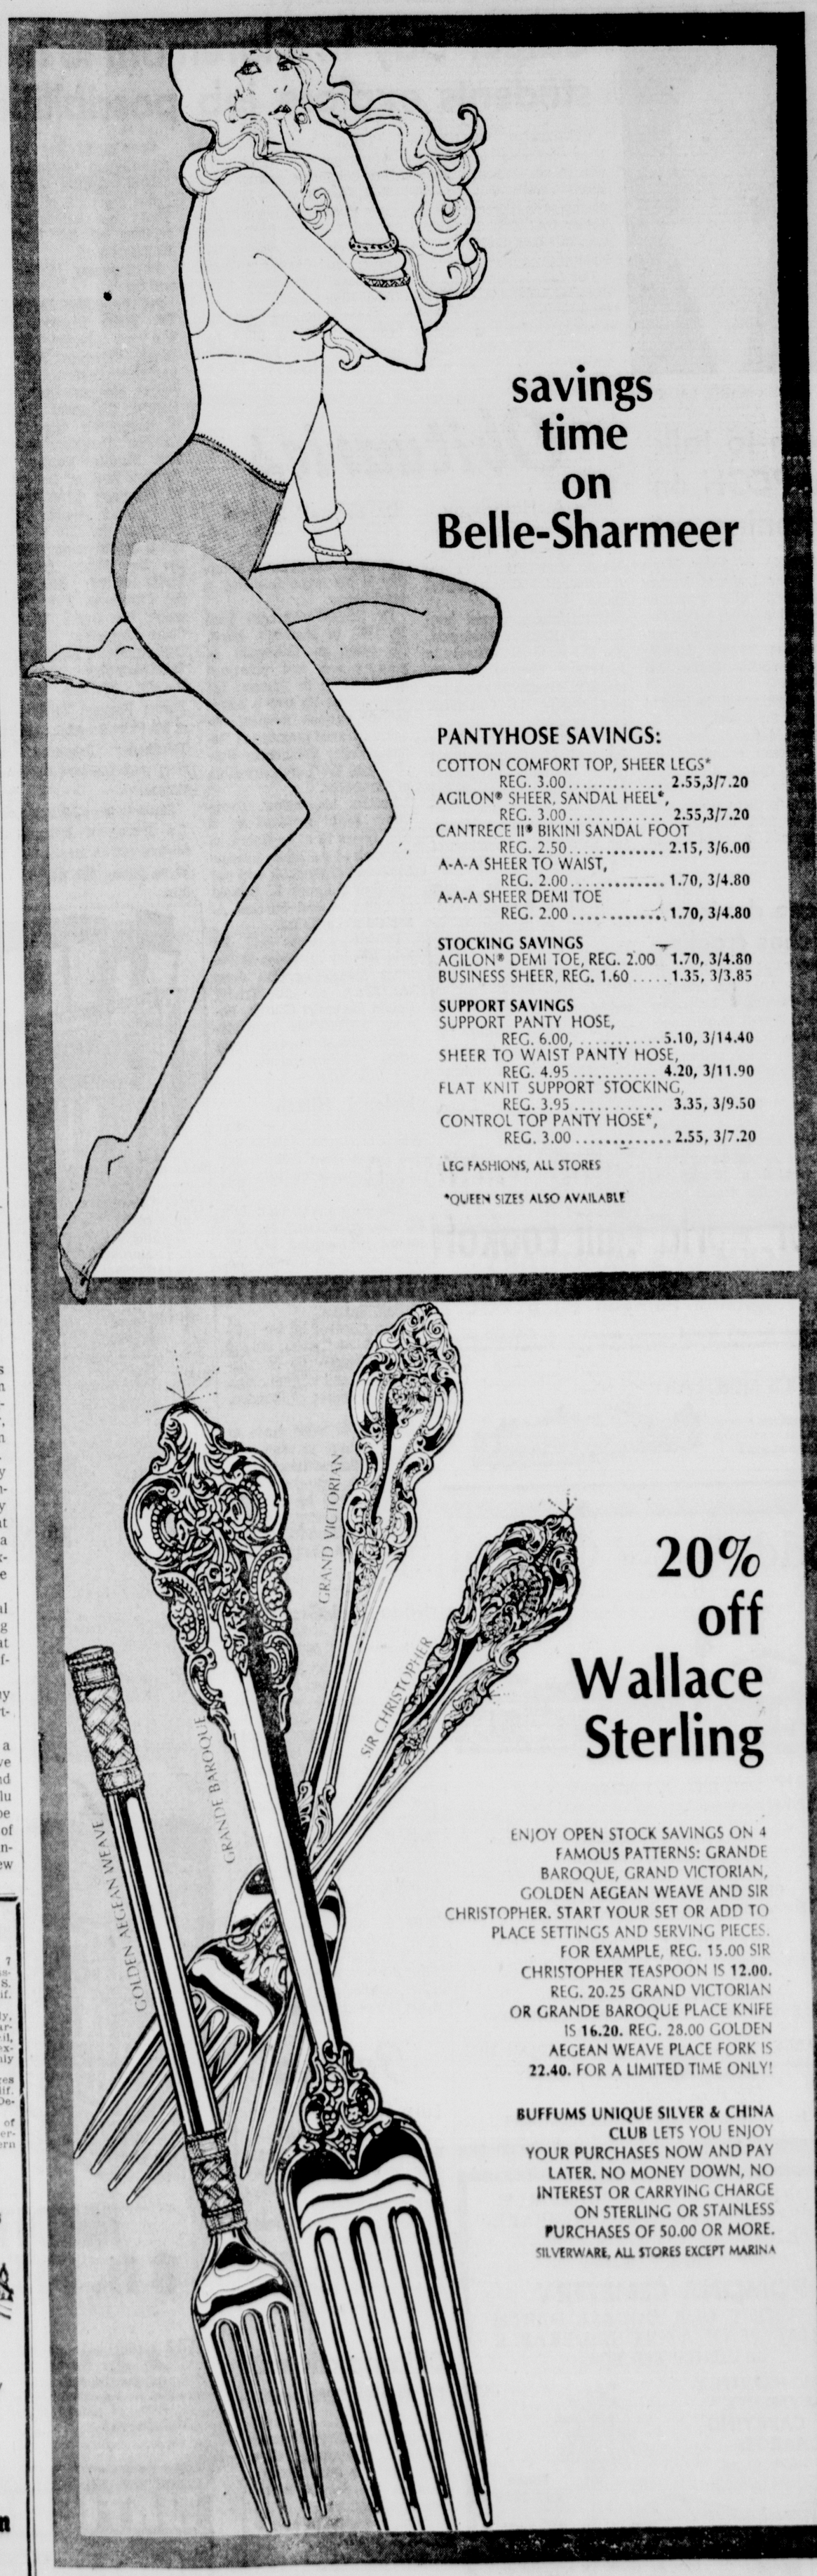

In the Victorian Age, it was considered highly improper to call undergarments by their right names; instead, they were known as, "in-expressibles." Later, the term "unmentionables" came into use.

Economy topic of Scripps talk

CLAREMONT — Paul Swain Havens, president-emeritus of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., will speak on "Phase I . . . to Phase IV" at the Scripps College Founders Day Convocation Oct. 23.

Havens, who was an assistant professor of humanities at Scripps from 1930 to 1936, explained his title would encompass Scripps from its early days to the present and future.

The convocation, which will be held at 11 a.m. in Balch Auditorium, is open to the public at no charge.

SISTER MARIE LAUX

Nun to talk at PCGH on listening art

POMONA — Sister Marie Laux, Our Lady of Victory missionary, will speak on "Improving Your Art of Listening" at the Tuesday meeting of the Pomona Catholic Girls High School Parents Association.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the school.

Sister Marie is presently the diocesan consultant for religious education in San Bernardino for San Diego Diocese, northern office. She has a bachelor degree in sociology and a master's in theology.

Space device catches crooks

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — An ultra sensitive device developed by space agency scientists to alert doctors to blood pressure changes in heart patients is being developed as a foil for burglars.

Set up in buildings or on aircraft, the device sets off an alarm when a person approaches. A company has been granted a license to manufacture the device as a burglar alarm.

Career Day in Claremont to help students explore job possibilities

CLAREMONT — Job options available to students who do not pursue a professional career will be displayed at a Career Fair at Taylor Hall Oct. 17 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.

The fair is aimed at students and parents of Claremont high and junior high schools, and also to students of other schools who wish to attend.

The fair is sponsored by the Claremont Vocational Advisory Committee, composed of Bud Cox, Bankers Life; LeRoy Hughes, Caco-Pacific Division, Amerace Corp.; Richard Black, FMC, Wayne Division; and Lynda Veatch, vocational coordinator, Claremont High School.

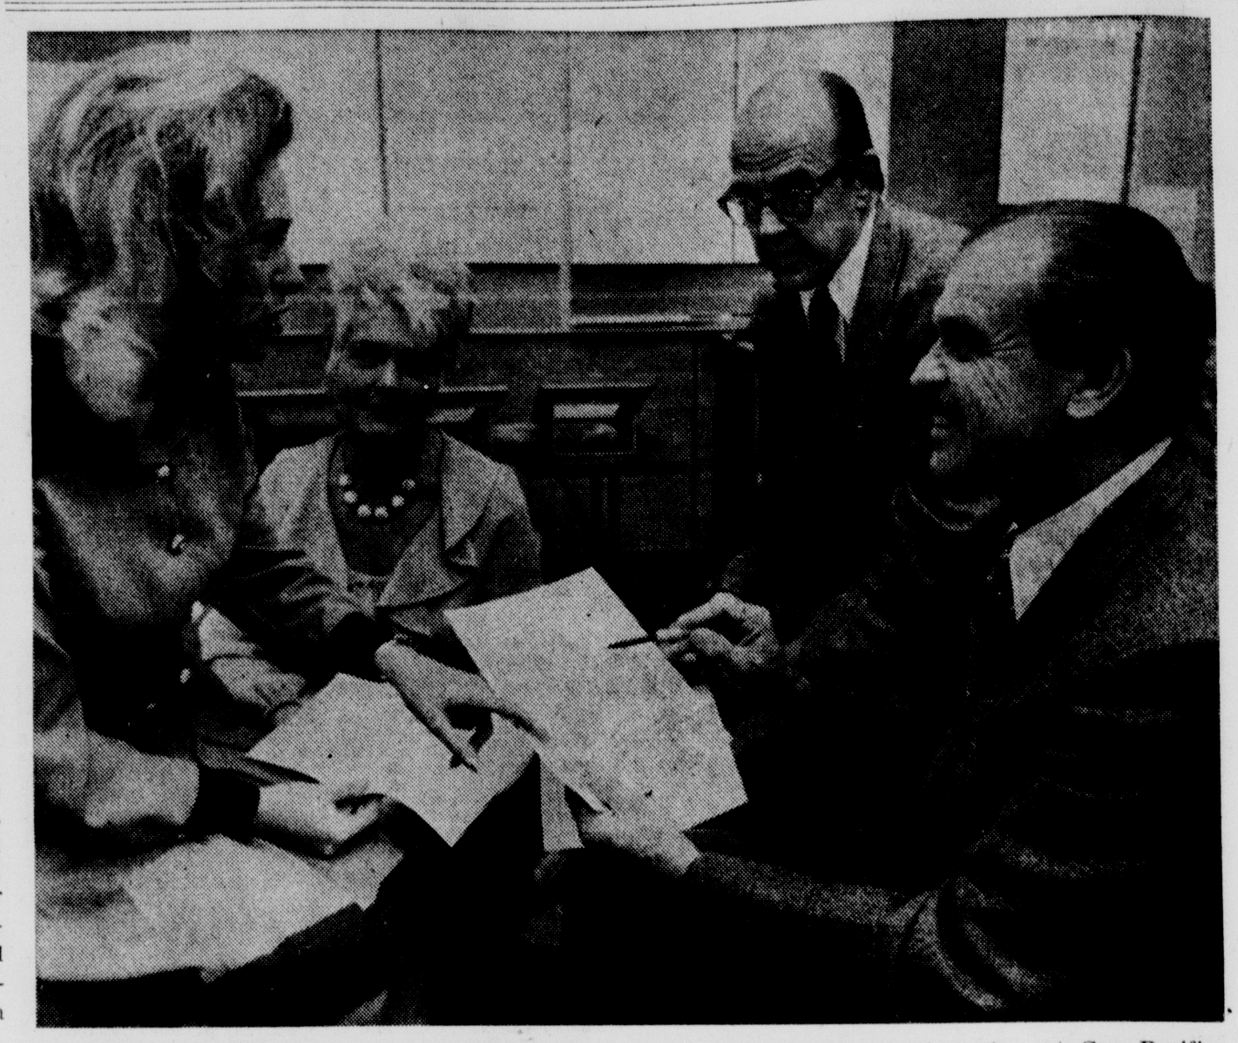

Those attending the fair will see training films presented by the 31 participating agencies or firms.

Caco-Pacific has supplied materials for Claremont High School industrial students to make souvenirs of the fair. These are half-dollar size replicas of the Claremont Wolfpack head.

Participating in the fair will be:

Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Dr. Louis Serrano; FMC, Wayne division, Richard Black; Claremont Police Department; California Highway Patrol; Montclair Plaza; Griswold's; Claremont Chamber of Commerce; General Dynamics; Claremont Post Office; Rosedale Nursery; Baldy View Regional Occupational Program; Citrus College; Federal Aviation Administration; the City of Claremont; Radio station KWOW; the Don Martin School of Radio and TV; Caco Pacific; the Claremont Fire Department; the Bryan School of Court Reporting; the state Department of Highways and Transportation; the Army, Navy, Marines, and Air Force; Pomona Valley Community Hospital; General Telephone; Claremont Courier; and Southern California Edison.

Students from El Roble and La Puerta intermediate schools will be transported by buses during the day to the fair.

Britain's IRA bombing blitz: Just the start

By WILLIAM F. WRIGHT

LONDON (UPI) —Police notices in the cobbled courtyard of St. Paul's Cathedral warn darkly of "parcel bombs," lending an air of unreality to the picture postcard surroundings of blue-helmeted bobbies and bright-red doubledecker buses.

A mail sorter lies buried in a north London cemetery, driven to suicide by his fear of handling letter bombs. A pretty blond secretary still nursing facial scars nervously contemplates the prospect of opening mail again.

These two were among the first victims of a wave of bombings in Britain which began on a warm summer night when a tiny firebomb concealed in a fliptop cigarette box spluttered to life in the luggage section of London's Harrod's department store in fashionable Knightsbridge.

The Aug. 18 incident caused little damage. But in succeeding weeks bombs hidden in gaily-colored shopping bags in London and other English cities and mailed in hollowed-out books to British embassies abroad have maimed unsuspecting victims, destroyed property worth thousands of pounds and raised the specter of urban terror spreading from the scarred streets of Northern Ireland to the peaceful heartland of England.

Yet no panic grips the nation.

Londoners evacuate rail and subway stations closed by bomb scares in much the same orderly way they filed into subway shelters during the World War II blitz.

In the City of London the capital's inner enclave housing the nation's financial institutions, legions of bowler-hatted commuters hurry with furled umbrellas past police notices proclaiming:

"WARNING! Letter - parcel bombs. Take care. If in doubt do not handle. Contact police immediately."

To the despair of police most Britons have dismissed the danger.

A lethal letter bomb addressed to No. 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Edward Heath's official residence, languished in a "pending" basket for hours before a suspicious secretary summoned bomb disposal experts, who defused it. The device was concealed in a book about Gustav Mahler, the musically inclined Heath's favorite composer.

Four days and seven letter bombs later, on Aug. 24, Joanna Knight, an attractive 25 - year - old secretary, slit open a bulky white envelope in her 22nd-floor office in the London Stock Exchange. The envelope exploded in a white flash, blooduying her face, hands and legs.

Miss Knight's ordeal terrified Thomas Eddington, a 54-year-old mail sorter at the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC). Four days later Eddington went into the bathroom of his London apartment and slit his throat. A coroner's jury ruled he committed suicide after his wife testified he was "sick and shaky" with the fear of handling a letter bomb. The last words he spoke before he died were: "Letter bombs. Letter bombs."

Miss Knight, still bearing facial scars, left for a Mediterranean vacation recently, tearfully telling her parents and friends she needed "time to think" before returning to work and "facing up to opening the mail again."

Amid the tears there have been some laughs.

Two commuters were accidentally locked in an office at London's Victoria railway station after a bomb blast there. Bomb disposal experts who gingerly opened a suspect letter from Liverpool found a soccer pool check for $36,385.

A bomb explosion in London's Oxford Street shopping district blew a man's trousers off leaving him red-faced but unhurt.

Army bomb disposal officers have warned would-be women bombers not to wear nylon panties because they could cause a spark and set off a bomb.

The bombing wave already has its heroes.

In the industrial Midlands city of Birmingham, Gregory Butler, 14, calmly defused a seven-pound time bomb by disconnecting its alarm clock triggering device.

Scotland Yard officials have linked the bombings to a small group of British-based Irish men and women operating under the provisional wing of the Irish Republicn Army (IRA), which is waging a similar campaign in Northern Ireland to oust the British from the province.

The bombings in Britain remain a far cry from Northern Ireland, rocked by more than 3,500 explosions in the four years of violence that has claimed close to 900 lives.

But Britain's Economist magazine said in a recent editorial things are likely to get worse before they get better.

"We are just at the beginning," the Economist said.

Metropolitan Opera at 90 fears for its future

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Metropolitan Opera—largest of the world's performing arts institutions—is facing up to its 90th birthday in the bitter knowledge that it may not survive to celebrate its centennial.

Opened in October, 1883, by 65 millionaires who failed to endow it against future financial woes, the Met has lived on handouts ever since. Despite increased giving by individual patrons, foundations, corporations and government (for a total of $4.9 million last year), the Met is $2.8 million in the red and its actual working capital deficit stands today at $5.5 million.

The ironic aspect of the venerable institution's plight is that its product has rarely been of higher quality. The administration of the genial new general manager, Schuyler Chapin, promises a new Golden Age of musical excellence and outstanding chaices —many of them American.

Met finance director William H. Hadley describes the company's $24 million annual budget as "out of hand." In fact, the Met has never had a manageable budget since its disastrously expensive move in 1966 from its original Broadway house to its present $45.7 million Lincoln Center home.

"We've got to find new sources of income and pass a bigger hat," Hadley said in an interview. "If we have a deficit like last year twice in a row we'll be out of business. We've actually consumed our endowment and we're borrowing on our subscription money for this season and on the property where the old Met stood."

Uneconomic business

Opera—a notoriously uneconomic business—has suffered excessively from rising costs and militant unionism. The Met, which deals with 14 unions, faces contract negotiations again in 1975. Meanwhile, according to Hadley, no one knows where the Met will get the money to pay wage increases to 1,000 employes due in the last year of the current three-year contracts.

"We talk about raising ticket prices, but how can we? We raised ticket prices 20 per cent only three years ago, and $17.50 for orchestra seats seems to be the limit," Hadley said.

Ticket sales, which average 90 per cent of capacity, provide only 60 per cent of the Met's budget. Endowment income derives from a mere $7 million —most of it acquired recently as a bequest from Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. Government grants are the lifeblood of opera in Europe, but Washington and New York State gave only $669,500 to the Met during the 1972-73 season.

The Met gets $400,000 annually in rent from the site of the original opera house, about $600,000 from the Metropolitan Opera Guild, which was created to pull the Met through the Depression years of the 1930s, and $125,000 from the Metropolitan Opera National Council. Eighty-nine business firms give the Met at least $5,000 each annually, and Texaco pays $270,000 a year for its Saturday opera broadcasts.

"We've got to get into pay television and video cassettes, but it seems five years away from the technological viewpoint," Hadley said. "We have to learn how to do it well first, and that means getting foundation funds for experimentation."

Cutting corners

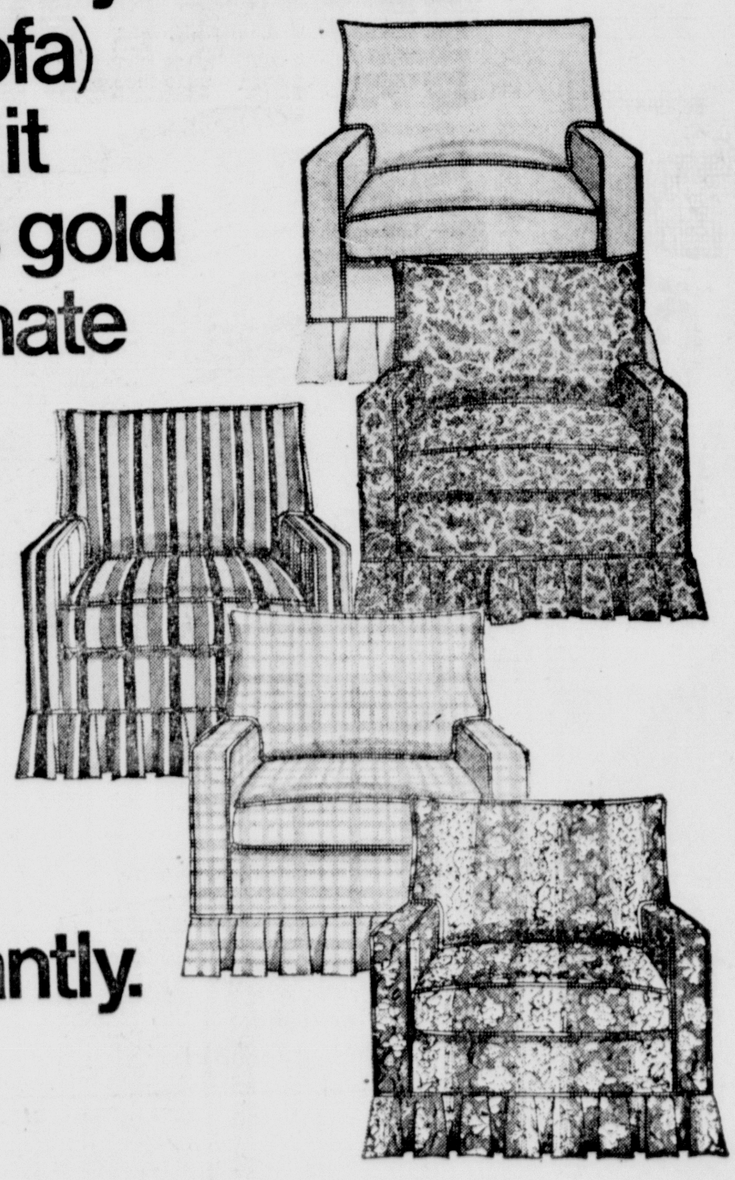

Hadley and Chapin are cutting corners wherever they can. The 50-year-old general manager, formerly a trouble shooter for Lincoln Center, already has announced the cancellation of a new production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" this season, for a saving of $200,000, and there is talk of hiking the price of the Met's annual spring tour to Boston, Cleveland, Atlanta, Memphis, Dallas, Minneapolis and Detroit.

"We're passing through a difficult stage in economics, but the Met has weathered four previous financial crises in its career," Chapin said. "We must learn to live within our means."

Jobs open in forest: don't expect wages

FRESNO (UPI) —The Sierra National Forest has jobs available with free meals and lodging, fresh air and plenty of idyllic scenery —but no pay.

Unsurprisingly, there are some who have taken the volunteers jobs in the new program authorized by Congress.

Forest Information Officer Steve Beck says the program got underway last spring when volunteers were sought because the Forest Service lacked the funds or manpower to accomplish certain tasks.

Specifically, Beck says the meager amounts of money budgeted for trail maintenance were barely enough for the major trails and as a result secondary trails were deteriorating. Campground maintenance was also underfunded.

The first flood of volunteers were teen agers with little or no experience. But before the summer began more than a dozen talented people had applied.

Four college students, Mike Windsor, Larry Bailey, Eric Carpenter and Richard Grant, are maintaining trails in the Minarets Wilderness, removing fallen trees and rocks from trails.

Two women, Atwater high school teacher Nancy Knight and San Francisco secretary Susie Herzig, are conducting a trail condition survey in the Minarets to determine improvements needed, relocation of paths and the estimated cost.

Ms. Knight, a member of the Sierra Club, says the summer in the back country has given her an appreciation for wilderness management problems.

Miss Herzig is more specific about her sojourn in the Sierra.

"A secretarial job in the city just couldn't compete with a summer in the wilderness, so I quit my job and here I am," she said.

The volunteers are performing other work beside trail and campground maintenance.

Humboldt State College forestry major Rod Robinson performed some office work on a timber inventory and is now working on a timber sale preparation near Huntington Lake.

Tom Martin and Bob Toll, Fresno State University students, worked on an engineering survey crew out of Bass Lake.

Joyce Bailey, youngest of the volunteers at 16, answers the phone and handles the forest service radio at the Minarets work center office. She also records fire weather data twice a day and issues campfire and wilderness permits.

There is even a father-and-son team. Bud Thompson, 38, of Los Banos, was camping at Big Sandy in July when motorcyclists roared into the campground stirring up dust and creating a ruckus.

Thompson, who had been unemployed, said he was "sick and tired of the way people were abusing the forest." So he asked rangers about the volunteer program and was given a campsite and the duties of keeping Summerdale campground clean, collecting fees and resolving disputes among campers.

Thompson recently got a paying job as work foreman for the neighborhood Youth Corps program and his son, Douglas, 17, took over as caretaker at the campground.

Beck says the jobs, while without economic benefits, provide experience to those planning careers in conservation or forest work, especially for the volunteers under 18 who can't find work elsewhere.

Most of the volunteers will return to school or jobs in September but Beck says some have indicated they would like to stay "until the snow flies."

He says anyone interested in working in the forest can contact Jack Weddle, manpower development coordinator, at (209) 487-5141, or write him at Sierra National Forest, 1130 "O" St., Fresno, Calif.

Beck says the forest is particularly looking for typists or researchers interested in compiling a history of the forest. Travel expenses will be paid to those volunteers accepted.

Alvin Ailey dancers to perform at UCLA

LOS ANGELES — The Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater will perform in Royce Hall, UCLA, at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights and at 2.30 and 8 p.m. next Sunday.

Formed in 1958, this multiracial company now enjoys a reputation for unusual repertoire. It originally was called the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater. The change of name followed a triumphant 1970 European tour that included debuts in six cities in the Soviet Union, a two-week London season at the Sadler's Wells Theater and a guest engagement at the International Festival of the Dance in Paris at which it won a gold medal. Thereupon Ailey's group opened a two-week season at the ANTA Theater, New York, and capacity houses elicited an invitation for a two-week booking at the City Center 55th Street Theater. Following three successive engagements, the company became a constitutent of City Center of Music and Drama, Inc.

Ailey did choreography for Leonard Berstein's "Mass," which opened the John F. Kennedy Center for the Peforming Arts in Washington, D.C., and for Samuel Barber's "Anthony and Cleopatra," the opening vehicle for the Metropolitan Opera House in Lincoln Center, New York.

Ailey most recently created a ballet for Bizet's "Carmen" at the Met in 1972, and for the world premiere of Virgil Thomson's opera "Lord Byron" at the Julliard Theater in Lincoln Center, he choreographed a full-length ballet.

Donkeys are coming into their own!

STONELEIGH, England (UPI) — Around the swank show ring trotted a perfect English gentleman—bowler hat on graying temples, smart conservative gray suit. And trotting with him, no higher than his elbow, was his donkey.

In the oak-shaded outside rings tiny children in full riding kit sat astride smooth gray donkeys. Smart Set debs petted shaggy brown donkeys. Middle-management executives fussed over spotted pinto donkeys. And there was one tiny beast who was almost pink.

There were donkeys, donkeys everywhere at the Donkey Breed Society's fourth championship show—450 of them, gathered from all over England at a vast farm show ground in the English midlands.

There are dog shows, cat shows, cattle shows, and no one thinks there is anything odd about horse shows. So why not a donkey show?

"After all, the donkey has a history going back more than 2,000 years," said Stewart Lawrie of the Donkey Breed Society.

"Christ rode one into Jerusalem, and legend says the donkey has carried the cross on his back ever since. Every donkey is marked with a cross. See that one?"

He pointed into the ring at Sandon Corydon, a five-year-old stallion with a smooth gray coat. From its mane a black line ran ruler-straight along the backbone to the tail: it forked down over the shoulders in a perfect cross.

Yet for all its long history, respectability has never come the poor donkey's way. He is thought of as stupid, which he is not; as obstinate, which he is; as ill-tempered and unfriendly, which he is not.

"They're more like dogs than horses," Lawrie said. "They need friends. They have the most extraordinary affinity with children."

And they seem to captivate everyone they encounter. So seven years ago many captivated people banded together as the DBS and, Lawrie said, "began to give donkeys a name."

Slowly the society began establishing pedigrees. Its first stud book was finished less than a year ago, something the U.S. Mule and Donkey Society has yet to do in the United States.

Now, growing sophistication shows even in donkey names. Old donkeys have simple names like "Eddie" or "Harriet," but the new grand champion, owned and entered by Lady Beaumont, is "Deddington Titania." Last year's winner was a strawberry-colored stallion named "Ruff's Orchard Pericles of the Trumpers.'

Two deputies retire from commission

SACRAMENTO — Two deputy commissioners of the State Real Estate Commission have retired.

They are Coy Sanders of Sacramento and Cy O'Connor of San Francisco.

Sanders, a graduate of both Pomona College and the Claremont Graduate School, had served as senior deputy responsible for screening and reviewing subdivision advertising. He had worked as a real estate broker in Long Beach before joining the state agency.

O'Connor was senior deputy in charge of the San Francisco investigations and complaint operations. He is a graduate of San Francisco University.

Apartment group has speaker

CLAREMONT — Jim Campbell of DuPont Walston, a brokerage firm, will be speaker at the Apartment Association — Mt. Baldy Area monthly meeting here on Wednesday.

The program starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards.

Campbell, a Claremont resident, will show a 17 minute film entitled "Time of Your Life."

Maurice Cox, regional manager of the Oppenheimer Managament Co., will discuss professional money management. He and Campbell will later conduct a question and answer session on financial planning.

Vic Tessier, attorney for the association, will conduct the regular problem clinic. The public is invited to attend

Making Sardinia beautiful

She plays God to island

PORTO CERVO, Sardinia (UPI) —Elena Suarez loves her job. She's playing God to an island.

The sturdy Cuban-born landscape architect brought her green thumb and infectious enthusiasm to Sardinia's austerely beautiful Emerald Coast only two years ago. Already the aspect of its craggy valleys and rugged shores—famed for their wind-carved rock fantasies—has been softened by new verdure.

"Once Sardinia was covered with oak forests, but they were cut down for making charcoal and for railroad ties on the mainland (Italy)," Mrs. Suarez said in an interview. "Then the people on this coast put in goats and sheep and they grazed all the new growth and caused a lot of erosion. In some places nothing would grow but cactus."

Only two of the forests remained until they were destroyed recently by arson—a persistent problem in Sardinia. Considerable reforestation has been initiated in other parts of Sardinia, using mainly pine and eucalyptus, although neither tree is in character with the island's native growth.

Along the 35-mile Emerald Coast, a prime summer playground for the International Set, only native plants are being re-introduced. The resort's developer is the ecology-minded Aga Khan IV, a stickler for maintaining the indigenous character of the area.

The Muslim religious leader's Consortium, which polices the architecture and landscaping of villas, hotels and other developments, has issued a list of banned plants that includes most types of pine, eucalyptus and tall palms. Purchasers of property must agree to protect existing vegetation.

Since goats were eliminated by the conversion of the coast into a resort in 1962, secondary shrubs and trees have gotten a good start. They grow as fast as three feet a year if fertilized. The Consortium has set aside green zones where there will be no building, and roadside reforestation is under way under Mrs. Suarez' direction.

"We are working with the forest service of Italy which supplies plants, especially evergreens such as junipers, and part of the labor," Mrs. Suarez said. "Anything we do here can be an object lesson to other barren islands, such as many of the Greek islands.

The only problem is that Greece cut down its forests 2,000 years ago and erosion is worse there."

Mrs. Suarez, who formerly taught at her alma mater, Louisiana State University, has established a 12-acre nursery where she experiments with suitable plants and produces seedlings for purchase by villa owners. She sits on the Consortium's architectural committee which inspects villa sites to see that trees destroyed by construction are replaced somewhere else, on the property.

"We urge villa owners to use as much native vegation as possible and we don't encourage grass," she said. "It is foreign to the area and becomes an eyesore if not watered regularly. If they insist on grass we ask that it be planted sparingly and where it can't be seen from a distance."

Sardinia has a bountiful enough supply of water as a result of its rainy winters but a dearth of humus soil. There isn't enough livestock to provide natural fertilizer and commercial fertilizers are costly for reforestation on the princely scale of the Aga Khan's project.

"We could use our garbage for fertilizer instead of disposing of it, so I've been to Germany to study a system of composting garbage and I think it can be done here," Mrs. Saurez said. "We also have plenty of seaweed. If we could de-salt it and compost it we could fertilize the whole coast."

"People tell me there didn't used to be any birds on this coast, except seagulls, but now the girls are coming back," Mrs. Saurez said with more than a hint of pride. "There'll be more when we have more vegetation. It's interdependence in nature—the basic principle of ecology—at work."

Legendary fake bank plied bankers' greed

By LEONARD CURRY
UPI Business Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The scenario is pure James Bond:

A manicured, staffed country mansion replete with Rolls Royces and Jaguars in Britain, banks in Switzerland, million-dollar cattle ranches in Panama, rendezvous in Luxembourg, Miami and Las Vegas.

Behind the expensive props, however, stands a Telex rented for $160 a month, a woman who answers the telephone with a crisp "Bank of Sark, Limited" and transfers calls to a man who plays the role of the moment—whether it be Bank of Sark president, director or chief financial officer.

The game being played, allegedly by a syndicate of criminals including members of the Mafia, is designed to convert an estimated $50 billion in stolen and counterfeit securities into dollars, francs, marks, pounds and other legitimate currencies.

The targets of fraudulent schemes to market or otherwise make the bogus securities negotiable are stockbrokers, bankers, businessmen and even government officials in some developing nations.

A complicated network of criminals posing as legitimate businessmen is being exposed in a series of hearings by the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

The subcommittee has been probing stolen securities since facts began emerging that during the Wall Street "paper crunch" of 1969-70 they disappeared in wholesale lots.

An inside look at the way mobsters converted bogus securities into hard cash has begun shaping up recently. Evidence presented by subcommittee investigator Philip R. Manuel and Louis Pasquale "The Doctor" Mastriana, a convicted con artist who bilked manks, brokers and businessmen for more than $1 million in three years, has been illuminating.

Mastriana, brought by U.S. marshals from a Texas prison to testify before the subcommittee, witfully reminisced about his purchases of real estate, luxury cars, "fast women and pretty horses" as a middleman in a scheme involving the mythical Bank of Sark.

Under questioning from Jackson and Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., Mastriana said his success in satisfying his lust for money was predicated on the "sloppiness" and "greed" of the bankers and brokers he bilked.

"They were so anxious to get the commission or to get the account that they didn't question it," said Mastriana, his broad face breaking into a smile.

The Bank of Sark existed only on paper, but had a cast of about 20 characters, now in jails or awaiting trials in Europe, Africa, North and South America.

They worked "rather openly," subcommittee investigator Manuel said. "Each promoted the fraudulent schemes of the other for mutual benefit and profit."

Mastriana and other "outside" men would deposit stolen securities with the Bank of Sark in exchange for letters of credit and Bank of Sark checks —gray for business use, pink for personal.

Armed with these paper documents of alleged value, outside men would move into a small city or a suburb of a large city.

Mastriana, alternately smiling and wiping his bald head and brow with a white linen handkerchief, told how he posed as a shopping center developer in Texas. After looking over multimillion-dollar sites, he asked the realtor to guide him to a bank. There, Mastriana testified, he opened an account with a worthless $100,000 Bank of Sark check.

The former Schenectady, N.Y., printer then withdrew $10,000 in cash "to tide me over." With a valid bank check, he bought a Continental Mark III, wined and dined the realtor and the banker. Later the banker would ask Mastriana how to cash the Bank of Sark check. "Mail it," said Mastriana. "The address is on the back."

The gambit by the Bank of Sark was to receive the checks, but not acknowledge them. When the Texas bank was not reimbursed for the $100,000, the banker became edgy, threatened to sue. Mastriana then charged the bank had lost his check and was falsely suing him. He demanded the return of the Bank of Sark check. The banker backed off and a few days later Mastriana disappeared.

This ploy was to be repeated at other banks in Texas, Oklahoma and Florida.

Mastriana, a man of less than average height and above average weight, fond of patent leather shoes and blue, double-breasted suits, said he never used a pseudonym during his three years of activity. He also had a 20-year record of criminal convictions.

There was a "red flag" put on Bank of Sark by the U.S. Treasury, "but bankers never read that stuff the government mails them. They throw it in the trash," he said.

Mastriana once cashed $300,000 in stolen U.S. Smelting securities at the Miami office of a New York Stock Exchange member, receiving payment within three days. A new account usually requires five days for processing.

On that occasion, he put the cash into the Key Biscayne bank of President Nixon's friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo. Mastriana boasted he was introduced as a big, new customer to Rebozo. Nothing developed from the meeting, and Rebozo was not aware that the money came from the cashing of stolen securities, Mastriana said.

Mastriana was only a small man in the operation. Although he scoffed at the "pigeons" he cleaned between 1968 and 1971, Mastriana himself always was in danger of arrest.

He was caught in Florida for attempting to sell stolen securities and was later extradited to Texas where he was convicted of fraud. While Mastriana's cover was blown and the heat was on the Bank of Sark, the bosses tried to use their stolen and counterfeit securities to move into a legitimate bank in Panama. Plans were laid at a country estate in Britain by the son of a member of the House of Lords.

Ernest Shinwell, a small man in his 50s, was bankrupt and looking for a way to regain his wealth. Being the son of Lord Emmanuel Shinwell, he had access to people of fortune.

Shinwell, who has been indicted in Luxembourg for allegedly trying to bank stolen securities, was an "official" of the Bank of Sark, along with Dominic Mantell, said to be a member of the organized-crime "Magaddino family" of Buffalo, N.Y. Mantell purportedly was the primary source of the bogus securities.

Mantell and Shinwell, allegedly trying to move into Panama, invited known reputable men to join them. As backing they had some $14 million in stolen securities, the source of which was unknown to the legitimate businessmen.

One invited in was David W. Slater, an international banker from Albany, N.Y., known in Panama. The dignified, graying Slater eventually would become suspicious and help authorities unravel the scheme.

"I was picked up at the Manchester Airport," said Slater, recalling an early meeting in Britain, "and driven to Springwood—an estate with spacious grounds, pools, a home of 25-30 rooms, caretakers, and Rolls Royce, Bentley or Jaguar cars available if needed. It was most impressive. It represented wealth and comfort considerably rare to us here in the States."

Such surroundings disarmed Slater and the others.

The Bank of Sark group ran some stolen securities into a Swiss bank which gave letters of credit worth $600,000 on $3 million worth of securities. Other letters of credit for $3 million and $6 million were obtained from Zurich International Investment Corp., a "paper" bank in Nassau.

With the backing of legitimate businessmen, the Bank of Sark group moved into Panama, using the worthless letters of credit to borrow funds from Panamanian banks to buy legitimate properties.

The plan would have enabled the Bank of Sark to set up valid business operations by using money from Panamanian banks holding worthless letters of credit for security. If the businesses succeeded, no questions. If they failed, the Bank of Sark group would skip the country, defrauding the Panamanian banks.

The Bank of Sark is finished now, but scores of similar operations involving hundreds of con men still function.

Manuel, who has been investigating the theft and fraudulent use of securities since 1970, says police are having more difficulty tracking down misuse of securities.

There is "a burgeoning group of professional confidence men and international swindlers who are, to a great degree, closely knit and interlocking, most of whom are recidivist securities violators," Manuel said. "Their forte is that they know 'how to use bad paper' and in so doing are limited only by their own ingenuity."

To meet electrical needs

State must build 11 new power plants

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California must construct 11 new "thermal" power plants—most of them nuclear—to meet its electrical needs for the next 20 years, the state Resources Agency says.

In a 129-page study entitled "Energy Dilemma," the agency Wednesday also said the state's power needs in the next two decades also require continued development of California's three existing nuclear generating facilities.

But in setting forth what it called a 20-year plan for power plant siting, the agency warned that because of curent delays in nuclear power plant construction, it might already be too late to avoid electricity "disruptions."

By 1991, the report said, more than half of the state's electricity will have to come from nuclear reactors.

"Fossil-fuel plants are less desirable than nuclear plants from the standpoint of public health, air quality and the realiability of the fuel supply," the report stated.

However, it did not specify how many of the 11 new plants would be nuclear or where they should be located.

Rather it included a detailed map of the state, specifying "optimum" areas for plant location based on population and earthquake danger.

The most desirable areas, the report said, are the extreme southeastern desert corner of the state and the north-central valley, inland from the Oregon border to Fresno. Isolated coastal areas were listed as possible sites.

California currently has one nuclear plant in operation at San Onofre and two under construction at Rancho Seco and Diablo Canyon. Four other sites have been proposed by utility companies in Northern California and three in Southern California. Six other plants are planned but no site chosen. Only one petroleum-powered facility is being planned.

"It should be recognized that not all the sites named will be found feasible by the utilities, and those found feasible may not all be approved," the report said.

A total of 11 new plants are needed because of an expected surge in electricity use from 27,500 megawatts last year to 89,000 megawatts in 1991, the report said.

The agency recommended establishment of "an overall state energy policy" and creation of "an entity" within the Resources Agency with authority over siting of new power plants.

Gov. Ronald Reagan last week vetoed legislation to create a state energy council with power to approve new sites and take action to conserve energy. Reagan said the measure was an "unfinished product."

The report was financed through the sale of personalized license plates. It was submitted to the legislature for consideration and possible action.

Suspect slain after blast by shotgun

EAST LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A sheriff's deputy trying to apprehend a 17-year-old youth who allegedly fired a shotgun blast into a crowd of students at Garfield High School Thursday, accidentally shot the suspect to death, authorities said.

Juan Jauregui died at County-USC Medical Center of a gunshot wound in the back.

He was shot when he pulled away from the grasp of Deputy Marion Bohannon, who was trying to get the suspect out of a car when his service revolver discharged.

Police arrested another youth in the car, Joe Robles, 20, and seized a .20-guage shotgun found under the hood.

A third suspect, Ernest Garcia, 18, was arrested later.

Garcia and Robles were booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

An unidentified 16-year-old youth wounded by the shotgun blast fired from the suspect's car was treated at a hospital for a leg wound and released.

Jewelry store opened to burglary victims

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) —The sign over the jewelry store read: "Honesty is the best policy—but ours is the next best."

Monday, police opened the store to some 100 New Jersey residents searching for silverware and jewelry stolen from their homes.

Police said few of the burglary victims were able to identify their possessions at Martin and Sons Jewelers. The proprietors, Frank Martin, 54, and his son Richard, 28, were arrested last week on charges of receiving stolen property. Both are free on $10,000 bail pending a trial.

Police target in big lawsuit

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The Charlotte police department was sued for $1 million Tuesday on behalf of survivors of an 18-year-old black who was killed last month in a scuffle with two policemen. The suit also asked for an injunction barring police from discrimination against blacks.

Ricky R. Cunningham was shot to death in the fight with the two officers. A county grand jury last week voted not to indict the officers.

The suit charged that Cunningham's death was but one of a series of incidents involving discrimination.

Police Chief J. C. Goodman called the federal court suit "harassment."

BART's big day crawls ever closer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —In less than a month San Franciscans can expect to begin riding the nation's first new subway transit system in 65 years.

Subway tunnels have been burrowed under busy Market Street, the arterial spine of the city, and the underground stations are ready for use by the biggest locally financed public works project in U.S. history.

On Nov. 5, the first BART (Bay Area Rapid Transit) trains are scheduled to roll under San Francisco, connecting downtown with populous residential areas to the southwest.

But the day of final triumph lies in a troubled future for the first U.S. subway-rapid transit system designed to counter the 20th Century auto cultism that has backfired into a smog and congestion crisis.

That day will come when the heart of the $1.5 billion system, a tube running under San Francisco Bay, is finally opened to the sleek 80-mile-an-hour BART trains.

Bucket seats

Across the Bay to the east, the lounge-like electric coaches already are skimming through a chain of suburban cities on elevated tracks that give way to ground-level rails, then descend underground into metropolitan Oakland's new subway stations.

Passengers ride comfortably in bucket style seats in rattle-and-jolt free cars that feature carpeting and view windows, much like passengers in high-lying jet airliners.

But while they ride swiftly and in style, they don't always get where they are going as planned.

For the first rapid transit system designed to run like a spaceage rocket is still harnessed with an antiquated control system. It consists of men with telephones who watch the tracks and tell trains when to move safely. When they can't move, they simply wait.

A $35-million control system built for the west's first big urban transit system, born of moon rocket technology, is waiting to operate trains over a 75-mile network—virtually without the touch of a human hand.

System not working

The no-hands system is not yet working. Critics have blasted it as unworkable to unfixable, but after lengthy study the state has concluded it can operate with a little more work. Until then BART is getting along with its see-and-tell system of dispatching the world's most modern transit trains on the 57 miles of track now in service.

The last subway system built in the United States was the Philadelphia subway, which opened in 1907.

The woes of giving birth to an entirely new way to run a rapid transit system, which in its darkest days seemed nearly insurmountable to some, have begun to pale under the financial troubles facing BART.

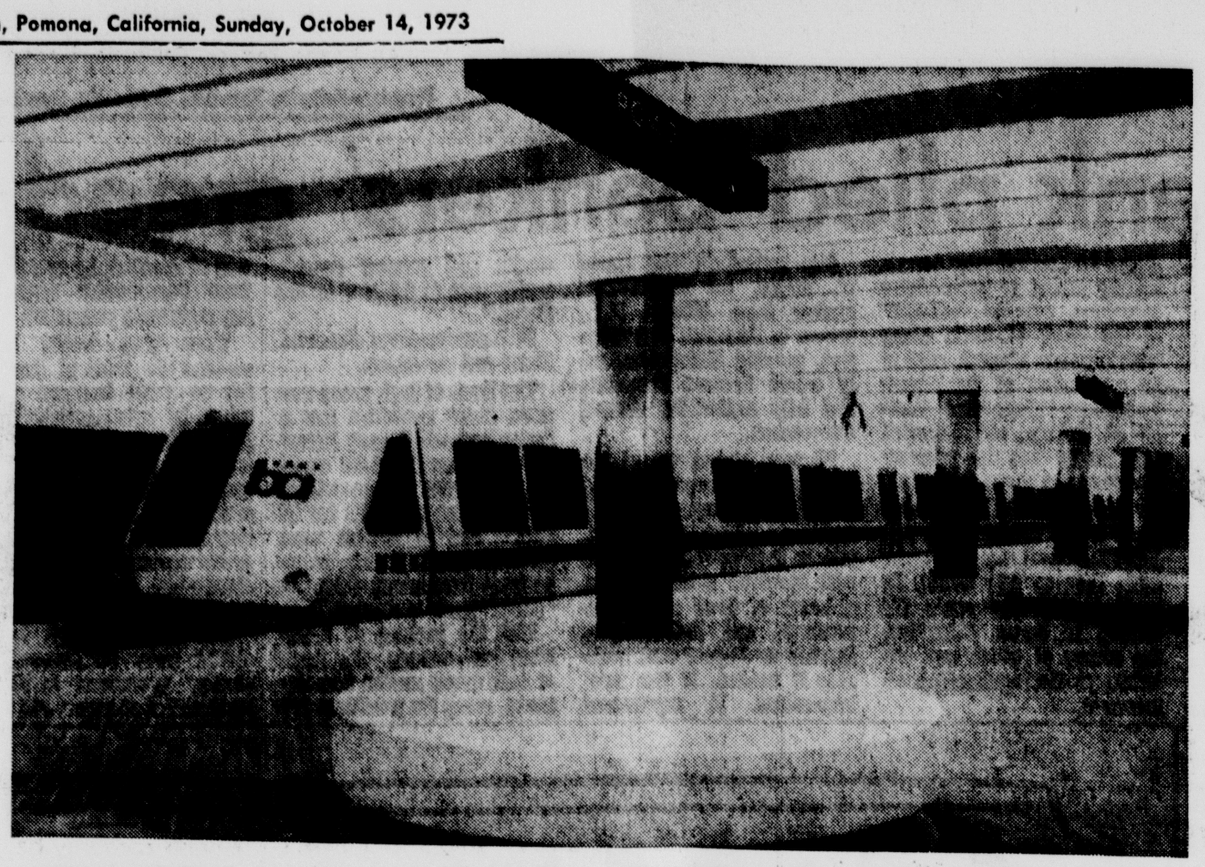

Created in 1962 with the largest bond issue ever approved by American voters—a $792 million package that was supposed to pay for it all—BART today faces an estimated deficit over the next five years of $100 million.

Inflation woes

The system, whose total cost has since risen to more than $1.5 billion because of inflation and a much delayed and tortured birth process, will not be able to pay its bills beyond July or August next year unless fresh cash is scraped up.

BART Director of Finance William F. Goelz blames the huge projected deficit on a settlement that ended a labor strike last summer and is expected to cost $42 million over five years. Also, failure of BART to open the transbay tube this year turned a projected $700,000 surplus into a $12.6 million deficit.

Though it has been able to lobby millions of dollars in federal grants for such peripheral items as landscaping, BART has had to go to the state legislature several times for new tax money and there's no immediate end in sight.

GETTING READY—An empty subway car sits idle in a Powell Street station in San Francisco. In less than a month, the first all-new public transit system built in the U.S. in the past 65 years gets underway. But problems with a computer control system mean that for a while at least, many trains will still be standing idle.

Handwriting on the wall

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Board of Election Commissioners, which has had problems with forged ballot applications and nominating petitions, announced that it has hired its own handwriting expert.

He is Howard C. Doulder, 50, retired supervisor of the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Crime Laboratory.

Election Board Chairman John H. Hanley said Doulder was a crime laboratory suparvisor in charge of identifying questioned documents, fingerprints and photographs for Treasury Department operations in 37 states.

Famous bird watcher

Columbus was an avid bird watcher; many of the entries in his ship's logs concerned them. It is said he discovered the Bahamas when he changed his course in the direction the birds were flying because his men were ready to mutiny.

Traffic safety in Claremont cited

CLAREMONT — The City of Claremont has been cited by the Automobile Club of Southern California for two years without a pedestrian fatality.

Clovis Watson representing the Pomona District office presented a plaque to Mayor Craig McManigal at the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Watson said the pedestrian fatality rate has gone down 30 per cent in the past 36 years, while vehicle registration has increased 63 per cent.

Watson said a perfect safety record is indicative of an active city administration.

New governor refuses house

U.S.-Iceland negotiations could upset NATO balance

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Ever since American forces took over the protection of Iceland under NATO, Icelandic Communists have been chanting, "Yankee Go Home."

Whether they are to go home, or in what degree, is the subject of negotiations between Washington and Reykjavik.

Since Iceland also is deeply involved in her codfish war with Britain, decisions to be reached in coming days will effect her future for years to come and rank as the most important since she became an original member of NATO in 1949.

The island mini-nation's situation alongside North Atlantic sea lanes is vital to NATO's Atlantic communications and as a listening post for monitoring Soviet ship and submarine movements.

Opponents of the American commanded Keflavik NATO base a few miles from Reykjavik have used the codfish war not only to whip up sentiment against Britain and to a lesser degree West Germany, theoretical NATO allies, but also to demand Iceland's total withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

Iceland's coalition government, which includes Communists, served notice on June 25 that it wished to review the agreement governing NATO use of the Keflavik base. The agreement's terms state that it can be abrogated by Iceland if no agreement to revise or extend is reached within six months from the date of notification.

Base rights would then expire one year after that, on Christmas day, 1974.

Premier Olafus Johannesson has pledged that U.S. forces will withdraw by 1975.

Both East and West see Iceland as the key to control of the North Atlantic.

The British occupied it in 1940 to block the Germans and were replaced by the Americans in 1941. The Americans left in 1946, came back in 1951 and have been there ever since. Some 3,000 Americans under the command of an admiral act in the dual role of a defense force for Iceland and monitor of the sea lanes.

The Icelanders have not always been gracious hosts.

In World War II, Britain sometimes used Iceland as a transfer point for captured prisoners from German submarines. The Icelanders cheered the Germans and booed the British.

In current times, many Icelanders refer to the Americans as an occupation force.

Communists make up about a third of the coalition government majority in the Icelandic parliament. Last year Iceland announced extension of its fishing waters from 12 to 50 miles offshore and came into immediate collision with the British and West Germans. Britain dispatched warships to protect its travlers and Iceland demands for NATO intevention followed.

NATO attempts at mediation proved unsuccessful.

It was unfortunate but perhaps inevitable that the two issues become intermeshed. In any event, should U.S. and Icelandic negotiations fail, the entire power balance of the North Atlantic could be effected.

A few questions about childbirth

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Now that I am pregnant I have a few questions that I hope you will answer. 1) What are some signs of coming labor? 2) How long does labor last? 3) Is it true you are supposed to drink a quart of milk a day? 4) Is childbirth as painful as they say it is? 5) Is it harmful to gain so much weight when you are pregnant?

Dear Reader — Labor is a good term for the delivery of the baby. The walls of the uterus are composed of muscle fibers that contract or work until they exert enough force to move the baby through the birth canal. This same muscular contraction mechanism, but to a lesser degree, is responsible for the contractions that lead to cramps in some women.

Generally the uterus is fairly quiet in the first part of pregnancy. About the 30th week of pregnancy occasionally mild contractions of the uterus begin. You will be able to notice them. They are not painful, just a muscle contraction. They increase in frequency, and, in essence, the uterine muscles warm up for the task ahead. These earlier contractions are irregular. As the time for actual labor approaches the contractions become more forceful and tend to become regular. At the time of labor they may be occurring about every two minutes.

If labor proceeds naturally, without the use of drugs, it can last over a day. The problem is separating "false labor pains," which are weak, sporadic contractions from the real thing. The first baby usually takes longer to deliver. With each succeeding pregnancy the delivery is usually shorter and easier. After multiple births some women have great difficulty getting to the hospital in time for delivery, and the whole labor may represent less than an hour.

Childbirth is not necessarily painful. It can be, particularly if the mother is up-tight about it and expects the worst. When "they say" it is very painful, "they" are doing you a disservice. By frightening you "they" make it more likely that you will be tense and have a problem. Don't listen to these stories. some women who are prepared psychologically have babies without any medication. And, for women who do have pain, there are a multitude of ways that your doctor can make it a lot easier for you without endangering your baby.

What you eat during your pregnancy is very important to the growth and development of your baby — and for your own health as well. It is best to have at least as much calcium as you find in a quart of milk every day. It is needed to build the skeleton of the baby. If you don't eat enough the baby may not develop good bone structure and calcium will be robbed from your skeleton. This is why it used to be said that a woman lost a tooth for every pregnancy.

The mother's bone loss may not be from just "a tooth," but from the important jaw bone structures, leading to more extensive dental problem, or from other bones. The big increase in calcium needs is in the last three months, when the baby's skeletal growth is at its peak. The baby will absorb about 25 grams of calcium to build its skeleton. In addition, the mother will store more calcium in preparation to provide milk. Some doctors give calcium tablets with or without other minerals and vitamins. This may be necessary if the milk intake has to be restricted to limit salt intake.

The baby will need to develop blood, and will need iron for this purpose. This means the mother will have to be sure to get enough iron.

There will also be an increased need for some vitamins. Vitamins are essential in the complicated chemical steps of converting food to energy — and aiding the development and growth of cells. Vitamin B12 is an excellent example. It is essential to the cell's ability to reproduce or develop more DNA, the vital substance that gives a cell its inherited characteristics. Without it life is not possible. In general, the need for B vitamins is increased during pregnancy.

Since protein is the very essence of growing new cells, the requirements increase during a pregnancy, and the protein source must include adequate amounts of all the essential amino acids. Animal proteins are the most dependable source of these, and milk contains such a protein. Uncreamed cottage cheese is also fine. Lean meats, poultry, and fish are also excellent sources of complete proteins. Obviously, if the mother nurses the baby she will need more protein, calcium, and phosphorous to produce milk.

The carbohydrates and fats provide calories. On the average, a woman will use about 200 more calories a day than before pregnancy. The guide here to her calorie needs is based on her weight and evidence of any fat under the skin.

Weight gain during pregnancy is normal, and I might add that pregnancy is not a good time to correct an underlying weight problem. Of course, if a woman gains too much weight, that must be controlled. A normal woman can gain about 24 pounds during a pregnancy. On the average this will be from the infant, 7.5 lbs. (often smaller); placenta, 1 lb.; fluid in the sac, 1.5 lbs.; increased weight of breasts, 3 lbs.; increased weight of the uterus, 2.5 lbs.

The remaining eight and a half pounds come from four pounds of protein stored elsewhere in the body (possibly in preparation for producing milk), three pounds of water added to the blood, which increases the amount of blood the mother has, even though it is diluted, and about one and a half pounds in the other tissues. It is normal for women to retain some water during pregnancy.

After delivery there is, of course, the loss of weight from the baby, the placenta, and the sac and its fluid. In the succeeding five days a woman may eliminate about five pounds of the excess water. The engorged breasts though may actually increase in size and will retain their weight, gradually returning to normal size if the woman does not nurse the baby.

The real problem for most normal women is to control their appetite after pregnancy. Many have developed a habit of eating for two and continue to do so afterward with predictable results.

Metropolitan

pin is offering some heady fare this season. The 1973-74 summit will be the Met's first performance of Berlioz' blockbuster, "The Trojans." The Met's new music director, 59-year-old Czech-born Rafael Kubelik, will make his conducting debut with the company at the premiere Oct. 22. Christa Ludwig will sing Dio to Jon Vickers' Aeneas.

The cast of "The Trojans" offers a sampling of some of the Met's new generation of American-born stars and stalwarts—Judith Blegen, Shirley Verrett, Mignon Dunn, William Lewis, Kenneth Riegel, Louis Quilico and John McCurdy. New productions later in the season will provide showcases for such major attractions as Joan Sutherland (Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann''), Marilyn Horne (Rossini's "The Italian in Algiers"), and Montserrat Caballe, Nicolai Gedda and Sherrill Milnes (Verdi's "Sicilian Vespers").

New "Ring"

The Met's new staging of Wagner's four-opera Ring Cycle will be completed March 8 with the production of "Goetterdaemmerung", starring Birgit Nilsson and Jess Thomas. The Met currently is short on contemporary works, but British composer Benjamin Britten's "Death in Venice", based on the Thomas Mann novella, will be given its American premier in October, 1974.

World demand for minerals reopens Western mines

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —In places like Grass Valley, Calif., Livingston, Mont., and Virginia City, Nev., a few old timers have been sitting around for nearly 40 years waiting for the day the mines would open again.

That day may be here.

Gold and silver prospectors are in the hills, sprucing up their claims.

There is a run on gold panning equipment. Literature and maps on the Mother Lode country are in demand.

Besides the adventurers seeking riches or glamour in the quest for gold and silver, many serious businessmen are buying claims and enlisting engineers with modern tools to exploit the rich ores of the West —ores which were merely pilfered by the earlier waves of miners.

Anaconda, Kennecott and other mining giants are undertaking vast new operations in Nevada, Arizona and Montana to get copper, a metal which is in worldwide shortage.

Uranium, coal, lead, zinc, silver and gold are the targets of others, in these states and in Utah, Idaho, California and Alaska.

Under American law and tradition, mineral rights are a property distinct from land ownership. The rights to minerals on public lands could be claimed by anyone. Many dormant claims are being revived.

Residents of a housing subdivision in Tucson, Ariz., were shocked recently when an exploration rig was moved into the neighborhood and began digging. The homewoners learned that somebody else owned the mineral rights under their houses and was checking the ore to determine whether it should be mined.

Mining exploration projects in wilderness areas are running into bitter clashes with environmentalists.

The Knox-Arizona Corp. touched off a furor when it began drilling on 4,300 acres in the Organ Pipe National Monument in Southern Arizona. The park had been opened to mining claims by Congress in 1941 when a wartime copper shortage was feared.

The new mining boom is not built on any hope that the mountains contain rich undiscovered lodes. Early prospectors pretty well combed every nook and cranny. But when the earlier miners dug gold and silver, they didn't get it all. What the earlier miners couldn't get, the new miners can reach by using modern technology.

Last year, the McAlester Fuel Co. drilled 1,750 holes in a small mountain near Prescott, Ariz., which once had a copper mine. The engineers packed 4 million pounds of explosives into the holes and shattered the whole mountain in the largest non-nuclear explosion in history. A sulphuric acid solution will be washed through the crumbled ore, leaching out its copper.

At Butte, Mont., Anaconda is beginning round-the-clock operations at a new copper pit whose ore was previously considered uneconomical to mine. The company hopes to increase production by 47 million pounds a year. Its smelter at Anaconda is being expanded to increase output from 30 to 35 million pounds a month.

The American Coal Co. is opening a new mine south of Moab, Utah, to produce fuel for the Utah Power and Light Co. and the Mormon Church. Nearby, another company is drilling 2,800 feet into the sandstone for uranium.

But the stuff that turns on the imagination is gold.

"I don't suppose that gold fever ever died out," said Wesley G. Bruer, director of the California Division of Mines and Geology. "It's just been dormant, waiting for the price to give it a little bit more romance."

The price of gold on the world market is now about $100 an ounce —high enough to provide the needed spark.

Bruer said requests for literature on gold mining have jumped from 10 a day to 140 a day, and that some "substantial companies" are looking into it as well as many amateurs.

More requests are coming in for permits to dredge California mountain streams, and dealers in gold panning equipment report booming sales.

Frank Sullivan, a Sacramento dealer, more than doubled his business in the past year, selling 1,200 gold dredges and many hundreds of gold pans.

"It's gold fever," said Sullivan. "It is to the point where it gets in your blood." He said he took a pan out on his own vacation and recovered 3.5 ounces of gold in the Yuba River near Downieville.

Near Lvingston, Mont., 76-year-old Earl Lutzenhiser has reopened his "Emigrant Strike" mine, which was closed in 1942. He believes there is still at least $75 million worth of gold there.

Around historic Tombstone, Ariz., once the biggest silver producing area in the West, many old claims are being re-explored with modern equipment. Engineers say these mines could be profitable if the gold price stays above $90 an ounce and silver above $2.50 an ounce.

The Sunshine Mine near Kellogg, Idaho, plagued by a disastrous fire two years ago and a strike last year, still remains the nation's largest silver producer. With new safety stndards, the company plans to keep on digging in the mine's 100 miles of tunnels as deep as one mile underground.

Nevada is mining more gold than any other state.

Near Carlin, where prospectors worked over the sand years ago, a highly technical mining operation is now under way which handles massive amounts of ore, extracting tiny particles of gold.

The old Comstock Lode at Virginia City, which produced about $1 billion worth of gold and silver in its day, is now largely in the hands of the Minerals Engineering Co. A spokesman for the firm said it has leases on 1.5 million tons of ore that could be mined with a return of $15 per ton in silver and gold.

For those with an urge to quit their jobs and go West with a shovel, experts have a word of caution. There is practically no chance for an amateur prospector to make a big gold "strike." Even many sophisticated speculators are finding that mineral rights are a dangerous investment.

When Howard Hughes lived in Nevada, word got around that he was buying up thousands of mining claims. Presumably he was shrewd and knew something.

Now Hughes concedes he was duped. He is suing 10 persons, including his former aide, John Meier, accusing them of conspiring to get him to buy claims for "far in excess" of what they were worth.

Couple ordered to trial in death of son

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) —Lawrence Parker and his wife, Alice, pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of involuntary manslaughter in the death of their 11-year-old son, Wesley, a diabetic who died after they threw away his insulin supply because they thought he had been "cured" by a faith healer.

They were ordered to stand trial beginning Jan. 28.

Wesley died Aug. 24. He had been pronounced cured by a faith healer in a fundamentalist service. The boy sank into a coma, but Parker refused to get more insulin, saying diabetes was caused by devils. After the boy died, Parker and fellow believers held a clapping, hymn-singing service which they said would bring him back to life.

Largest producer

Russia is the largest wheat producer in the world, with the United States second. It is estimated that the wheat grown in one year, worldwide, would fill the cars of a freight train, encircling the entire world with enough freight cars left over to reach almost half that distance again.

Future of man

American promise ---land of dreams

Editor's Note: This is the third of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is Pforzheimer University professor and director, Charles Warren Center for Studies in American History, Harvard University. Here in he discusses how the world can profit from a study of the American experience.

By OSCAR HANDLIN
Copyright, 1973, Regents of the University of California.

For centuries, in many parts of the world, people who themselves never beheld the forests, plains, or cities of America felt that the human experience there had a relevance to their own fate.

Even before Columbus, Europeans envisioned somewhere in the distance a New World where they could correct the failings of their familiar Old Word, so that the strange continent when its outlines at last became clear seemed to be that land of their dreams.

It remained so for generation after generation—for thousands drawn by ambition search for fortune or driven by faith to seek freedom. For millions in want it offered hope of daily bread. And as the 20th century approaches its last quarter, the American experience can still have meaning in every part of the globe; for everywhere men and women still struggle either to preserve the liberty and plenty they have aready gained or else to reach wistfully toward those prizes.

In the beginning, America seemed the New World because it was open, making available to all an abundance of space and confining none within the bounds of inherited institutions.

It pointed toward the future rather than toward the past. Later, when the United States became an independent republic and when its spaces filled up, it developed institutions which left open the possibilities for change, which indeed stressed the values of transience and improvement and rewarded people willing to move into the unknown. Such values are more than ever important in a world torn by doubts about the future, no longer certain about the inevitability of progress, and inclined toward pessimism about the nature of man.

Experience taught Americans a different lesson. Few enjoyed lives of ease and comfort. Not the early immigrants who crossed he rough and uncharted Atlantic before coming ashore in a hostile wilderness. Nor their successors, jammed in the steerages of vessels that brought them to lives of incesant labor in factory or construction gang.

Not the farmers who might see months of toil put to nought by a turn in the weather or a fluctuation in a distant market. Not the businessmen, the promoters, the salesmen, endlessly striving for the success few would gain. No, ease was rarely among the New World's promises.

Nevertheless, Americans were optimists, often without illusions about the odds in any specific instance, but certain that each year would be an improvement upon its predecessor. Their whole history was evidence: a tiny handful had grown in numbers to subdue a continent; from small beginnings they had become great in power and wealth. Many families repeated on an individual scale the national pattern of rise from humble origins. To lack faith was fooling in a world in which opportunity abounded.

Caution, comfortable habits, and tradition were impediments from the past which stood in the way of the future.

Over and over Americans learned the necessity for taking risks, for surrendering what might be tolerable on the chance of gaining what might be better. They were plungers and speculators by temperament — not only the frontiersmen or those who built extensive enterprises, but also the tinkering inventors who puzzled over better ways of doing a job and the long line of reformers willing to upset the existing social order out of the certainty that improvement was possible.

They were calculating observers, not content to accept nature as given, ready to reshape it to their own purposes. Where a forest stood, they saw clearings, fields of grain, and the timber to build ships and homes; rivers were for bridging and great distances for crossing. What had developed out of the past reached the present in order to be transformed for the future.

It followed that Americans were no great respecters of age.

Youth was ever the cherished season—for adventurous thoughts, for imaginative settings-forth. Though the old-timers might resent being edged out, they could not deny the right of their juniors to push forward as they themselves had once done.

In the 20th century, as in the 18th, his society loosened all personal ties. Famiy obligations were not to fence the next generation in, nor was loyalty to the particular place of one's birth. The old Kentucky home was a subject for nostalgia, but not reason for staying put. The advance upon the frontier was a succession of abandonments, for the pull of the golden West emptied many a hearthside in the old East. The urban frontier had the same effect; you could not keep them down on the farm once they glimpsed the lures of town. Americans became a restless people, ever in motion, determined to let no sentimental considerations hinder the pursuit of opportunity.

The world of the 1970s, which increasingly values stability and tradition, and shuns change, might well reflect upon what would be lost with the extinction of tha optimistic willingness to bet on the future once characteristic of the Americans. The ability of a heterogeneous population to live together in tolerable harmony, the ideal of equal opportunity, and the commitment to freedom in significant ways all hinged upon the confidence in man's capacity for improvement and in society's capacity for progess.

Diversity of origins was always characteristic of the populaion of the United States. Never could the myth of common ancestry bind these people together. National sentiment spring from another source—not from a view of the past but from an expectation about the future, from the belief of its people that out of many they were becoming one.

There were numerous flaws in the effort to put that belief into practice: episodes of tragic prejudice and discrimination, outbursts of violence by group against group, as some Americans challenged the premise of diversity and hid beneath the Klanish sheets of racism. Still the national achievement was impressive; how impressive perhaps can be understood better in the 1970s than earlier.

For a decade which, in many parts of the world, sees religious, tribal, and national loyalties plunge into bitter conflict people who have lived side by side for centuries, the American experience has special relevance. Here the hopes for a common future, however slowly and imperfectly, persuaded those divided by race, by religion, and by ethnic origin that they all had more to lose by battling than by accepting one anoher.

Opportunity was the great persuader. There were important exceptions—slaves, Indians held in reservations, and other victims of prejudice.

Nevertheless the underlying thrust of American society has always been toward a widening of opportunity to enable all men and women to make what they could of themselves. All aspirations toward aristocracy, all efforts at inclusion and exclusion were pitiful failures; status in the United States depended not on rank or parentage but upon ahcievement. That did not mean that everyone had an equal chance to attain riches, but an increasing percentage found their work rewarded by improvement in their social position. The consciousness that careers of every sort were open to all gave meaning to the restless strivings of peope in motion. A future of expanding horizons made room for all.

At a time when competitive tensions tempt some to reach for privileged quotas, it is important to recall the extent to which equality of opportunity gave Americans a stake in

Erma Bombeck

When Mike was three he wanted a sandbox and his father said, "There goes the yard. We'll have kids over here day and night and they'll throw sand into the flower beds and cats will make a mess in it and it'll kill the grass for sure."

And Mike's mother said, "It'll come back."

When Mike was five, he wanted a jungle gym set with swings that would take his breath away and bars to take him to the summit and his father said, "Good grief, I've seen those things in back yards and do you know what they look like? Mud holes in a pasture. Kids digging their gym shoes in the ground. It'll kill the grass."

And Mike's mother said, "It'll come back."

Between breaths when Daddy was blowing up the plastic swimming pool he warned, "You know what they're going to do to this place? They're going to condemn it and use it for a missile site. I hope you know what you're doing. They'll track water everywhere and you'll have a million water fights and you won't be able to take out the garbage without stepping in mud up to your neck and when we take this down we'll have the only brown lawn on the block."

"It'll come back," smiled Mikes mother.

When Mike was 12, he volunteered his yard for a camp-out. As they hoisted the tents and drove in the spikes his father stood at the window and observed. "Why don't I just put the grass seed out in cereal bowls for the birds and save myself the trouble of spreading it around. You know for a fact that those tents and all those big feet are going to trample down every single blade of grass, don't you? Don't bother to answer," he said. "I know what you're going to say, 'It'll come back.' "

The basketball hoop on the side of the garage attracted more crowds than the Winter Olympics. And a small patch of lawn that started out with a barren spot the size of a garbage can lid soon grew to encompass the entire side yard. Just when it looked like the new seed might take root, the winter came and the sled runners eat it into ridges and Mike's father shook his head and said, "I never asked for much in this life . . . only a patch of grass."

And his wife smiled and said, "It'll come back."

The lawn this fall was beautiful. It was green and alive and rolled out like a sponge carpet along the drive where gym shoes had trod . . .along the garage where bicycles used to fall . . . and around the flower beds where little boys used to dig with iced tea spoons.

But Mike's father never saw it. He anxiously looked beyond the yard and asked with a catch in his voice, "He will come back, won't he?"

Authoress says: Close all prisons

NEW YORK (UPI) —Jessica Mitford suggests that the best way to reform American prisons is to shut them down and release their inmates.

She added that she doesn't expect it to happen.

The British-born Miss Mitford, now transplanted to California, is the author who stirred up the undertaking business a few years ago with her "The American Way of Death." Now she has written "Kind and Usual Punishment", a trenchant indictment of the American prison system and the reforms which she insists keep making prisons worse.

Miss Mitford, one of the six daughters of Lord and Lady Redesdale—the radical one in the political arena—said in an interview that she didn't know any more about the prison system than any other middle class white American until she was asked by the American Civil Liberties Union three years ago to prepare an article on prisoners' civil rights.

What she found started her on more research and in her book she details all the horrors —from the self-perpetuating bureaucracy and its frighteningly complete power over inmates to the use of prisoners in medical and pharmaceutical experiments and as cheap labor.

Despairs of reform

The abuses of the system lead her to defend proposals for abolishing prisons rather than reforming them.

"I despair of reform," she said, "if what you mean is the reforms that have been fought for over the last century, what seem like reforms in theory have a way of turning into nightmares in practice.'

One reform for which she has much scorn is the indeterminate sentence, which she says in theory means prisoners may achieve early release but in practice can mean longer incarceration than a flat term of, say, five years.

Another is psychiatric treatment, given prisoners on the assumption that they must be sick to commit crimes, but which results in humiliating the prisoner if this assumption is wrong, as she believes it usually is.

In her argument for just releasing inmates and closing prisons, she sets forth the main objectives of prisons—protection of the public, deterrence of crime and rehabilitation of inmates. Then she demolishes them.

Prisons don't deter

Protection: "Most criminals are not caught and those who are come out of prison far worse thatn they went in—and 99 per cent of them come out."

Deterrence: "Prisons don't deter. Those who commit crimes obviously aren't deterred and the prisons are full of repeaters, so they weren't deterred. After all, I don't think it's fear of the law that deters you and I from carving up our friends and relaitves."

Rehabilitation: "Prison rehabilitates only to the extent that it makes a prisoner servile, docile, fall into line. In my vew the only truly rehabilitating, literaily improved, prisoners are the rebels, those who refuse to knuckle under."

Miss Mitford sees the prison system as part of the way in which society attempts to control the poor and the black— and it is the poor black who predominates in the prison population. She points out that at the turn of the century society was doing the same thing, only then it was the foreign born and their children —the slum dwellers of their day —who made up the majority of the prison population.

"I perceive the weakness in my argument about abolishing prisons," she said. "There still remains the problem of what to do with the murderer who is caught. We just can't have an equitable criminal justice system in an unfair, racist society. It's like talking about abolisning war—we won't be able to do it as long as present economic and race relations exist.

Prisoners union

"But until the time when we can do without prisons, there are things that can be fought for within the system.

"There could and should be the right of prisoners to organize into unions. It's being done now—there's the Prisoners Union, a national organization with headquarters in San Francisco, and as of last March it had 3,000 members in 68 state and federal penitentiaries."

Other reforms she advocates include an end to new prison construction and to prison sentences for so-called victimless crimes such as prostitution and drug abuse, reduction of the discretionary powers of prison authorities and restoration of prisoners' constitutional rights.

Miss Mitford said that, except for one chapter in which she describes her own research experience in a woman's prison, she has ignored women's prisons, explaining:

"Only one prisoner out of 30 is a woman—women make up more than half the population but one-thirtieth of the prison population. Rhode Island, I believe it is, has no women prisoners at all. And most of the women in prison are there for different kinds of crime than men — for prostitution and narcotics, which aren't real crimes at all. So I decided to concentrate on the main problem, which is men's felony prisons."

Developers fail to meet cash, leasing deadline

Pomona urged to cancel agreement on mall project

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Fred Sharp, executive director of the Community Redevelopment Agency, will recommend to the City Council Monday night the termination of an agreement giving the Speidel and Smith Development Co. an exclusive right of development for a proposed $8 million retail center on Pomona Mall East.

Despite the interest shown in the proposal, Sharp said in his written recommendations to the council:

"The developers had difficulty obtaining their front money and were not able to complete the initial design phases. Lack of interest on the part of prospective lessees was in no way the cause of the developers' delay."

The proposal was first made public by the developers in December of 1971.

Last March 5, the previous council by a 4-1 vote approved a redevelopment agreement with the developers for the construction of a mall-type enclosed structure with rooftop parking.

The project would have involved the sale by the agency of $2.5 million in redevelopment bonds for land acquisition, relocation, site demolition and other costs.

The developers were required under the agreement to present evidence of firm financing of the project. Another provision in the agreement was that the redevelopment bonds would not be sold until the developers could show commitments for 60 per cent leasing.

"Since these provisions were the main substance of the lease and the developers have not been able to comply with them in the six months' period allotted, the unanimous recommendation of the redevelopment staff is that the agreement, since it has expired, be terminated without prejudice, by positive agency action," said Sharp.

Sharp is recommending the council, acting as the redevelopment agency, terminate the agreement with the developers and instruct the staff to prepare any statements of liability of Speidel-Smith to the city under the agreement.

He also is recommending that the council "authorize invitations for any and all interested developers to present proposals for the redevelopment of the mall in downtown Pomona, east of Garey Avenue, after a joint meeting and discussion with the redevelopment commission."

Other matters scheduled for the council's 8 p.m. meeting include:

—Official welcome to Jerrold R. Gonce, new city administrator.

—Issuance of proclamations designating Oct. 15 as White Cane Day, Oct. 21-27 as National Business Women's Week, Oct. 23-29 as United States Week and Oct. 23 as United States Day.

—Awarding of a contract for the erection of a pedestrian bridge over Valley Boulevard near Omar Street. One child was killed and a second injured May 14 after being hit by a car in a crosswalk at Valley and Norton Street.

—Administration of the oath of office to Mrs. Robert C. Leimbach, appointee to the cultural arts commission.

—Hearing on proposed vacation of a portion of Sixth Street and the alley south, from Park Avenue to Parcels Street.

—Second and final readings establishing the salary of the city administrator and establishing the post of city engineer as a separate position from director of public works-city engineer.

—Resolution, held over from Oct. 8, authorizing an agreement with Foley Advertising and Display Inc. for Christmas lighting of deodar trees on Huntington Boulevard.

—Resolutions of intention to vacate portion of an alley east of Oak Avenue, between First and Second streets, and a portion of Oak, between First and Second.

—Recommendation of parks and recreation commission and staff for lighting of existing backstop and protective fencing at Harrison Elementary School for softball play.

—Submission by parks and recreation department of long-range, capital improvement program.

—Recommendation for changing the street tree commission into a committee.

—Request of Garey High School for permission to hold a parade Nov. 8.

—Recommendation to obtain appraisals of the Masonic Temple and Rothrock Printing Co. properties.

—Monthly report of Joe Alvin, public relations consultant for redevelopment.

The council's 4 p.m. meeting will include discussions on Christmas lighting of the Civic Center Plaza, a chamber of commerce welcome project for new residents, and the water department's deposit requirements.

Could you tell us how to give our television set back?

When we got our color TV it was supposed to have been adjusted at the factory but it wasn't. It took us a week to get someone out to fix it. It was a mess.

Right after we got it repaired, if we unplugged it there would be lines when we plugged it in again.

We had to have a repairman come out at least once a month from December 1972, the month of purchase, until July.

In July, the TV really started acting up. The top would slant and you couldn't read any of the words.

A high-pitched sound was coming from it almost constantly. The repairman told me the high pitch sound was in my head. I told him everyone who came to our house could hear it.

I called the manager of the store where we bought the TV and said we wanted another TV, that this one was a lemon. He said they didn't sell lemons and that they couldn't give us another because ours was six months old.

We have paid over $200 on the set and we don't want to have to pay the rest, which is $500. How do we go about giving something back?—S.L., Pomona.

We contacted the store manager. About a month later, the vice president of the firm owning the store informed us that your set had been exchanged for a new one at no cost to you.

He said you have expressed complete satisfaction with the reception of your new set.

My wife's mother purchased a pair of earrings from a Pomona jewelry firm in July. They were a birthday gift to my wife.

My wife did not want the earrings because they were too expensive. She and her mother were refused a refund. They were told that they would have to accept a gift certificate for the amount of the purchase, $81.

My wife then selected two pairs of earrings for a total amount of $31.80 and was issued a gift certificate for the remaining amount. She has returned to the store several times and has not seen anything to her liking.

I went to the store on Sept. 8 and requested a refund for the amount of the gift certificate. I was turned down.

I feel that it is poor customer relations for a company to refuse a refund and force a customer to take merchandise instead--W.M., Pomona.

We talked with the store manager, who said the matter of a refund is up to the merchant's discretion. We informed you that we agreed with this statement.

To find out what other merchants would have done in the circumstances, we contacted three stores picked at random. The store you dealt with was not identified to any of the three.

One merchant said she might have made a refund if the merchandise had been returned the very next day after the purchase. She thought the store where your mother-in-law bought the earrings had been very fair.

The other two said their policy in similar circumstances was to make a refund if the merchandise was returned within 30 days of purchase. One pointed out that health regulations forbade returning earrings made for pierced ears.

Girl, 13, arrested

Claremont school official fends off knife attack

CLAREMONT — A 13-year-old girl student at El Roble School was arrested by police Friday after she allegedly chased the assistant principal with a fishing knife.

Police said the incident occurred while Dave Paul, the assistant principal, and Leonard Gaylord, principal, were walking across the school grounds.

A group of students, led by the girl, crossed the street from Larkin Park toward the administrators.

Police said the girl then came at Paul with the knife. He fled into the school's office and managed to fend off the girl with a folding chair and ordered her to drop the knife. The girl finally complied and dropped the knife to the office floor before fleeing the office.

She was subsequently arrested on campus by police.

Neither police nor school officials could provide a motive for the incident.

It's now the PTSA

Pomona High PTA to open ranks to students

POMONA — In an attempt to bridge the communication gap between generations, the parent group at Pomona High School has reorganized and renamed its body the Parent-Teacher-Student Association.

"The communication gap is a problem that involves parents, teachers and students. I hope that this approach will alleviate some of this," said Doreen Keepers, PTSA president.

DOREEN KEEPERS

"We as parents traditionally would like to enhance our children's education through the PTA and who knows better their needs than the student himself" she asked.

Accordingly, Mrs. Keepers has scheduled an open board meeting for the third Friday of each month at noon at Pomona High School. During these meetings, discussions of issues relevant to the school and community will be held.

Other executive members of the organization at Pomona High are Joseph Andrews, first vice president; Silvia Stavros, second vice president; Marilyn Wentz, third vice president; Sally Newberry, secretary; Jacqueline Borshel, treasurer; Oather Carpenter, auditor; Shirley Abrams, parliamentarian; Kris Rees, budget and finance; Joyce Eden, publicity; Mary Price, telephone; Pat Newton, registration volunteers; Frank Garcia, student coordinator; Pat Yarbarough, newsette; Matt Preus, junior representative; Gail Brown, senior representative; Peggy Weis, membership; and Eric Wilson, student body president.

Members at large are Betty Castellano, Phebe Jandrall, Wanda Cochran, Roxie Barfield, Judy Daniels, Darlene Jones, Pat Kelly and Leona Hayes.

CLEANUP'S IN THE BAG

Stan Kawa and his wife, Jane, fill one of the plastic trash bags being sold by the Pomona Jaycees to raise funds for community projects and as a campaign to "Help the Jaycees Keep Our Community Clean." Pomona residents will be contacted by phone starting this weekend for orders. The plastic liners will be sold in packages of 50, 100 and 150.

Contract let for last aqueduct link to L.V.

The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California has awarded a $6,094,456 contract to S. A. Healy Co. for construction of a 4½-mile pipeline in the Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas areas.

The project is the final segment of the 25-mile Rialto pipeline, which will extend from the Devil Canyon Power Plant on the East Branch of the California Aqueduct near San Bernardino to the district's F.E. Weymouth Memorial Softening and Filtration Plant at La Verne.

The pipeline, which will have an inside diameter of eight feet, will be of prestressed concrete.

When the entire Rialto pipeline project is completed, the district will have the capability of delivering Northern California water from the state's aqueduct to the Weymouth plant, where it will be blended with Colorado River water and then delivered to district member agencies in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The contract is scheduled for completion in March of 1975.

Ten contractors submitted bids for the job, the highest being nearly $9 million.

Pomonan back from car dealers parley

POMONA — E. L. "Sandy" Sanders of Toyota of Pomona has returned from a national Toyota dealers meeting in Hawaii.

Sanders was among some 2,700 dealers, Toyota employes and their wives who met in Honolulu. The meeting was highlighted by a preview of the 1974 line of Toyota cars and trucks.

Jaycees dialing citizens in fund-raising campaign

POMONA — Pomona Jaycees this weekend started contacting city residents by phone to take orders for plastic trash bags being sold both as a fund-raising project for community activities and as a campaign to "Help the Jaycees Keep Our Community Clean'."

The soliciting is being done by phone instead of door-to-door as a convenience to residents.

The plastic liners are being sold in packages of 50 for $6.50, 100 for $12.95 and 150 for $18.95.

The Jaycees' ways and means project will continue for five to six weeks. Proceeds will be used for a number of community programs, including Project Amigo, a program of assistance for handicapped children.

Residents may place orders by phoning Jackie Bailey at the Pomona Chamber of Commerce at 622-1256, or calling the supplier, Specialist, Inc., toll-free, at (800) 648-3560.

Chairman of the project is Mike Smith. Mike Wilcock is the director.

Maximum purchase increased to $300

Higher money orders will cost less at post office

POMONA — The cost of money orders in the higher denominations is going down.

Warren Lynch, officer in charge of the Pomona Post Office, announced that starting Monday, the post office will charge 40 cents for the issuance of all money orders from $50.01 to $300.

He said the cost of smaller money orders will remain the same as now.

Actually, what brings the fees down is the increase in the maximum amount which can be issued by the post office after Monday. Up to now, the largest money order one could buy was for $100, and it cost $40 cents. Those who wanted money orders for higher amounts had to buy two or more at additional fees.

Under the new regulations, one money order can be issued for amounts up to $300, and the fee will remain 40 cents. On lesser amounts, the fee will stay 35 cents for $10.01 to $50, and 25 cents for any amount up to $10.

Lynch said that because of the high cost of living, most persons already are forced to buy money orders for more than $100. He said that by raising the maximum, the postal service will lighten its bookkeeping.

"The revised service will be monitored by a new postal money order system that will provide added safety and savings to both the customer and the postal service," Lynch said.

The service will centralize and computerize the system at St. Louis. Under the biggest printing contract ever awarded by the government, nearly one billion money order forms have been prepared for use during the next five years, according to Lynch.

Pomonan jumped, beaten, knifed

POMONA — A Pomona man was attacked, beaten and stabbed late Friday night for no apparent reason as he walked along Second Street near Myrtle Avenue.

The victim told police he was walking near the intersection when five men, described only as Mexican-American adults, attacked him.

He suffered lacerations to the face, a broken left hand, and a stab wound to the right middle of the back. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and later transferred to USC Medical Center in Los Angeles. He was in fair condition.

The attackers fled the area after the attack and are still being sought by police.

Overhauling our pyramids

The greatest public works project since the pyramid is taking just about as long to complete.

For the past 17 years, the nation has concentrated on building the Interstate Highway System, putting more than 33 billion federal dollars and 4.6 billion state dollars into it. The system is now almost 81 per cent finished.

Unlike the pyramids, however, the job won't be done when the last concrete is poured on the last mile of Interstate. In fact, the excellence of this system, which enables motorists to travel thousands of miles without a traffic light and with greater economy and safety than on ordinary roads, actually emphasizes the deficiencies of those other roads.

America has 3.7 million miles of streets and highways and 114 million drivers operate 115 million vehicles on them. Yet half these roads are unpaved or otherwise inadequate to handle the present load. By 1990, another 41 million drivers and 50 million vehicles will join the fray.

Sounds like a plug by the "highway lobby" for the country to embark on Son of Interstate. Not at all.

"To accommodate all the vehicles beginning to glut our roads, we don't require endless miles of new pavement," sayd Donald Stabler, president of The Road Information Program (TRIP), a nonprofit organization that puts together figures about motoring.

"We need better, smoother pavement with fewer hills and curves. We need more overpasses and underpasses, better signs and intersections, stronger bridges and wider lanes to keep traffic flowing smoothly on substantially the same road mileage."

To back up his statement, Stabler notes that according to the Department of Transportation, 700,000 miles of present-day roads are outmoded and need to be rebuilt. The Federal Highway Administration says 88,900 bridges in this country are "critically deficient."

TRIP agrees that more attention must be paid to developing techniques for moving people in and out of our major cities quickly and efficiently, like good rail lines in densely populated areas. However, millions of workers travel only within the suburbs, driving from home to work and back without entering the city. By 1985 this will represent more than half the total urban work travel in metropolitan areas.

But if the nation's 3.7 millon miles of roads were brought up to federal standards, says Stabler, they could handle almost any kind of foreseeable traffic squeeze with little additional mileage.

The word then is not more new roads, but newer old roads.

Limited war leads to limited peace

Paradoxically, the new war between Egypt, Syria and Israel could lead to a better chance of peace in the Middle East.

If Egypt and Syria should push back the Israelis — even temporarily — and have their forward lines stabilized by a U.N. cease fire before the Israelis mobile sufficient forces to drive them back, then the two countries might be more willing to engage in the face-to-face talks the Israelis have been asking. The Israelis, too, might be more willing to deal realistically.

If, on the contrary, the Israelis quickly halt the Arab advance and send the Egyptians and Syrians reeling back into their September positions, or mount a drive further into Syrian and Egyptian territory, then Cairo and Damascus might well decide they had done what they could, and be ready for a settlement.

Such an outcome might satisfy those military and political groups which have threatened violent action against President Sadat unless he took strong action against Israel.

What seems clear as of this writing is that the Egyptians and Syrians are attempting the solution developed so successfully by the North Vietnamese in their final massive attack on the South before the "peace" agreement.

The Hanoi leaders attacked en masse with their armies, knowing that although their forces could not win, they nevertheless could occupy some new territory which would be retained under a new ceasefire.

The same situation would seem to hold true in the Suez Canal and Golan Heights fighting. The Egyptians and the Syrians cannot hope to defeat the Israeli nation and march into Tel Aviv, unless we have all been atrociously misinformed about the relative strength of the forces involved. But armies which move first in surprise attacks can usually gain territory, at least temporarily.

Israel is now learning, as did the United States in Vietnam, that a limited war with limited objectives (as was the case in the "Six Day" war) does not usually lead to peace in the real sense. In World War II, the fight for absolute victory — against the objections of those who wanted to settle for less — led in the end to strong economic cooperation, political friendship and to military alliances between the United States and its former enemies.

Thus far at least, limited wars all too frequently seem to lead to prolonged suspicion and to continued fighting in one form or another.

CIA quotes Arabs on need for war

WASHINGTON — A study of the intelligence reports from the Middle East strongly suggests that Egypt and Syria may have been driven by fierce pride into a war they fully expected to lose.

The Syrian Army chief, Gen Mustapha Talas, was quoted by the Central Intelligence Agency, for example, as declaring desperately: "Depsite the fact that . . . all the Arabs combined are weaker than Israel, there is no other choice. We must fight, and we will fight."

For months, he has been contending that the Middle East must be kept inflamed to attract world attention and to compel a solution. Only by keeping "the war case hot between us and Israel," he argued, could a political settlement be forced.

Continued the CIA cable: "Talas said he thought that if the Arabs had continued to 'fight' Israel after their successive defeats in 1948, 1956 and 1967, rather than turning their backs in defeat, many world leaders would have changed their policies vis-a-vis the Arab-Israeli dispute."

Sadat cautious

This logic reportedly was accepted by Syria's President Hafez al-Assad but was resisted by Egypt's more cautious President Anwar Sadat. For three years, Sadat made belligerent noises but held back from open hostilities. He made saber-rattling speeches. He posed in uniform inspecting the Suez fortifications. He called upon Egyptians to prepare for the "inevitable battle."

But he issued secret orders to his generals, according to the intelligence reports, not to provoke Israel. A CIA cable quoted military sources as saying "that President Anwar Sadat, when threatening Israel with an all-out war, was bluffing and that he had informed the Army of this."

Sadat explained to his generals, asserted the cable, that he "had to make this stand in order to maintain international interest in the problem and to silence local unrest."

But the empty threats bubble-gummed in Sadat's face. Other Arab leaders began to mock him. An intelligence report from Syria, for example, quoted President al-Assad as declaring derisively that "he did not expect too much from Egyptians even if they initiated the fighting."

Even at home, Egyptians began to snicker at Sadat. A joke made the rounds in Cairo that he had ordered an attack upon Israel but had come up with an excuse for every day in the week for holding back. The punch line: Saturday's excuse was that it would be improper to attack Israel on the Jewish sabbath.

U.S. embassy reports

The ridicule of Sadat, some observers feared, might goad him into taking rash action. This was the subject of a secret message from the U.S. embassy in Tel Aviv a few months ago.

"We believe," reported the embassy, "that Israeli leadership considers Egypt to be capable now, with virtually no further preparation and with practically no warning, to launch renewed war of attrition along Suez Canal or limited attack across it . . .

"(There is a) tendency among Arabs, which Israelis have noted, to treat Sadat's threats toward Israel with derision. Israelis feel that it is this credibility gap of Sadat's within the Arab world which conceivably could lead him, even against his better judgment, to decide impulsively to resume shooting."

The "snowballing of the situation," suggested a report, finally forced Sadat to fight. The war preparations, according to intelligence, began last Spring. His Syrian ally, President al-Assad, reportedly was eager to plunge into the war. "When the blow comes . . ." he vowed according to the CIA, "we will seize the opportunity and fight."

Diplomatic offensive

But Sadat, cautious to the last, carefully coupled a diplomatic offensive with his military attack. He lined up Saudi Arabia's King Faisal to neutralize the U.S. by threatening to cut off oil shipments if Washington favored Israel.

Sadat also sent word to both Washington and Moscow that the fighting was intended to wake up the world over the Middle East Crisis. Apparently, he sought to compel the great powers to impose a settlement on Israel that would force the Israelis to pull back from territory they captured in 1967.

The Israelis, who easily detected the military moves on both borders, bombarded Washington with warnings that the Syrians and Egyptians were preparing for a full-scale offensive

The warnings intensified in late September as the signs became clearer. But the policymakers in Washington, finding it difficult to believe the Arabs would risk military suicide, dismissed the Israeli messages as wolf-wolf cries.

Moscow dismayed

The outbreak of fighting, apparently, has caused Moscow as much dismay as Washington. The Egyptians have made no overtures to Russia, so far as we can learn, to support the war effort or replace Egyptian losses. Instead, Sadat reportedly has turned to Saudi Arabia to finance the rebuilding of Egyptian military forces.

Syria's relations with Russia have also deteriorated. The Syrians were annoyed because the Soviet technicians wouldn't man air defense missiles against Israeli planes. This forced the Syrians to go all the way to Hanoi to seek qualified people who knew how to operate the sophisticated Soviet equipment.

The Syrians were also stung by Israeli superiority in the skies. The proud Syrians preferred to blame this on inferior Soviet equipment rather than their own pilots.

Shortly before the fighting resumed, according to intelligence reports, Syria's Foreign Minister Abdel Khaddam got into a nasty argument with Russia's Ambassador Noureddine Mohiedinov.

The angry Foreign Minister responded by slapping strict travel restrictions on all Soviet personnel inside Syria. The Syrians tipped off the Russians about the coming attack, however, in time for them to withdraw dependents before the hostilities began.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, meanwhile, is trying to persuade the Arabs that the big powers cannot impose a settlement upon the Middle East. Only painful negotiations between the Arabs and Israelis, he has told them, can possibly bring a lasting peace.

When the big hand is on the 12 and the little hand is on the floor, it's time to get your watch fixed.

People who play their cards close to their vest had better have the pockets sewn shut.

One of the best ways to get round-shouldered is to carry grudges.

Gossip for today

Back around the early half of the 19th Century bathtubs first came into general use and it was then status minded folks first began harping that "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." So naturally, in addition to their harping, those bathtub owners seldom missed an opportunity to ostentatiously display their tubs in proof of the fact that they were not only God's chosen but also God's cleanest children. Thus, ever since those early days, bathtubs have ranked high as status symbols. But today their ability to produce cleanliness and Godliness is only one of their many virtues.

A professor at New York College hopes to set a new world's record for singing in the bathtub and in order that the general public may be better able to witness him accomplish this feat, he plans to seat himself in a bathtub mounted on a pick-up truck which will be touring East side, West side and all around the town. To make the event all the more impressive the professor will be wearing a cap and gown and holding an umbrella oyer his head.

Then there was the recent bathtub regatta in which the tubs were propelled by 10-horse power outboard motors.

So I fear it must now be admitted that while bathtub cleanliness has remained supreme, bathtub godliness has often fallen by the wayside. How can one ever forget that during the days of prohibition it was our bathtubs that made possible bathtub gin?

Fuel shortage tied to limit on pricing

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Five Republican senators and one Conservative pleading the case for a large industry won't win many rounds in liberal-minded Washington. Especially if the industry they are plugging happens to be the oil industry, viewed by many here as responsible for a near criminal conspiracy to deprive us all of fuel.

Republicans John Tower, Tex.; Henry Bellmon and Dewey Bartlett, Okla.; Paul Fannin, Ariz.; and Cliff Hanson, Wyo., were joined by New York Conservative James Buckley in an attempt to explain the necessity for deregulating the price of natural gas.

The senators made sense to anyone who listened with an open mind. With facts and figures they showed that while the Federal Power Commission has kept natural gas prices aritificially low for domestic producers, little or nothing has been done to keep the price of synthetic gas at comparable levels. Imported gas is even worse.

They also attacked the worth of a specious bill now before the Senate that would partially reform the FPC from a stringent disciplinarian into a quasi-benefactor, favoring independent dealers over the large corporations.

A discriminatory practice

The proposed bill would do nothing to restore free-market movement of natural gas. Instead, it would allow independents to adjust prices while big companies were held back. A discriminatory practice that could not help but create shortages in some areas and surplus in others.

The six men came into the press conference fully aware they were trying to beard the lion in his lair. Sure enough, the first question accused them of being "opportunisitc," using the current Mid-East hostilities as a springboard to launch their legislative attempt.

Mid-East reliance has been a particular sore spot with men like Sen. Bellmon and Sen. Tower. Both have long abjured increasing U.S. dependency on supplies from that international hot-spot. Threats that oil supplies might cease if U.S. policies continue to favor Israel only serve to substantiate the senators' fears.

However, the press conference was not intended to take advantage of the situation. According to Sen. Buckley, the conference was scheduled some two weeks before, and no one certainly had any "advance intelligence" to predict the outbreak of war.

Another reporter demanded to know what kind of "guarantee" the major oil companies had made in return for legislation to kill FPC regulation.

Bellmon hotly replied no guarantees were necessary because the "record speaks for itself."

Profits go into exploration

The senator said in his state, Oklahoma, intra-state natural gas sales—unhindered by FPC regulations—guarantee that oil companies plow much of their profits back into domestic exploration.

"You can't get a drilling rig for nine months," Bellmon said. "But that's because companies can make a profit on what they find. If the FPC controlled intra-state prices, there wouldn't be that kind of activity."

The best things this country has ever known came from the other businesses, there is no reason it can't work for oil companies.

As Sen. Buckley said, "We have paid a very high price for our over-zealous and misguided attempt to protect the consumer against the operations of the marketplace. I hope we learn from this experience the ancient lesson that the only sure way a shortage can be created is to attempt to hold its price below a level which justifies its production."

Even Congress cannot legislate against that basic economic law.

CLAREMONT'S NEW SEAL—Mrs. Adele Schoene, 569 Occidental Drive, Claremont, displays the new city logo which she designed and which the Claremont City Council approved recently. The new seal replaces one the city adopted in 1968. Mrs. Schoene combined in the logo the things commonly found around the city such as its arches and its estimated 17,000 trees.

Nature interpreter course being offered

CLAREMONT — A nature interpreter training course for persons "having an interest in the living world and who like children" is being offered by Nature Nearby beginning Tuesday at the city's new wilderness park, Sycamore Canyon.

The course will last through Nov. 20 and will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays.

Instructors will emphasize environmental relationships in a typical wild area, such as the effects of light on living things, uses of native plants and animal and plant interrelationships.

The course will culminate in an all-day field trip to representative Southland natural communities. For that event, the class will join one of the regular "Four Seasons" tours for Nature Nearby members.

Nature Nearby is working with the city parks and recreation department to serve as an integral part in the city's development of the new Sycamore Canyon park.

More information about the course may be obtained by phoning either Mary Coffeen at 626-1616 or Doris Drewes at 982-4787.

Claremont sets bike fee hours

CLAREMONT — Bicycle licenses will now be sold only between 12:30 and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at city hall, Deputy City Manager Norman King has announced.

King said that city hall clerks will be able to handle the five and 10-minute transactions better during those hours.

He said that office work efficiency is hampered when clerks constantly are called away from their duties to check bike forms, accept cash and issue tabs.

Informal classes

College group seeking volunteers to teach

CLAREMONT — A group of students and faculty members at Pomona College is looking for volunteers who have an urge to teach informal, on-credit classes.

The group, which organized the "Quest" program at the college last year, would like to get the program under way again this year. Volunteer instructors on any and all subjects are needed to conduct five weekly classes beginning later this month.

Over 500 people participated in last year's program which included classes in cooking, leatherworking, knitting and others.

Interested persons are urged to call Pam Wrightman, Ext. 2239; Bec. Johnk, Ext. 2392; or Tim DeYoung, Ext. 2223, to discuss their teaching interests.

All extension numbers may be reached through the Claremont Colleges switchboard at 626-8511.

Friends to hold pancake brunch

CLAREMONT — Claremont Friends Meeting has scheduled a pancake brunch Oct. 20 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Friends Meeting House.

James Pino, who recently returned from Washington, D.C., will discuss late political developments in the U.S. capital.

The brunch to benefit Friends Committee on Legislation will feature pancakes, eggs, apple sauce, coffee and milk.

Adults will be asked to donate $2 and children $1.

Plants and interesting items from abroad will be on sale.

NASA aide to give space talk at school

CLAREMONT — James Boyle, space science education specialist with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will put on a science lecture-demonstration during an assembly Tuesday at 9 a.m. at the Sycamore School auditorium.

The program is designed to acquaint the community with the role of NASA in the exploration of space.

Boyle will also work in the classrooms with teachers and students.

The program will last about 50 minutes and include discussions and demonstrations of aeronautics, rocketry, propulsion systems, satellites, probes, orbits, communications, human factors and manned space flights. It is designed for fourth grade level and higher.

Interested citizens who wish to attend may call the school office and seating will be provided.

Meditation talk slated in Pomona

POMONA — A lecture on "transcendental Meditation" will be given here Tuesday in the City Council chambers beginning a 7:30 p.m.

Jonathan Mayhew, a member of the International Meditation Society, will be the speaker. The lecture is open to the public and is free.

"It's not a religion," Mayhew said, "but a simple mental practice that produces scientifically verifiable physiological benefits."

Reading unit to show new children's books

CLAREMONT — A membership tea where recent children's books will be displayed will kick off the new year for the Foothill Council of the International Reading Association at Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association Oct. 16 from 4 to 6 p.m

Mrs. Hazel Wilson, council president, has reported that educators from the Pomona Valley have been invited to attend.

The display will feature 75 new books from the George G. Stone Children's Library at the Claremont Graduate School and University Center. Librarian Winifred Ragsdale has arranged for the books.

Council actitivities will include a teaching aids fair Nov. 17 and an author's banquet May 3.

Officers who will assist Mrs. Wilson this year are Mrs. CleoBell Heiple, president-elect; James Walker, treasurer; Mrs. Margaret Howard, recording secretary; and Mrs. Sharyl Reynolds, corresponding secretary.

University Club issue: tax reform

CLAREMONT — Dr. Harold R. McClelland, a former dean and now a professor of economics at Claremont Men's College, will speak on "Tax Reform — the Problem" Tuesday noon at the weekly meeting of the University Club of Claremont at Griswold's.

McClelland's talk will be part of a two-week series covering the many-sided issue.

Dr. W. Craig Stubblebein, associate professor of economics, Claremont Men's College, will deliver the second part of the series Oct. 23. He will speak on the "Reagan Proposal."

the liberties of their country.

From time to time, the delicate balance tipped either toward a self-centered individualism disregardful of the welfare of others, or toward a zealous evangeism determined to make saints of all whether they wished it or not. But in the past, at least, the willingness to bet in progress restored the balance between individualiy and connectedness, between the claims of the one and the rights of all, before too much damage was done.

The disposition to look ahead also imparted a balance to the American understanding of freedom. Self-reliance was a virtue and each person could seek his own goal. But the frontier, no less than the indusrial environment, taught also the necessity for cooperation. The individual, alone in the wilderness or the city, was weak and vulnerable — scarcely free.

The government that protected him increased his power and therefore, up to a point, increased his freedom.

Much in the political history of the United States was an experiment to discover where that point lay. The state had to act, bu only by the consent of those it governed and only in the interest of their general welfare; and large areas of life—religion, for instance—were outside its competence.

Constitutional agreements and the tracts of political theorists supplied the words to describe the arrangements that preserved the balance. But experience supplied the practical understanding that usually enabled Americans to make those arrangements. There were dismal failures, as well as heartening successes. But a world still prone to violence and irrationality, a world which veers from the verge of anarchy to total dictatorship, can profit from reminders of the relevance of that American experience.

Next Sunday: Dr. John R. Platt, Mental Health Research Institute, University of Michigan.

SYLVIA EARLE MEAD, marine botanist and aquanaut, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Founding Friends of Harvey Mudd College Oct. 25, in the Blue Ribbon Room of the Los Angeles Music Center.

Setbacks hit prison reform

By CLARK McKINLEY

SEATTLE (UPI) —Jim Passage, 30, doesn't think he'll ever be able to erase a picture impressed on his mind when he visited Walla Walla State Prison as a youngster.

"That was before the reforms," he recalled. "It put a picture in my mind I'll never forget. What got to me there was the men —they looked like they'd been walked on a long time."

Last spring, Passage, now a Seattle accountant, returned to Walla Walla to do something about that "picture."

Through Job Therapy, Inc., a non-profit agency to help ex-offendes, Passage met Don, a 25-year-old former Shelton, Wash. logger sent to prison for assault.

"The first visit I had with him I only spoke about 100 words. He did most of the talking," Passage said.

After three such visits, the dialogue turned to what Don was going to do once he got out of prison.

The inmate has been working as a meatcutter at Walla Walla, but "there's not a tremendous demand for meatcutters these days," Passage observed.

The ex-offender's adjustment to the "outside" is a concern Passage shares with scores of corrections officials, criminologists and others who want penal reform.

Among them is Richard Simmons, founder of Job Therapy in 1965, who insists that thousands are "rotting like vegetables" when they could be working through their problems outside prison walls.

"If we went back to the whipping post where we whipped them and forgave them it would be more merciful than what we're doing now," he said. "In a sense, we punish them for the rest of their lives."

Simmons is not "soft on crime," but like many reformers, he believes locking up an offender is no way to punish him and a worse way to rehabilitate him.

Job Therapy has followed through by placing 814 former offenders in jobs between last December and July through state and private funding.

The problem, Simmons explains, is convincing government bureaucrats that alternatives to incarceration are as economical as they are efficient.

But taxpayers and lawmakers are wary of changes in the prison system, and they tend to remember the criminals who appear set on proving the wisdom of prison walls for all offenders.

One of them was Arthur St. Peter, whose escape from the state prison's "Take a Lifer to Dinner" program cost the state $1860,000 and the life of a pawnshop operator, whose widow collected that amount of damages.

The court settlement last May would have paid for Job Therapy's "Man to Man" sponsorship program and "Job Start" enterprise for one year.

Similarly, a state work-release program housing 30 offenders received an eviction notice last month from the Seattle Hungerford Hotel after two members were charged with crimes. A third offense by another man compounded the bad publicity.

Parole officer Phil Kranz described the most recent crime as "a damned shame" because it eclipsed the fact that 83 per cent of the 495 prisoners who had gone through the program the past three years were successfully paroled.

Simmons believes such programs will work, and might some day be expanded to include all but the most dangerous offenders.

He visualizes a state-coordinated alternative to incarceration similar to the one he saw in the Netherlands, where private work-release agencies, half-way houses and drug help programs rehabilitate the offender with state funding.

Such programs could use hundreds of volunteers, and to support his vision Simmons points to the more than 2,000 volunteers who have sponsored offenders in Washington State. A similar program in California has matched more than 1,400 sponsors with offenders in its shorter history.

Such volunteers, working three or four hours a week with the offenders, is Simmons' answer to the tendency for the public to hand problems over to government.

"We have to get off this kick of trying to pay someone else to do our benevolence for us."

Bank group will hold a seminar

POMONA — The American Institute of Banking, Citrus Belt Chapter, Educational Committee will present a seminar Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Great Western Savings & Loan Association building at 300 Pomona Mall West.

An Arcadia doctor will lecture on effects of family discord on work attitude, children and the working mother and how a positive approach helps.

The seminar is open to all bankers who are members of AIB in San Gabriel and Pomona valleys.

Reservations may be made by calling Nancy DeWolf at 714 622-1231.

Paint firm announces dividend

TORRANCE — The board of directors of Standard Brands Paint Co. has announced that a quarterly cash dividend of 6.25 cents per share will be payable to stockholders on Nov. 5. The dividend will be payable to stockholders of record as of Oct. 15.

The dividend is the 41st consecutive quarterly dividend to be paid by the company.

Standard Brands manufactures and retails a complete line of paints through 51 company-owned paint and decorating centers.

2 more bodies are identified

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Harris County medical examiner has identified the remains of two more victims of the Houston mass murders.

Dr. Joseph Jackimcyzk announced Tuesday the remains were identified as two brothers who were reported missing late last year. They were Billy Gene Baulch Jr., 17, and Michael Baulch, 15.

Jachimcyzk said Michael, whose remains were found in a boat shed, was shot twice in the head, and Billy, found in a shallow grave on High Island, was strangled.

Services for the brothers will be held Friday.

Four more attractive Aussie issues

By GUSTAV DETJEN JR.

The Austrian Post Office announced the following issues:

Sept. 28 — 2 Schilling — Centennial of the Vienna Trotting Association which has held a leading position in Europe.

Sept. 28 — 2 Schilling — 50th anniversary of the death of Ferdinand Hanusch (1866-1923), leading Austrian Socia Democrat and Secretary of State for Social Welfare during the administration of Chancellor Karl Renner.

Oct. 2 — 4 Schilling — 50th anniversary of INTERPOL (International Criminal Police Organization), established in Vienna in 1923 and which has now 114 member nations cooperating.

Oct. 8 — 2.50 Schilling — Europhot meeting, Vienna 1973. Created in Graz (Austria) in 1953 the Europhot organization united the European professional photographers societies and now includes not only Austria, but Germany, Switzerland, Netherlands, Sweden.

To mark the International Letter Writing Week in 1973, Japan issued a 50-yen postage stamp on Oct. 6. It shows a portion of a screen painting "A Flock of Cocks" by Jakuchu Ito (1716-1800) a painter of the Yedo period. International Letter Writing Week is also observed in the United States.

To obtain a free copy of the new 24-page 1973-74 catalog of Lighthouse albums and accessories send a 8-cent stamp to Philatelic Supply Co., Salt Point Turnpike, Clinton Corners, N. Y. 62514.

A new 96-page specialized catalog of Canadian Postage Stamps has been released. This pocket-sized catalog was produced by four experts and covers all stamps of Canada and its provinces. There are nearly 700 illustrations with close-ups of many varieties. Standard Scott catalog numbers are used. The values given are realistic retail prices and it is planned to reveiw these prices year after year. We believe this catalog to be esstential to the collectors of Canada. The price is $1.80 postpaid. Order from Philatelic Publishers Co., Box 714-D, Station Q. Toronto M4T 2N8. Canada.

The American Automobile Association's World Wide Travel Agency, (Roger J. Szymanski) 3357 S. 10th St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53215, announced plans for a philatelic tour to Stockholmia 74, the International Stamp Exhibition at Stockholm, Sweden, in September 1974. Three countries will be visited, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, from Sept. 18 to Oct 2 and will be centered around philatelic attractions. Write for free color brochure, if you are interested. now.

Kottelat & Cie., Spitalgasse 29-D Bern, Switzerland, just released its 1974 catalog of Switzerland and Liechtenstein. There are 276 pages describing and pricing all issues, fully illustrated. Included is information on the number of stamps issued which makes this catalog of special value.

"Watercraft Philately" is the title of ATA Handbook No. 80. The main feature of the 84-page book is an updated Scott check list of all types of watercraft on stamps, including catalog numbes, date issued, values, description, name of vessel, year built, owner, overprints, etc. Over 15,000 ships on stamps are listed. More than 1250 ships have been identified by name. Priced to sell at $5, it can be ordered now at $4 from American Topical Association, 3308-D N. 50th St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53216. A free sample of Topical Time will be included.

The 99 Company, Box 99-D, San Clemente, Calif. 92672 have for sale color reproductions in fired enamel on silver and bronze of the most valuable and rare stamps. Present issues include Great Britain No. 1, U.S. No. 295-A, Canada No. 1, Hawaii No. 1, British Guiana No. 6, U.S. No. 1X1. These "Cloisonne" stamps sell for $13.00 in silver and $7.25 in bronze, each.

They stick together

Gabbs is a hometown spot

GABBS, Nev. (UPI) —There aren't any big gambling clubs, plush hotels or other "tourist traps" in this small central Nevada community.

X-rated movies are out and the city is virtually crime free. Gabbs, in fact, just doesn't measure up to the image of most Nevada cities with their fast action and flashy veneer.

What really makes this city of less than 1,000 residents stand apart is its spirit. It puts aside personal differences to work together.

Examples are plentiful. Parents became concerned several years ago when players from the high school football team, called the "Tarantulas", kept coming home from practice and games with cuts, scratches and bruises —acquired from the rough dirt field. One weekend citizens got together, donated their time, leveled and planted grass for a new field.

They didn't ask for any federal or state money —they just went ahead without fanfare with the project.

Ditto, the baseball diamond and the dirt nine hole golf course, affectionately called "Sandy Bottom."

The city's best effort, however, is its annual picnic in September which offers free food, beer, soft drinks, contests in mining skills and entertainment.

It's a community get-together and serves as a "homecoming" for those who have left. This year 3,000 showed up. There were only a handful of out-of-state tourists—which is just the way many Gabbs residents like it. And it was held the same weekend as the Nevada State Fair in Reno and the annual camel races in Virginia City.

"There is no big hustle here," says Tom Jones, owner of the Keystone Club, the largest in the town with one 21 game and four slot machines.

For months, nearly every citizen serves on a committee planning the event, which this year cost $10,000.

"Without everybody in on the planning this would not be the success it is," says Mayor Reno Retti, a 22-year resident.

It's a city that is close knit, says the mayor. "If a person breaks a leg or is down on his luck, then the rest chip in out of their own pocket," says Ratti, who works for Basic Refractories, a mining plant which is the only reason for the city's existence. The company contributed $7,000 towards this year's picnic.

The event "started as an attempt to rekindle the mining camp spirit," says Bob Gates, former head of Basic here. Gates, now a vice president in the main office in Cleveland, Ohio, says, "It started as a company-town picnic but we kind of made it a volunteer city effort."

The picnic serves in part as public relations to convince outsiders Gabbs isn't such a bad place to live. It is isolated in the desert about 120 miles southwest of Reno. By modern standards Gabbs doesn't have much to offer.

Most parents like it because it lacks the big city temptations for their children. Typical is Sharon Reed, a young housewife with children 8 and 10 years old who moved here from the Reno area.

"It's an excellent place to raise children," she says. "We always know where our kids are or we can find them with one or two phone calls."

There are occasional problems with marijuana but it hasn't spread to the "hard stuff," say local citizens.

Despite the enthusiasm, the company here finds it hard to recruit and maintain a stable work force. And high school graduates mostly move on to "greener pastures." For instance, only two of the 18 graduates of the class of 1969 remained.

One of the two is Dale Burleson who has tasted "big city" life and found out he's really a small town boy. "A lot of people say there is nothing to do here. You have to make 'something to do.'" He spends his spare time hunting, fishing and exploring old mines and covering the wide open desert with a four-wheel drive.

MINING MASTERS — His hand a blur of old-time muscle power, Fred Andreason swings a sledge at a star drill as he keeps his championship in "single jack" drilling. The contest is part of the annual "Gabbs Day" festival in Gabbs, Nev., a town where there are no gambling clubs, plush hotels, or tourist traps. Gabbs is a plain down-home kind of place to live.

Theft suspect received more than he asked

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —An alleged robber got a little more than he bargained for from his two victims this week.

Lonzell Higgins, 38, allegedly took $4.80 from Eddie Roberts, 31, and Ronald Simon, 30, as they left a liquor store and walked to their car.

He then ordered them to leave and they did.

But as Higgins allegedly retrieved the money dropped on the sidewalk, the victims' car roared around a corner, struck him and sent him 30 feet into the street.

Simon then jumped from the car, grabbed Higgins' gun and held him until police arrived, authorities said.

Higgins was listed in fair condition at County-USC Medical Center. He was booked on suspicion of armed robbery.

Rice good addition to house cat's diet

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have been eating a lot of rice lately (the good brown kind) because it is one of the cheapest foods we can find. To our surprise we find Kinky, our old cat, enjoys the rice too, particularly if we slap a little margarine on it. What about such a dish for a cat? —S.V.

Dear S.V.: Be your cat Burmese, Siamese, or even of nonoriental ancestry, rice could be a good source of carbohydrate for the feline who finds it palatable. The margarine would supply some fat which cats can also utilize to advantage. Actually, many older cats would be better off if a portion of their present concentrated diet was replaced with rice, thus lowering their total protein intake.

DEAR DR. MILLER: You never saw a dog that loved to swim more than Big Red. In fact, he loves our pool so much Dad's considering leaving it full for him all winter so he can swim in it year round. He's a Chesapeake, and they are water dogs. Would it hurt him to swim during the cold weather? —L.F.

Dear L.F.: As you undoubtedly know, Chesapeakes are waterfowl retrievers and often perform their duties in miserable weather. They are a rugged breed, however, and can handle foul weather with a minimum of unfavorable consequences. A daily dip in the pool (provided pool chemicals are at a minimum) would be an aid in maintaining Big Red's rugged constitution.

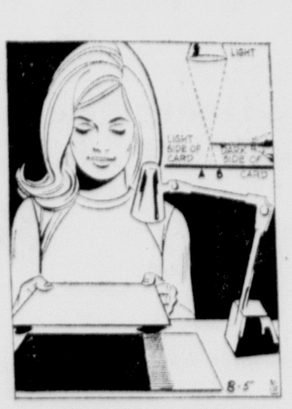

You should see to it that he has a cozy nook where he can get dry. Lying about in the cold after such a daily dip would not be desirable.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I am wondering if a snake like my skinny Sylvia could have a tapeworm? —P.R.

Dear P.R.: Certainly. Water snakes may accumulate tape worms along with captured frogs or fish; vipers and others may run into rodent tapeworms. Pigeon tapeworms may reside in reptiles. Should your skinny Sylvia be a python, and should she proceed to pack away a pig, she could become infected with the swine tapeworm. However, in this event the pig would do more to produce a portly effect than the tapeworm could do to cut down her weight. Actually, tapeworms are seldom a serious problem to reptiles or amphibians. In many species, including snakes, significant weight loss is most often due to a lack of food.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Mach bands.

NEEDED: a shaded lamp, white card, another card, any color, a darkened room.

DO THIS: Hold the card as shown so the light falls on half of the white card. Notice that where the shadow begins there is a light streak next to the bright reflection from the card and a dark streak on the dark shadow side of the card.

HERE'S WHY: Of course, there are really no such lines; this is an example of how the eyes and nervous system can fool our brains. But if the experiment is done correctly, the imaginary lines are very clear.

The Austrian physicist, philosopher and psychologist Ernst Mach first reported these bands to scientists 100 years ago and formulated a principle for the effect. A technical article touching on Mach bands appeared in Scientific American, June, 1972.

Try seeing the bands around your shadow on concrete on a sunny day. Sometimes they are more clearly seen if the body is moved.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Situations are stirring that will give you a greater sense of security. Matters affecting your income look favorable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should feel quite perky and active today. Plan a full schedule. You'll be too restless to settle for less.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A lot has happened to you this past week. This would be a good day to review things and to plan your action for the week ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You need to be out and among friends or involved in some group activity with foks who share your likes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Automatically you'll have a certain air of authority about you. It will cause others to treat you with respect.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your strength today can be found in your philosophic beliefs. It will take a lot to shake you as long as you keep faith with yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Any changes that you make are likely to have been well-thought-out. Chances of improving your lot look promising.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will function best today in whatever you attempt if you work with a partner. Alone, you're only half as effective.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Applying your energies to a productive hobby will give you a great amount of satisfaction. Work with your hands.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A very important relationship is improving. The bonds that link you will be strengthened today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Center your activites and attention on family. You'll enjoy doing things with them more than with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Ideas and plans that previously caused concern and confusion will come more clearly into focus. Trust them to work—they will.

Your Birthday
Oct. 14

Greater stability is likely this year as the base you build your future upon will be strengthened. You'll be treated generously in areas where you share an interest.

For Monday, October 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Business matters will go smoothly for you today, but a certain social situation will cause you some embarrassment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The less others are involved in your affairs today the better — you will perform best on your own. Ask no outsider for material aid.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Keep your mind on more serious interests, as today will prove to be very productive. Too much pursuit of pleasure spoils your chances.

CANCER (Kune 21-July 22) You will be tempted today to say some unflattering things about one you dislike. Don't. Your listener will reveal the source.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a bit too flirtatious today. It's nice to be admired, but you could be setting up a situation you may have a problem unwinding.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be sure to give credit due, else you're going to hurt someone's feelings, and they won't be so anxious to help you the next time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not fritter your time away the next few days on frivolous ventures. Important projects can be pushed if you act industriously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually your advice regarding business matters is quite sound. However, today you'll overlook some important points while guiding another.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be too condenscending today in an important relationship. This won't work to your advantage. Be sincere.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you're going to promise to do something which you will not take too seriously, but the other person will. Follow through.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not one of your better days where romance is concerned. Let Dan Cupid shoot his arrows at someone else.

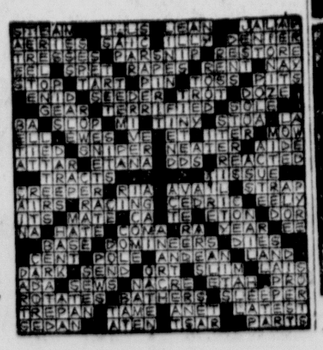

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are likely to show outsiders today far more consideration than you will your family. Remember, charity begins at home.

October 15

This will be a very busy year, with important opportunities. Much can be attained, provided you make the most of all that is offered.

Lucky bid

S. B. County engineer to take new job

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — County Engineer M. A. Nicholas made official announcement to the Board of Supervisors that he plans to retire on Oct. 31.

"As a county employee for the past 25 years, I would like to express my gratitude and appreciation for the support and loyalty each and every member of the Board of Supervisors has shown throughout the years," Nicholas told the Board.

While retiring as engineer, Nicholas will take up a new position with the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) to formulate "an orderly multi-mode capability to relate to the federal government in other than just highways."

He will formulate a program toward development of an acceptable Balance Transportation Plan, which he insists is a challenge to all the people of this vast county.

Estates valued at $7.5 million go to state

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Controller's office reports that as of Sept. 30 it had accumulated the unclaimed estates of 9,225 Californians valued at $7.5 million.

In addition, the controller's office said Thursday, it had, over the years, received 310,120 items of abandoned property valued at $23.4 million.

Controller Houston Flournoy said the latest unclaimed funds and abandoned property with a total value of $584,171 were received by his office during the July-September quarter of fiscal 1973-74.

Flournoy said estates are permanently escheated to the state if unclaimed after five years. Abandoned property, he said, was subject to claim indefinitely.

First for Israel

The first nation to be created with the approval of the United Nations in the 20th century was Israel. It covers only 8,000 square miles and would occupy only one-fourth the area of the State of Maine.

Thank you Mr. samaritan, whoever you are

By ROBERT CAREY

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) —A storm was gathering outside when the phone rang. My wife was talking, something about the car and Michael, the five-year-old, noticing the smoke.

"Smoke, what smoke?" my voice broke and cracked klie a teen-ager's. "Under the hood," she said. "Should I stay here?"

Don't move, I said. I had visions of a burned out engine, thrown rods and horrendous repair bills. It started to rain, big popping drops that splattered noisily on the roof and pavement.

I cranked up the 10-year-old Volkswagen, laughlingly known in our house as the second car, and am off, heading through the deluge on what sounds like three cylinders. I am worried. Frankly, what I don't know about cars would fill a bookshelf of encyclopedias. I have always envied those fellows who throw open a hood, pull and push a gizzmo or two and then, while casually wiping off the grease say, "There, good as new. The wire to your fitchwell was shorting so I just flibbered your jibbet and cranked your case—she's o.k. now."

I turned in to the post office lot where our vehicle lay wounded and in need of medical attention. It was dark and wet and service stations were closing early becuase of the fuel shortage. The babies were peering up with big round eyes. It was at this nadir of events that the real saviour arrived.

He appeared at my elbow, a short man with white hair and rosy cheeks. "Haynes is the name," he said. "What seems to be the trouble?' Well, Mr. Haynes, there's been some smoke and..."Let's have a look at it," said Mr. Haynes, pushing up the sleeves of his seersucker jumpsuit, anxious to get busy. We opened the hood and poked inside with a flashlight.

"There it is, you see, your radiator hose is busted, split right up the backside there,' said Mr. Haynes, standing back and confidently wiping the grease off his hands. "Best I can do for you is to run you over to the auto shop," he added, "see if they got a part."

We rushed to Stinger Sam's Auto Parts, arriving just before closing, and bought a radiator hose for $1.96 including tax. Back at the lot we put the thing on in five minutes. When I say "we" I must generously include myself as my role in the emergency repair was, as you might imagine, limited.

I hoped I hadn't put him out any. "Nope, just going home to watch "Gunsmoke." he said. We talked a bit more there under the dripping post office eaves about the vageries of radiator hoses on foreign cars and similar experiences and I found out he had been an electrician for the Veterans Administration for 24 years.

"Well, let me have your first name and address Mr. Haynes,' I said, "and I'll send you a Christmas card or something."

"No, no," he said, swinging up into his camper, a little old driver so lively and quick. He wouldn't hear of it. "You do the same for someone else some time," he called ere he drove out of sight.

"I'll do that Mr. Haynes and thanks a lot," I hollered after him.

I stood in the rain looking after him as he disappeared into the traffic on John F. Kennedy Boulevard. I wondered if maybe he didn't have a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer waiting for him somewhere up north.

Weather over Pacific Ocean very baffling

HONOLULU (UPI) —Scientists are wondering what's gone wrong with the weather over the Pacific Ocean.

The usually lush Hawaiian islands of Maui and Hawaii have been in the grip of severe drought for months that has also left other Pacific islands and Japan with unexplicable dry spells.

Meteorologists believe the drought is part of a weather cycle affecting the entire Pacific Basin, but they don't know why.

"It's baffling," said Dr. Colin Ramage, chairman of the University of Hawaii's meteorology department.

"Over the past 18 months, the whole of the Pacific Basin has been undergoing a phenomenal weather cycle," he said.

The New Zealand native who has received a $40,000 research grant from the National Science Foundation to study the phenomenon noted that in January, 1972, the surface temperatures started rising.

"We have no idea why, but we do know that the temperatures, measured at island and coastal stations and from ships, started to go up," Ramage said.

"The surface temperatures continued to rise throughout the year," he said, "reaching a peak in December. Then suddenly and just as unexplicably the temperatures began falling early this year until they were far below normal.

"We do know that when such a cycle occurs, there seems to be a distinct connection between the sea surface and weather," Ramage said. "But we're at a complete loss to explain what sparks the cycle."

Meteorologists believe the rainfall throughout the Pacific Basin is somehow tied to these surface temperature variations. Ramage noted that last year was marked by abnormal rains, including three cyclones hitting the Hawaiian islands in August, 1972.

"Christmas Island, the Line Islands and Canton Island all had record rainfalls," he said, "and then, like Hawaii, experienced record droughts."

Ramage said "there is some evidence that these cycles in the Pacific occur roughly at 15 to 17 year intervals, but the latest one has been extremely intense, making it very interesting."

Ramage believes the key to the cycle lies in the eastern Pacific, which he described as "one of the least known regions of the world meteorologically."

He said that if the current cycle follows the pattern, the drought areas should get some very heavy rain this winter.

"We know the pattern of the cycle," he said, "and we're using every means available to us to find out what starts it."

Juror excused; he was a judge

LOSANGELES (UPI) —The jury commissioner has excused Joseph A. Wapner, whose name had been picked by a computer from the list of registered voters, from serving as a juror in Superior Court.

Wapner is Superior Court judge.

Mets boot World Series opener, 2-1

OAKLAND (UPI) —The New York Mets, who created a legend by making impossible plays to win the World Series four years ago, lost the opener of this year's Series because they couldn't even make one routine play.

Second baseman Felix Millan booted a simple, little groundball in the third inning Saturday and the error allowed the Oakland A's to score both their runs and escape with a 2-1 victory.

"I just missed it," Millan said. "It was an easy out."

Millan's error wasted a brilliant pitching job by young lefthander Jon Matlack. It also strengthened the A's role as favorites to become .the first team, other than the Yankees, to win back-to-back world championships in more than 40 years although New York's Ed Kranepool didn't think the opening game meant all that much.

"Remember the 1969 World Series?" Kranepool said. "We lost the first game to Baltimore, too. And the opening game of the playoffs last week to Cincinnati. The first game doesn't decide anything."

There was one notable difference between what happened in 1969 and what happened Saturday. Four years ago, the "miracle" Mets were catching balls no one figured could be caught, especially outfielders Tommie Agee and Ron Swoboda. This time, a routine grounder did them in.

Bert Campaneris hit it with two out in the third inning, and when it rolled through Millan's legs winning pitcher Ken Holtzman—who had doubled in his first official at-bat of 1973— scored the game's first run. Campaneris scored the second run moments later.

"How much does it hurt?" someone asked Millan, who was obtained by the Mets from Atlanta last winter largely to shore up their defense.

"Too much," said the affable, popular Puerto Rican who had made only nine errors all year —"most of them on throws, not on ground balls," he said.

Manager Yogi Berra of the Mets wasn't conceding a thing although odsmakers altered the price on the A's to 11-5 after their opening victory.

"I'd like to have 'em hit every ball to him," Berra said, in defense of Millan.

And on the other side, Dick Williams wasn't claiming anything after seeing Matlack and Tug McGraw pitch.

"Those two fellows can pitch," Williams said. "And if that's what we have to look forward to, this thing could go seven games."

The A's, playing for the first time this year without the American League's designated hitter rule, actually turned it into an advantage when Holtzman doubled with two outs in the third to start the winning rally.

And, although Manager Dick Williams—who almost turned last year's World Series into his personal television show with more than 50 trips to the mound to talk to his pitchers— was limited to one per inning, it didn't seem to make any difference to Holtzman or relievers Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles.

Williams and his pitching coach, Wes Stock, still managed to make six trips to the mound between them.

The last one came when Knowles relieved Fingers with one out in the ninth inning to pitch to pinch hitter Rusty Staub, the Mets' top power hitter, who wasn't in the starting lineup because he's nursing a sore shoulder.

Ron Hodges, who coaxed a pinch hit walk off Fingers with one out, was on base when the lefthanded Knowles came in, and Manager Yogi Berra immediately switched batters, calling on light-hitting righty Jim Beauchamp to bat for the lefthanded Staub.

Second baseman Dick Green made a good catch of Beauchamp's looper in short centerfield, and Wayne Garrett flied to right for the final out.

The second game will be played here today at 1:30 p.m. PDT with two lefthanders again the starting pitchers—New York's Jerry Koosman (14-15 this season) and Oakland's Vida Blue (20-9).

Matlack, a 23-year-old lefthander whose career was in jeopardy only five months ago after he was struck on the forehead by a line drive, allowed only three hits in pitching the first six innings, but all came in the fateful third.

He had retired the first seven batters before Green coaxed a walk and then was cut down by catcher Jerry Grote when he tried to advance on a short wild pitch.

Holtzman, whose only batting appearance all year came when he drew a pinch hit walk in a game against Minnesota Sept. 24—Williams used Holtzman, Blue and Jim Hunter, his three starters, as hitters in that game since the A's already had clinched their division—then worked Matlack to a 3-2 count and grounded a double just fair down the leftfield line.

Campaneris then hit a grounder a couple of steps to Millan's right near second base. He got over in position to field it, bent down, and let the ball roll right between his legs, as Holtzman scored on the play.

The Mets still could have gotten out of the inning allowing only the one run, but Matlack threw high to first baseman John Milner when he had Campaneris apparently picked off and the speedster made it safely to second with a stolen base when Milner couldn't hold the throw.

Joe Rudi then lined a single to right to score Campaneris. Sal Bando followed with another single and Willie Mays, in centerfield as a lineup replacement for Staub, booted it for an error to allow Rudi to reach third before Matlack nailed Reggie Jackson on a foul pop, ending the inning.

The two errors by the Mets equalled the total they made in their stunning five-game World Series upset of the Baltimore Orioles in 1969, but aside from the third inning their defense was flawless.

Shortstop Bud Harrelson, showing no sign of wear from his playoff fight with Pete Rose last Monday, robbed Rudi of a hit in the first when he leaped for his looping drive, and made a diving catch of Angel Mangual's liner in the fifth.

New York scored its only run in the fourth when, with one out, Cleon Jones lined a double off the base of the centerfield fence and Milner followed with a single to center.

Millan got a two-out triple in the fifth when Rudi lost his long fly in left, but he was stranded.

Holtzman was lifted after five innings and Fingers, who came on in the sixth, was only briefly in trouble as Jones reached third with two out in the sixth before Harrelson fanned.

New York, which outhit Oakland 7-4, didn't get another runner past first base against either Fingers, the relief hero of last year's Series, or Knowles, wo received credit for the save.

The 42-year-old Mays, who's retiring from baseball after the Series, received a sustained ovation from the crowd of 46,021 when he was introduced before the game—he played 14 of his 22 seasons with the Giants just across the bay in San Francisco—but after a first inning single, Mays didn't hit the ball hard again.

Carter shines in Trojan win

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — A. C. may be the new hero for the USC Trojans.

San Dimas' Allen Carter, who has been waiting for his chance to fulfill his outstanding potential in a Trojan career hampered by nagging injuries, enjoyed his biggest day as a collegian Saturday afternoon in helping lead USC to a 46-35 win over Washington State.

Carter, who was rescued from his most embarassing moment by his spectacular running, rushed for 93 yards in nine carries—all in the second half-and scored the key touchdown to put away the pesky Cougars.

The junior speedster from Bonita High had the Trojan fans moaning when he downed the second-half kickoff on the one-yard line, thinking he was in the end zone.

With the Trojans behind 21-17 at halftime, his mental mistake could have been fatal for the nationally-ranked home team.

But Carter made full use of his opportunity to lead the second-half comeback in a game featuring a fourth quarter fight when WSU's Ron Cheatham hit USC's Lynn Swann after the Trojan flanker slipped and fell fielding a punt.

After the 15 yards were marched off for the personal foul, the charged-up Trojans scored their final touchdown with 3:03 left in the game when Ganesha High product Dean Lingenfelter, a senior tight end, caught a 30-yard pass from Pat Haden for his first Trojan TD.

"It was my mistake," Carter said about the kickoff miscue. "I deeply regret it but I thought I was deep in the end zone."

Carter played despite a groin pull. pull.

"I think it was my best game," the former Bonita sensation said. "I've improved a little this year. But injuries seem to be my middle name."

McKay isn't ready to say Carter has won a job.

"Carter is a super runner. He did an excellent job today running the sweeps pretty hard but I'm not sure he got through the game without getting hurt. I've said before he has to be able to practice," the USC coach said.

"Jimmy Sweeney doesn't teach that type of game," McKay said about the fight involving Swann. "I'm sure it was just an accident."

"I hated to see the brawl and the late hit," Sweeney, the Washington State mentor, added. "It's not something we condone. I especially hated to see it happen to a player of Swann's ability."

While USC was happy with its 46 points to show it can score, the Trojans were not the same defensive team as the one who had held their first four opponents to 20 points.

It will be interesting to see what will happen in the polls this week to the Trojans, who are 4-0-1 for the campaign. The tie against Oklahoma looks more impressive after the Sooners' romp over Texas earlier Saturday.

Haden, the junior from Bishop Amat, entered the Trojan record books by throwing four TD passes to tie a school record shared by Pete Beathard, Craig Fertig and Jim Jones. He connected twice to Lynn Swann for 29 and 11 yards plus one apiece to Jim Obradovich — 31 yards — and Lingenfelter.

After completing his first nine pass attempts, Haden wrapped up his afternoon performance by connecting on 15 of 24 throws for 242 yards.

Swann was his favorite. The flanker caught 10 passes, one short of a school record set by Fred Hill in 1964, for 148 yards. He was selected the Offensive Player of the Game for his efforts.

Despite being knocked out by Cheatham's blow, Swann was able to return to the game.

Carter's heroics didn't send Anthony Davis (A.D.) to oblivion. The high-stepping Davis ran for 102 yards on 21 carries and scored the go-ahead touchdown with a 14-yard run midway through the third quarter.

Carter climaxed a 72-yard march on 10 plays by scoring from the two in the opening minute of the fourth period to give the Trojans a 31-21 margin. A. C. accounted for 63 of those yards on six carries with the most exciting for the 50,975 fans being a 17-yarder to set up the two-yard TD plunge.

It was quickly 38-21.

After cornerback Marvin Cobb, a junior from Riverside voted the Defensive Player of the Game, recovered a WSU fumble on the Cougar 12, Haden connected to Swann on an 11-yard pass in the end zone to break the contest open.

Washington State, a much better team than its 1-4 record indicates, didn't have in though. The Cougars added two touchdowns in the fourth quarter, including the last one with 13 seconds on the clock, to make the final score respectable.

The Cougars had lost, 27-3, to No. 1 Ohio State last week. A quick comparison of scores indicates the Trojans are stronger offensively than the Buckeyes but much weaker defensively, a deduction seeming out of place from the earlier results this year.

Washington State used a strong running game to frustrate the heralded Trojan defense. The Cougars ran for 247 yards but were held to 90 in the air as the two quarterbacks—Wally Bennett and Chuck Peck—combined to complete 10 of 23 passes.

Pomona tied for SAL lead

Devils stop Garey, 7-0

By FRED CLAIRE
P-B Correspondent

WALNUT — Pomona High exploded on one big play in the first quarter here Saturday night to defeat Garey High 7-0.

The victory moved the Red Devils into a first place tie with Claremont High in the San Antonio League. Both teams are 2-0.

The only touchdown of the game came with 3:32 remaining in the first quarter when Red Devil tailback Raymond Butler broke loose on a 31-yard run. Fullback Jim Price kicked the extra point.

The Red Devils had taken over at the Garey 31 after Viking quarterback Scott Roque had been forced to punt from his own end zone. It was a punt by Price which rolled dead at the Garey one that put the Vikings in a hole.

Other than Butler's run it was a case of the teams playing even and unable to sustain much in the way of drives.

Even with Butler's 31-yard run the Red Devils had only 58 net yards in the first half. The Vikings had 85 yards in the first half although they couldn't get closer to the Red Devil goal line than the Pomona 22.

The Red Devils finished the game with 141 net yards, 71 on the passing of quarterback Steve Taylor.

Taylor completed eight-of-18 passes. It was Butler who was the key figure in the Red Devils' rushing game as he gained 62 yards on 19 carries. Other than his TD run, Butler's only long gainer was a 16-yard run in the second quarter.

The Vikings didn't make any serious threats to score until quarterback Scott Roque took to the air in the second half.

Garey's biggest threat came in the fourth quarter as Roque hooked up on a 45-yard pass to Doug Hughes to move the Vikings to the Pomona 26. On the next play halfback Derrick Daley ran 20 yards to the Red Devil six but a holding penalty on the play pushed the Vikings back to their own 37.

Two of the next three plays saw Roque dropped for losses of 11 and 12 yards and the Vikings ended up punting from their own 42.

Garey's one threat came after the Red Devils had reached the Viking 26 and had a fake field goal attempt with reserve quarterback John Souza throwing an incomplete pass.

Roque completed 11 or 19 passes for 169 yards. The Vikings' ground game ended up producing only 39 yards as Dana Hutchison was the leader with 18 yards.

End Stanley Webster was the leading Viking receiver with five receptions for 73 yards.

Herrera retains title with split decision after 15

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Mexico's Rafael Herrera, with both his eyes virtually closed, retained his World Boxing Council bantamweight championship Saturday night by scoring a split decision over former Thailand kick boxer Venice Borkorsor in a punishing 15-round fight at the Forum.

Herrera, making his first WBC 118-pound defense, had the shorter Borkorsor on the canvas in the seventh round for the fight's only knockdown. However, at the end, Herrera could barely see from both eyes while Borkorsor, the former WBC flyweight titleholder, was unmarked.

Bruins rush by blushing Cards, 59-13

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — James McAlister ran for 117 yards and scored three touchdowns in less than a half of action to help lead the bruising UCLA ground attack to a new school rushing mark of 621 yards Saturday and a 59-13 rout of Stanford.

The 11th-ranked Bruins, who averaged 42 points per game going into the Pacific 8 matchup, rolled to an impressive 38-6 halftime lead, scoring six of the seven times they handled the ball and then coasted in.

McAlister, who left the game with 5:40 left in the second quarter with a leg injury, scored on runs of five, three and 50 yards.

The 202-pound fullback and his running mate Kermit Johnson combined for 243 of the team's 370 first half rushing yards.

The man who set up four of UCLA's scores with long runs was Johnson, who picked up 126 yards on just six carries in the first half. He reeled off runs of 51 and 54 yards to set up the Bruins' first two scores and then went 19 yards to set up the sixth TD.

Johnson's five game rushing total now stands at 534 yards, just 16 short of Kenny Washington's UCLA career record of 1,915 yards.

Charlie Schuhmann, McAlister's replacement, dived over from one yard out and Jimmie Jones from four and Efrem Herrera kicked a 26-yard field goal and five extra points to round out UCLA's first half scoring.

Schuhmann is the former Bonita High gridder that teamed with SC's Allen Carter to lead the Bearcats to the 1969 CIF 3-A finals.

Dangerous Dallas challenges potent Rams

LOS ANGELES — The next three weeks will determine if the Rams are for real.

Beginning today Los Angeles will face three teams which have lost only two games among them in 1973.

First on the agenda is the Dallas Cowboys, one of the premier teams in the NFL. Kickoff time is 1:05 p.m. before a crowd that should exceed 75,000.

Following the bout with Dallas (3-1) the Rams take on Green Bay (3-1) at the Coliseum, then travel to Minnesota (4-0).

The Rams are not exactly patsies. As a matter of fact, they are undefeated, having disposed of Kansas City, Atlanta, San Francisco and Houston in that order.

Tom Landry's Cowboys, meanwhile, collected wins over Chicago, New Orleans and St. Louis before falling to Washington Monday night on national television, 14-7.

"The loss will make them that much tougher," predicted Coach Chuck Knox.

Still stinging from that setback, a replay of so many Cowboy games lost in the last yard—Dallas will be a desperate team in the Coliseum today.

Quarterback Roger Staubach started ahead of Craig Morton Monday, but left the game in the second half with a charley horse. He's expected to be healthy for the Rams.

So is Calvin Hill, the great running back who leads the NFC in rushing with 388 yards and a 4.8 average per carry. Hill's backfield companion is either Robert Newhouse, the 5-10 second-year scooter from Houston, or Walt Garrison, the hard-running eight-year veteran.

For receivers, Staubach can choose from Otto Stowe, the former Miami Dolphin, Bob Hayes, who was limited with a hamstring pull against Washington, or Mike Montgomery. Then there's the new tight end, first draft choice Billy Joe Dupree from Michigan State who caught three TDs in one game this year.

All of this plus a veteran offensive line combine to make the Cowboys the No. 1 ranked team in total offense in this week's NFC ratings.

On defense, the Cowboys are just as devastating, enough so in fact that they are also the top defensive team in the conference after a month of play.

What makes this shape up into a natural is the fact that the Rams are No. 2 in the NFC in both total offense and total defense.

As the top rushing team in the conference, the Rams have been averaging 219.8 yards per game on the ground. This is due to the crisp blocking of the veteran offensive line and the talent of second-year running backs Lawrence McCutcheon and Jim Bertelsen. With 345 yards, McCutcheon ranks second in the NFC and Bertelsen is the sixth leading rusher with 315 yards.

Last week, however, the Rams did not rely totally on their ground attack to beat Houston, 31-26. Instead, they rode the arm of quarterback John Hadl, the top rated passer in the NFL, who threw two touchdown passes to Harold Jackson and another to Jack Snow. His statistics to date are a remarkable 38 of 52 (73 per cent) for 538 yards, eight touchdowns and no interceptions.

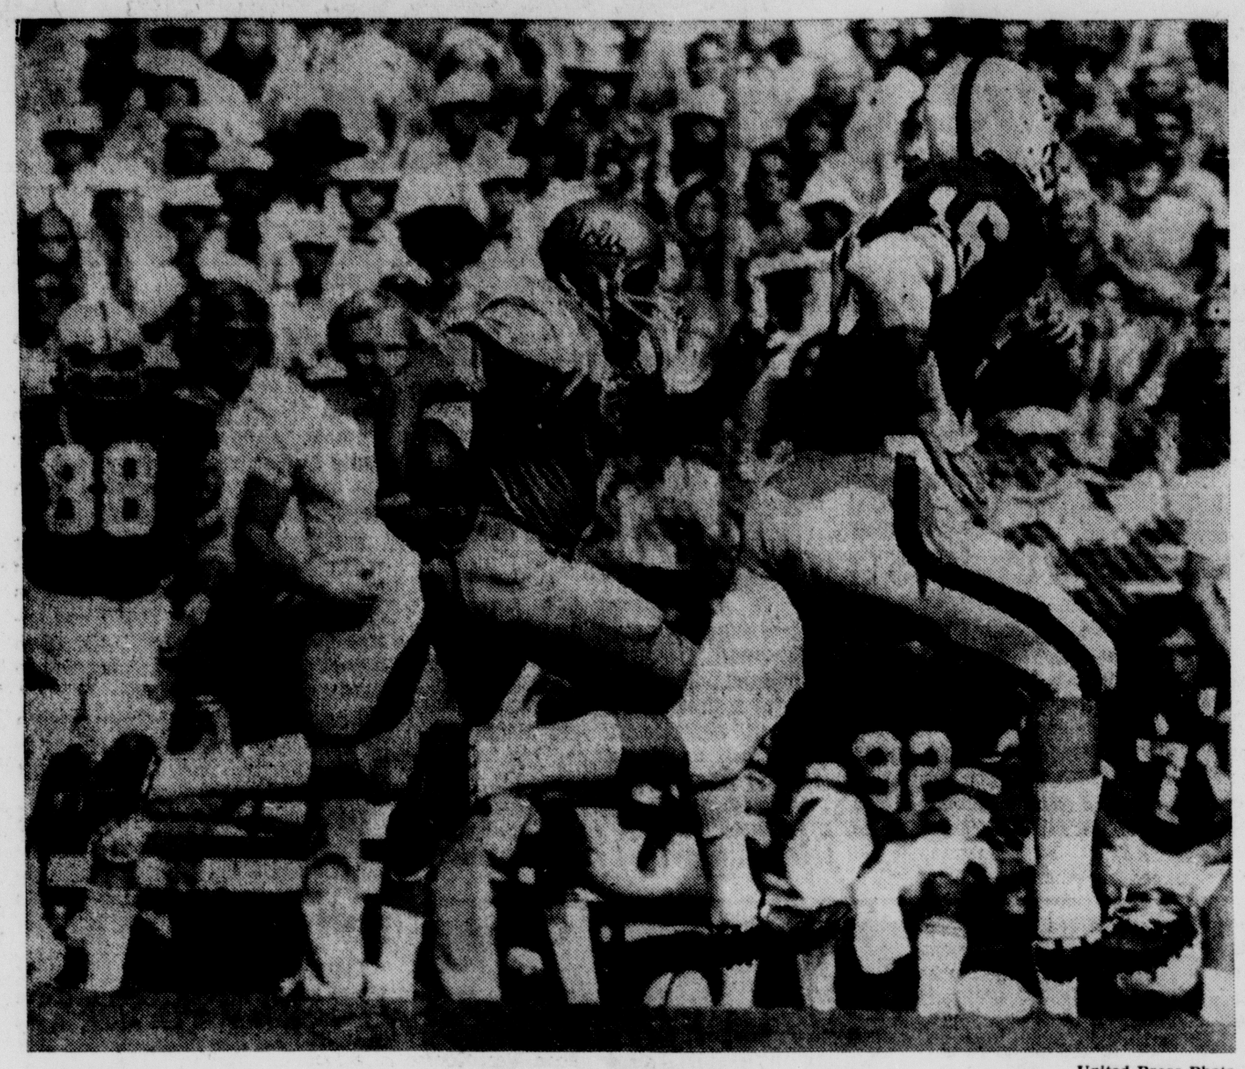

While Hadl and the Rams have not thrown the ball to the opposition, the Los Angeles defense has recorded seven thefts, including two last Sunday. One reason may be the effective pass rush of the front four. Ends Jack Youngblood and Fred Dryer and tackles Merlin Olsen and Larry Brooks have dumped their quarterback foes 11 times, including four in the Houston game.

And despite the good pass rush, the Rams are not sacrificing their rush defense. In fact, they are No. 1 in that department in the NFC, having allowed just 281 yards and 3.3 yards per carry. Linebackers Isiah Robertson, Jack Reynolds and Ken Geddes have played a major role in shutting off both the run and the pass.

It's evident that the Rams are vastly improved over the pre-season, and they had better be because Dallas had an easy time of it in the summer meeting between the two clubs, winning 24-7 and almost recording a shutout until reserve QB James Harris threw a late touchdown pass to Jackson.

During the regular season, the Rams lead the series, 4-2, but Dallas won the most recent meeting, a 28-21 thriller at Texas Stadium in 1971.

Of course, that is in the past and Knox has already indicated that he is a coach who is only interested in the future.

Goodrich, West pace Lakers win

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Gail Goodrich and Jerry West whipped the Los Angeles Lakers to a fourth quarter comeback Saturday night that produced a 125-122 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves.

Goodrich's 10-foot jumper with 29 seconds left in the game lifted the Lakers into a 123-122 lead and West added two free throws with two seconds remaining to give Los Angeles its second win in three starts.

Goodrich packed 14 of his 30 points into the final quarter and West topped the Lakers with 35, including eight in the last period.

The 38 point final period for Los Angeles destroyed Buffalo's bid for its second win of the new season and came after a strong three quarter effort by the Braves. With Bob McAddo getting 22 of his 35 points in the opening half, the Braves rolled to a 15 point advantage late in the second quarter and were ahead, 69-61, at the half.

Buffalo carried a 93-87 lead into the final 12 minutes. Jim Price scored with 1:58 gone in the closing quarter, giving the Lakers the lead for the first time, 97-95.

Former Brave Elmore Smith, traded to Los Angeles for Jim McMillian, tallied 22 points and had 20 rebounds for the Lakers. McMillian got 24 for Buffalo and another recent addition, Garfield Herd, scored 20.

Maple Leafs down Kings in NHL play

TORONTO (UPI) —Defenseman Bob Neely and rightwinger Inge Hammarstrone each scored their first NHL goals Saturday night as the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Los Angeles Kings 6-3.

The Leafs' other goals were scored by Darryl Sittler, Paul Henderson, Dave Keon and Mike Pelyk.

Bob Berry with two and Butch Goring, who assisted on both of Berry's goals, accounted for the Kings' scoring.

After Berry had given the Kings a 2-1 lead at 3:08 of the second period, the Leafs went on a rampage and bombarded the King net with 31 shots as Neely, Henderson and Hammarstrone, found the range behind a shell-shocked Gary Edwards. Hammarstrone, the Swedish national, deflected fellow Swede Borje Salming's drive from the blue line to put the Leafs ahead 4-2. Hammarstrone's goal eventually proved to the be winner after the Leafs outscored the Kings 2-1 in the final frame.

Lugo blanks Spartans

CHINO — Don Antonio Lugo ran its streak to four Saturday night with a 24-0 rout of previously unbeaten Damien before 1,725 interested fans.

Both teams entered the contest, held at Chino High under the lights, with 3-0 marks overall and 1-0 in league play.

Running back Solomon Negrete paced the Conquistadores with touchdown runs of three and 25 yards. He also ran for one two-point conversion and passed for another. Negrete finished the evening with 171 yards on 19 rushes.

Quarterback Chris Pruitt completed seven-of-13 passes for 139 yards including a 25-yard scoring strike to Pat Kryziak.

Richard Almenderiz, Dave Malgra and Bill Kramer drew praise from head coach John Monger for spearheading the defense which held Damien to 65 yards rushing and five interceptions. Almenderiz picked off two errant tosses.

The Q's visit unbeaten Fontana Thursday afternoon.

Broncos suffer 41-0 setback

SAN LUIS OBISPO — It was billed as the battle of the Poly's—Pomona vs. San Luis Obispo. On paper, both look impressive offensively. The Broncs had the nation's No. 1 ranked College Division total offense leader while the Mustangs were ranked sixth as a team.

The only thing lacking when the teams finally got onto the playing field was competition.

SLO amassed 673 yards total offense en route to a 41-0 blitz over Pomona here Saturday night.

The Mustangs scored in every quarter while rolling up 476 yards rushing and 197 yards through the air.

Quarterback Mike Coulsen completed seven-of-12 aerials for 112 yards and one TD while second-stringer Cliff Johnson added 63 yards on four completions.

Rick Gliniak led the groundskeepers with 114 yards on 19 carries and one score with Bob Trudeau chipping in 108 yards on 12 rushes including a four yard TD blast. Coulsen showed his versatility by gaining 101 yards on 10 totes and ran for a score.

Former Upland High star Rocky Chapman entered the game in the fourth period and made the most of the opportunity. Chapman who has seem limited duty, gained 66 yards on seven rushes and tallied on a 10-yard run.

Dana Maszeiger was SLO's leading receiver with four catches for 74 yards.

The Mustangs' only deficit was 149 yards in penalties.

The Broncs were able to move the ball up-and-down the field but eight turnovers proved costly. Besides three lost fumbles, Pomona helped the SLO cause throwing five interceptions.

Quarterback Jim Zorn did team up with Pomona pass receivers. The result was 270 yards on 20 completions. But the Broncs put the ball in the air 60 times.

Flanker Joe Fabian hauled in 10 passes for 138 yards, Dennis Bevel grabbed four for 74 yards and Greg Cruz snatched three for 11 yards but the Broncs were unable to find paydirt.

Zorn rushed for 54 yards on 18 totes with Cruz adding 64 on five carries as the ground game netted 127 yards.

The Mustangs improved their California Collegiate Athletic Association record to 3-0 and overall mark to 4-0. The Broncs, in dropping their conference opener, fell to 2-3-1 on the season.

Toreros, mistakes down Leopards

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — The Leopards of La Verne College battled both the University of San Diego and themselves and lost out on both counts Saturday night at Bonita High.

USD, led by tailback Rich Paulson, rolled to a 31-14 win over the Leos. For the second week in a row, the Leopards were misfiring on execution and had too many penalties called against them to be effective. The flags were thrown 12 times against the Leos and nine were accepted by San Diego for a total of 95 yards.

When La Verne mistakes weren't helping the Toreros, Paulson was. The 5-11, 180 pounder from L.A. Harbor College carried the ball 24 times, gained 195 yards and scored three of the four Torero touchdowns.

Paulson's average of 8.1 yards per carry was higher than his season average had been going into the game. In four previous contests, Paulson was averaging 7.5 yards per rush and had scored eight touchdowns.

When Paulson wasn't ripping off big gains, quarterback Bob Dulich was picking the Leo secondary apart with pinpoint passing. Dulich wound up with 14 completions in 22 attempts for 164 yards.

The Toreros took the opening kickoff and marched 73 yards in 13 plays and one La Verne illegal procedure penalty to score the first touchdown. The drive consummed five minutes and 45 seconds.

La Verne got the ball and on the third play, Marty Mercurio fumbled with Doug Rothrock recovering for the Toreros on the Leo 13-yard line. Four plays later, Rothrock kicked a 32 yard field goal after Chris Hawks of La Verne had tackled Sammy Croom for a 10 yard loss.

The score became 17-0 with 5:30 left in the half when Paulson capped a 73-yard drive that took only five plays and scooted over from the six.

The Leopards scored their first touchdown with just 20 seconds remaining. Mercurio passed six yards to Joe Edmonds capping a drive that covered 52 yards in eight plays.

The scoreboard clock went out in the first half and it seemed as though the time were being kept by hourglass.

The third quarter was scoreless. But Paulson and Croom each scored for San Diego before the Leos got their second touchdown with just over three minutes left. John Herrera went over from the one as the Leos went 69 yards in eight plays.

Things get easier for the Leopards next Saturday when Occidental, 0-3-1 comes to town.

Pearce leads Raiders to 20-14 win

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

LA PUENTE — Dave Pearce shook off a first-half injury to bolt 30 yards with a third quarter touchdown and Rowland held on to lace the Charter Oak Lancers 20-14 Saturday night at Jolley Stadium.

The Raiders broke on top in the contest, taking the opening kickoff and marching 55 yards. Pearce and Al Emetrio churned up yardage on the ground and quarterback Flavio Garcia connected on the only two passes of the drive, the last being a six-yarder to Greg Baumgartner for the TD.

The Lancers tied it up in the second quarter following a Dave Peterson interception on a Garcia toss. Tailback Nick Howard who was the main offensive weapon for Charter Oak all evening, blasted in from 14 yards out, the successful PAT knotting things at 7-7.

Charter Oak forged to a 14-7 lead just before the half, cashing in a Emetrio fumble as signal caller Tom Merrill hit end Dave Vilter with a 20-yard scoring bomb.

Pearce's five-yard touchdown run early in the third quarter tied the game up once again, this time at 14-all. Once again the Raiders used an effective rushing game to hit pay dirt.

The winning score came later in the third quarter following an interception by Gary Schwalbe. Schwalbe brought the ball to the Charter Oak 30, and from there Pearce ran it in on the next play.

Pearce wound up the evening with 95 yards rushing in addition to his two scores. Workhorse Howard carried 40 times for the Lancers, netting 166 yards, but had two costly fumbles in the second half to halt Lancer drives.

Rowland now is undefeated in Montview League play, sporting a 2-0 loop mark, to lead the pack. The Raiders are 3-1 on the season. Charter Oak is now 1-1 in league and 1-3 overall.

Owls stun Pasadena; Panthers fall, 34-13

A goal line stand in the second period and four second half touchdowns propelled Citrus College to a 29-0 upset of Pasadena Saturday night in a non-conference community college football game at Pasadena.

The Owls held the highly regarded Lancers on the one-foot line in the second quarter as defenders John Allen, Dave Little and Glen Tenove dug in.

Bobby Cox's 17-yard return with the second half kickoff started the rout. Doug Hopper scooted for a 22-yard gain and Eddie White carried the ball in from the 19-yard line to give the Owls a 6-0 advantage.

White scored later on a seven-yard run and Hopper and Gary Gladd added fourth period touchdowns to go with a 22-yard field goal by Kevin Hagerty.

White carried the ball 19 times for 138 yards, and Hopper added 90 yards on 21 carries.

Elsewhere, Chaffey was handed a 34-13 loss by Palomar in a Mission Conference game dispite newly converted tailback Roy Vander Kalen's 110 yards rushing on 24 carries.

Palomar took a 20-6 lead at halftime and added 14 points in the fourth period. Field goals by Mike Jacobic and a final period touchdown by Stan Combs on a two-yard run accounted for Chaffey's scoring.

Jacobic's field goals were from 35 and 30 yards out.

Williams to NY—'News to me'

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

OAKLAND (UPI) —Dick Williams, managing the Oakland Athletics in the World Series, says "it's complete news to me" that he may be hired away after the series to manage the New York Yankees. Although the switch sounds far-fetched, it could possibly materialize.

A far longer shot came to pass when Yogi Berra, handling the New York Mets against Oakland in this series, was fired as manager of the Yankees after the 1964 World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals and succeeded by the late Johnny Keane, the man who had beaten him in the series that year.

At the moment, the Yankees are looking for "a manager with experience." Williams certainly qualifies there.

"We're going over all possible candidates," says Gabe Paul, the Yankees' chief executive. "We're not eliminating anybody."

Paul has steadfastly declined to identify any of the candidates being considered by the Yankees but one New York newspaper reported that Williams is tired of interference by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley and might be receptive to a post-series offer by the Yankees even though Finley recently ripped up his old contract, gave him a raise and signed him through 1975.

The extension of Williams' contract doesn't necessarily mean that much.

Ralph Houk also had two more years to go on his contract with the Yankees but he suddenly announced his resignation, went fishing in Florida and then signed a brand new contract with the Detroit Tigers.

"I'm very happy here," says Williams. "Truthfully speaking, what with the playoffs and the World Series, that's all I've been concentrating on and I haven't had any time to think about anything else."

There's a touch of irony here, too, because only a few weeks before leaving the Yankees, Houk, like Williams, said he was "very happy" where he was and any thought of going elsewhere was the furthest thing from his mind.

Shortly later, he was gone.

Assuming the Yankees are interested in Williams, and that isn't a bad assumption, they first would have to get permission to talk with him from Finley.

Whether Finley would be inclined to give such permission would hinge on the relationship between him and Williams at the time.

Right now, the relationship is good, but Finley blows hot and cold. Williams, concluding his third season with the Athletics, has worked for Finley longer than any of the nine others the A's owner has employed.

"I know Williams was given a ne wcontract and all that, but it wouldn't surprise me that much if he went someplace else," says one Oakland player.

"Charlie can be a difficult man to work for. When he loves you, he loves you; but the trouble is he is subject to change his mind on short notice, and when he does, look out."

Sagehens have last laugh, 34-30

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — What looked like it might be a laugher for Pomona-Pitzer Saturday night turned into a near tragedy against the visiting Loyola Lions, but the Sagehens had the last laugh as they scored a come-from-behind 34-30 victory before another sitting room only crowd.

Larry Cenotto, who was supposed to beat Loyola with his arm, did the Lions in two other ways with his passing game pretty well shut off most of the night.

Cenotto was put into the game on defense late in the fourth quarter as coach Walt Ambord was trying to find anyone who could stop the passing of Loyola's Mark Paredes, and Cenotto not only made a couple of key tackles but the junior quarterback also scored the winning touchdown for the Hens with a little over a minute remaining in the weird contest.

Pomona took advantage of the press clippings announcing Cenotto as the leading small college passer by surprising Loyola in the first half with a fairly strong running game as Jeff Signer and Tony Soter gained 106 yards on the ground.

Pomona's first three scores however, did come on Cenotto passes as Gary O'Neill caught one and Biff Sherman claimed the other two. Signer added the fourth Sagehen score with a beautiful 62 yard punt return as Pomona opened up what seemed to be a commanding 27-0 lead with two minutes left in the half.

But it turned out to be anything but commanding as Loyola drove 66 yards to a score before the end of the half and then carried out all the momentum when the last two periods began.

In fact, the Lions tallied five of the first seven times they handled the ball in the last half, with a missed field goal stopping one of their drives.

Loyola, getting 300 yards from Paredes' passing arms, took the lead with only 4:25 remaining as Mike Van Dordrecht booted his third field goal of the game to make the score 30-27.

Pomona had one final drive, however, and after a key third down pass to Sherman to keep it alive, Cenotto capped the drive and the scoring with a brilliant 17-yard bootleg around left end, crashing through two Loyola defenders at the goal line.

For the game, Cenotto was only 13 for 28 passing with 134 yards gained while Paredes thoroughly destroyed the Sagehen secondary with a 24-48 performance, including nine straight at one stretch.

Tight end Dennis Tepe was Paredes' main target, gathering in 11 for 134 yards but in the long run, it was the short run, set up by Cenotto's stats, that gave Pomona the game.

The Sagehens are thankful for the win after last week's blitz against USD and next week they travel to Redlands for what should prove to be a long night for Pomona's primary secondary.

Player captures title after eight-hour battle

WENTWORTH, England (UPI) —South African Gary Player defeated Australian Graham Marsh with an eight-foot birdie putt on the fourth extra hole Saturday to win an eight-hour marathon final in the Piccadilly World Match Play Golf Championship.

Player was taken to the 40th hole before carrying off the title for the fifth time in 10 years.

The 36-year-old South African ended the longest Piccadilly final ever staged after Marsh, a 29-year-old former math master from Perth, missed a great chance to keep the match alive by missing a four-foot putt.

Player collected $24,200 for his victory, boosting his earnings for the event to $104,000 dollars in 10 appearances since the championship was inaugurated in 1964. Marsh pocketed $12,100.

It was an incredible performance by Player, who was out of golf for three months earlier in the year because of an operation. All the drama was packed into the second round.

The pair finished the first 18 holes all square as the lead was never more than one hole between them. Marsh went around the tough Burma Road West Course in a four-under-par 70 against Player's 72.

The Australian got off to a flying start in the afternoon, winning the 19th and halving the next. Marsh had a slice of luck at the 21st. He struck a camera tripod, but the ball rebounded onto the green and he won the hole to go two up for the first time.

The next two holes were halved but then Player surged back, taking four of six holes in three under par from the 24th to establish a two holes lead. Player faltered at the 33rd, however, where he bunkered his second shot and three-putted on the next green to even the score.

Stags fumble three times in 10-0 loss to Kingsmen

THOUSAND OAKS — Cal Lutheran took advantage of three Claremont-Mudd fumbles inside the 10-yard line here Saturday aternoon to post a 10-0 victory.

The loss was Claremont's second in three outings, while the victory was Cal Lutheran's third in five games.

Running back Bill Nash, who gained 73 yards on 17 carries, fumbled the ball away each time after the Stags penetrated deep into Cal Lutheran territory.

The third fumble in the third quarter was turned into a 91-yard scoring drive by the Kingsmen, who mixed up their plays and finally scored on a six-yard pass from quarterback Bill Wilson to wide receiver Butch Eskridge.

Eskridge booted the extra point and kicked a 33-yard field goal in the final period to account for all 10 of Cal Luteran's points.

Cal Lutheran led in total offense, outgaining the Stags, 337-201.

Mike Graber was the leading ball carrier for Claremont with 79 yards on 19 carries.

Cal State Los Angeles recovered five fumbles and intercepted three passes en route to a 35-16 romp over Azusa Pacific Saturday afternoon.

The Cougar miscues enabled the Diablos to enjoy good field position throughout the afternoon and only had to drive more than 50 yards on one occasion.

The win, CSLA's first, improved its seasonal mark to 1-3-1 while the loss, APC's second, snapped a three-game win streak.

The Diablos were very effective in curbing Azusa's ground game which had netted over 700 yards in the last two games. The Cougars were limited to 70 yards and running back Jim Farmer, who had gained over 100 yars in each of the last four games, finished with 39.

Larry Watkins paced the Diablo offense wth touchdowns runs of 14, 35 and three yards totaling 97 yards on 19 rushes, while backfield mate Gary Hoskins netted 115 yards on 17 carries and scored on a two-yarder. Dennis Koupal tallied twice for the Cougars.

CSLA finished the contest with 250 yards total offense as compared to APC's 233.

The Cougars draw a bye next week while the Diablos host Cal Lutheran.

Jockey injured in Anita spill

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Apprentice Jockey Salvador Gonzalez suffered a broken collarbone when he was thrown from his mount in the ninth race at Santa Anita Saturday.

Gonzalez, 24, was spilled when his mount, Run Tall, kicked the heels of a horse in front and fell. Gonzalez was in the middle of a pack when the spill occurred but was not struck by any other horses.

X-rays taken at a local hospital revealed that the young jockey suffered a broken right clavicle.

'Huskers gamble and fall, 13-12

College Football Roundup
By United Press International

Nebraska, the nation's second-ranked college football team, tried for a victory instead of a tie Sautrday and came away with a loss.

Needing a two-point conversion play to win with one minute left in its game with Missouri, Nebraska's David Humm atempted to pass for the winning points but the ball was intercepted by Tony Gillick, clinching 14th-ranked Missouri's 13-12 victory over the Cornhuskers.

It was the fifth straight victory for Missouri and the first loss in five games for Nebraska, which had its eye on the national championship.

Missouri turned a fumbled punt by Randy Borg at the Nebraska four into a one-yard touchdown by Tom Mulkey with 2:01 remaining and Greg Hill, who kicked two first-half field goals, converted to give the Tigers a 13-6 lead.

The Cornhuskers struck right back, going 72 yards in four plays for a touchdown, but fell short when Gillick intercepted Humm's pass.

First-ranked Ohio State defeated Wisconsin, 24-0, third-ranked Alabama topped Florida, 35-14, fourth-ranked Michigan romped over Michigan State, 31-0, fifth-ranked Southern California out-scored Washington State, 46-35, sixth-ranked Oklahoma routed Texas, 52-13, seventh-ranked Penn State crushed Army, 54-3, eighth-ranked Tennessee beat Georgia Tech, 20-14, and 10th-ranked LSU toppled Auburn, 20-6, in other day games involving the top 10.

Ohio State rolled to its fourth straight victory as tailback Archie Griffin piled up 169 yards rushing and the Buckeye defense allowed Wisconsin into its territoy only four times. The Buckeyes scored on relentless marches of 76, 72 and 78 yards and Blair Conway adued a 36-yard field goal as Ohio State gained 423 yards rushing.

Alabama scored two touchdowns in the fourth period to cement its win over Florida after leading by only 21-14 after three periods. Calvin Culliver scored two touchdowns and a two-point conversion for Alabama which won despite five fumbles.

Michigan held Michigan State to 40 yards rushing and took advantage of six recovered fumbles in the rain at East Lansing, Mich., to remain undefeated. Dave Brown returned a punt 53 yards for a touchdown and Gil Chapman went around end 53 yards for a touchdown to lead the Mighigan offense which had strong field position throughout most of the game.

Oklahoma, which had averaged 57 yards a game passing in three previous outings, gained 225 yards and scored three touchdowns in the air in walloping Texas in the nationally-televised game. (Steve Davis threw two touchdown passes and scored two TDs to lead the Sooners, who had a 21-6 edge at the half and a 35-6 bulge after three periods.

Penn State overwhelmed Army with four touchdowns midway through the first half and coasted to its easy triumph. Tom Shuman started the Penn State surge with a 66-yard scoring pass and before it was over, fullbacks Bob Nagle and Tom Donchez each ran for two touchdowns.

Condredge Holloway passed for one touchdown and scored another on a 20-yard run to lead Tennessee to its victory over Georgia Tech. Paul Careathers sealed the win for Tennessee when he ran 40 yards for a touchdown in the third period.

Brad Davis scored on a five-yard run and a 28-yard pass as LSU scored its fifth straight victory and dealt Auburn its second loss in fve games. Auburn jumped to a 6-0 lead following a blocked punt in the first period but LSU rallied for a 14-6 lead at the half.

In other games of national interest, UCLA walloped Stanford, 59-13, Tulane defeated Duke, 24-17, Colorado bested Air Force, 38-17, Minnesota downed Indiana, 24-3, Illinois edged Purdue, 15-13, Northwestern crushed Iowa, 31-15, Navy got by Syracuse, 23-14, Kansas squeezed by (Kansas State, 25-18, Pittsburgh shellacked West Virginia, 35-7, and Georgia blanked Mississippi, 20-0.

RECREATION

By PHIL LaPIERRE

Community center sites and after-school recreation at the elementary areas gets underway Monday. Twenty-two locations in all will be conducting a variety of activities under the banner of the Pomona Park and Recreation Departments and Pomona Unified School District.

The community centers located at Palomares, Washington and Westmont Parks have the more complete programs. Their staffs have large backgrounds and experience needed to promote activities for all ages.

Enthusiastic college students and dedicated teachers compose the major part of the staffs at the elenetary areas. The sites are open from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, with some exceptions. To be sure of the hours check with the recreation leader.

The programs are enhanced with specialist classes in tap, Hawaiian and Tahitian dances along with merry stitchers and baton twirling. The Community Centers offer even additional special programs. Again, checking the schedule at the area will keep you informed.

Shirley Jennings, a salaried recreation leader, holds fort at Palomares Park. The talented veteran staffer is ably assisted by John Westwood. Daily activities are conducted from 2-6 p.m. Tuesday evenings the center keeps the door open until 8 p.m.

An all new crew takes over at Washington Park. Jeff Hawley comes to Pomona after a long tenure with Claremont. He is particularly adept in the physical activities.

Jeff is joined by Katy Bekkedahl who was last seen managing the Washington Park pool. She shows her versatility in this move that finds her heading up the social and craft programs.

The big change is at Westmont Park. Big Tom James, another salaried recreation leader, moves from Washington Park to head what some feel has been a sagging program. James is truly an outstanding leader and organizer. Laura Harthun gives Tom a strong supporting cast.

A Cal Poly graduate in Recreation, Tom has all the tools needed to conduct a well-balanced program. He will gradually introduce new activities to the area for all age groups.

The three Community Centers will promote Halloween parties on the big night in two weeks. Games, movies, and refreshments highlight activities from 6 to 8 p.m.

Following are the elementary areas that open tomorrow and the leadership: Alcott, Cindy Ayres; Allison, Rob Lindblad and Larondz Daugherty; Armstrong, Bob Long and Judy Gosling; Arroyo, Jessye Scott; Diamond Point, Bill Woodmansee and Dana Griggs; Golden Springs, Bob Chauik and Pam Lambert; Hamilton, Evelyn Pergrin and Greg Richardson; Harrison, Dennis Skelton.

Kellogg, Paul Hammons and Mary Richardson; Lexington, Ed Cromwell and Charlotte Moore; Lincoln, Rick Hayes; Madison, Bob Tittle and Madalyn Norman; Montvue, Vic Sartar; North San Antonio, Jim Harden and Margo Hudson; Philadelphia, Frank Cauvel; Roosevelt, Morris McFarland; San Jose, Joyce Wolff; and Yorba, Judy Hays.

Many areas have only one leader and Kingsley will not open until suitable staff can be hired. The second leader will be selected as soon as possible.

The City's Personnel Department is now accepting applications for Recreation Leader position. Interested persons should apply before Wednesday.

San Bernardino edges Citrus

SAN BERNARDINO — Citrus College dropped a 9-8 water polo match at San Bernardino Valley College Friday.

John Hobson and Chuck Anderson led the Owls with three goals each. John Adama was high-point man for the Indians. Citrus now is 1-5 in league competition and 2-14 overall.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out,

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

26,000 MILE GUARANTEE

2 Fiberglass Belts–2 Nylon Cord Belts

A wide "78 series" footprint. Two stripe sidewall designs to fill the need of replacing tires in these cars in the market produced with that design. Excellent mileage in a belted tire. The 2 + 2 tire from Sears built with strength in mind.

Weekly stocks

Market shows new 'muscle'

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market showed some muscle this week in face of the Middle East war and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's resignation.

Prices gained for the week on the New York Stock Exchange, thanks primarily to a big rise Thursday. Trading was heavy.

The market watched "in stunned disbelief" when Agnew resigned Wednesday, according to Monte Gordon of the Dreyfus Fund. Prices had been declining on profit taking at the time, and the Agnew news "accentuated" the activity, Gordon said.

Rebounded

But the list rebounded strongly Thursday. This prompted Martin Goodfriend of Bruns, Nordeman to say, "The market just wants to go higher." Goodfriend said he believes "a lot of mutual funds are buying on weakness and this is a reversal of the trend from the first half of the year."

One thing encouraging observers was the breadth of the market's recent gains. Many low price-earnings ratio stocks were being bought. "This shows the strength of the market," Gordon said.

There were some signs of renewed profit taking late Friday, however. "I think we've seen too much too soon," said Ralph Acampora of Harris, Upham. "A correction is definitely due."

Market up

Lucien O. Hooper, senior analyst for W.E. Hutton & Co., echoed the opinion. "But, overall, I think the direction of the market is up," he said.

For the week, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 7.38 to 978.63. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 1.59 to 111.44. The NYSE common stock index advanced 1.19 to 60.53.

Advances topped declines, 1,024 to 749, among the 1,986 issues traded.

Turnover for the week amounted to 100,888,007 shares, compared with 97,197,492 a week before and 59,170,870 a year ago.

Westinghouse Electric was the most active issue for the week, off 4 at 34 on 1,160,100 shares. The firm reported lower third quarter earnings.

Bausch soars

Bausch & Lomb, which reported the backlog of orders for its soft contact lenses exceeds its production capacity, was second, soaring 14 ¾ to 52 ⅞ on 1,043,600 shares.

First National City Corp., which reported higher third quarter earnings, was third on the actives and rose ⅞ to 50 ¼ on 704,400 shares.

IBM was the biggest gainer of the week, climbing 22 ½ to 282. Early in the week, a federal judge in Tulsa said he would reconsider the $352.5 million judgement he awarded Telex Corp. in its antitrust suit against IBM, admitting he made an error in the amount of the award. IBM also reported higher earnings. Telex lost ⅝ on the week.

Mideast declines

The oils were traded heavily in view of the Middle East war. Many of those with heavy Mideast interests declined, while others with outside interests gained.

Ohio Standard rose 14¾, Superior Oil 14 ½, Murphy Oil 12, Natomas 9 ½ and Atlantic Richfield 7⅞. Mobil Oil lost 3 ⅞, Texaco 3 and Exxon 2 ⅛.

Sedco gained 9 ⅜ and Schlumberger 1 ¼. Both firms are involved in oil drilling.

Aside from Westinghouse, electronics and computers followed the lead of IBM and moved higher. Texas Instruments gained 8, Burroughs 4 ⅝, Control Data 4 ⅜, and National Cash Register, Motorola and Fairchild more than two points.

Disney down

Among the glamors, Upjohn rose 6 ⅛, Xerox 5 ¼, International Paper 5 ⅜, Crown Zellerbach 3 ¾, Merck 3 ⅝ and Corning Glass 2¾, Walt Disney lost 2 ¾.

Gold Mining issues generally gained as the price of gold rose during the week while the dollar again came under attack. Campbell Red Lake advanced 6 ⅜, Homestake Mining 3 ¾, ASA Ltd. 3 ½ and Dome Mines 2.

Steel and chemicals showed some strength. U.S. Steel and Armco rose 1 ⅛ apiece. Eastman Kodak gained 4 ¼, DuPont and Union Carbide 2 ½ each, and Allied Chemical 1¼.

Motors were lower. General Motors and Chrysler each fell a point and Ford ⅜.

Rails, airlines, and aircrafts were mixed. Burlington Northern rose 1 ⅞. National Airlines and Flying Tiger advanced around a point apiece.

The oil companies

Wealthy, healthy or is there real crisis?

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) —A bitterly debated question in the United States is: "Are the oil companies wealthy, healthy and pampered or does the petroleum industry really have problems, current and long-range?"

Finding the answer to that question is vital to all Americans involved in an expanding fuel crisis which has hit even Santa Claus. Just recently the mayor of Portland, Ore. decreed a ban on all public Christmas lighting because of the power shortage in his state.

Talk about $1 a gallon gasoline has subsided for the present, but nearly a dozen states are so concerned about fuel and gas shortages this winter they have persuaded the federal government to promise mandatory fuel allocations on a regional basis.

Against this background, most major oil companies reported big profit increases for 1972 over 1971 and have been making good profits this year. Some have increased dividends.

But the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, which has had an oil economics department for years, and the Oil and Gas Journal, have pointed out these hefty earnings gains are in contrast with depressed company performances in the immediately prior years. Compared with earnings performances of companies in manufacturing and in other industries, 1972 oil figures don't seem so wonderful, they say.

Chase Manhattan economists even accused major oil companies of hurting their own image by making their earnings picture look too bright in press releases. Chase Manhattan said while most of the petroleum giants' gross and per share profits were at record levels in 1972, these earnings fell to 6.5 per cent of sales, a drop of 5.6 per cent from 1971 and "the lowest proportion ever reported."

The bank pointed out that taxes of the companies have spurted 112 per cent in the past four years while earnings grew only 2.9 per cent.

After reporting that the domestic oil industry increased earnings 39 per cent in the first half of this year, the Oil and Gas Journal said the gain was misleading. It said petroleum earnings are weak in terms of yield on sales and yield on investment by comparison with other industries.

Oil and Gas Journal said for the 12 months ended June 30, return on capital for the companies averaged only 6.6 per cent. Clark Oil & Refining Co. of Milwaukee had the highest return—12.4 per cent. Quaker State had 10.8 per cent, Union Oil 9.8 per cent, Gulf and Indiana Standard each 7.6 per cent, most others less; Getty only 4.6 per cent, for example.

Contrasting with the 39 per cent profit gain of the oil companies, Oil and Gas Journal said profit gains of chain grocers, chemical producers, steel companies, textile manufacturers, paper makers and the steel industries grew much faster.

In a study published in August, Business Week put oil industry's profit gains for the second quarter well below those of paper, building materials, metals and mining and a number of other industries. However, the Business Week reported indicated somewhat larger returns on equity for the oil companies in the year ended June 30 than Oil and Gas Journal did. Business Week obtained its figures from Standard & Poor's.

In any case, charges persist that petroleum companies still make exorbitant profits. The Organization of Petroleum exporting Countries said on Sept. 27 that international crude oil prices will have to be increased because "oil companies are reaping high, unearned profits."

Politicians and industrial leaders in New England have accused oil companies of creating the energy shortage out of a greed for greater profit.

Florida and several other states have filed antitrust suits accusing major oil companies of manipulating gasoline supplies to squeeze independents out of business and force prices up. None of these suits has come to trial.

Lee C. White, former chairman of the Federal Power Commission, speaking for Consumer Federation of America, charged recently that American Petroleum Institute, representing the major companies, had published misleading reports in a campaign to get natural gas prices deregulated.

White accused the API and the oil companies of a "blackmail threat", trying to "force consumers to accept higher rates for natural gas without even a guarantee of increased supplies."

The blackmail, White said, was an implied threat to cut back on exploration and drilling unless the federal government guaranteed the gas companies bigger profits.

The API denied this charge and countered with an accusation that White's policies as FPC chairman helped generate the energy shortage.

Ralph Nader, a consumer spokesman, has told governors' conferences and other gatherings that the oil industry deliberately "developed a short-term energy crisis in order to get what it wants out of Washington." Nader said the oil industry wants bigger profits through "offshore drilling on its own terms, the Alaskan pipeline, more tax credits, and would like to drive out the independent refineries and gasoline retailers which provide most of the price competition.

The oil companies denied Nader's charges.

But the $64 question as to whether oil company profits are excessive is: Just what effect do depletion allowances for income tax purposes have on their profitability? Are these allowances hidden profits, since they contribute substantially to cash flow, or are they legitimate funds necessary to the health of the oil firms and national security?

The question has been bitterly debated in Congress and outside for years and the debate will continue.

Depletion allowances are not unique to oil. Congress permits them for all extractive industries—coal, iron, copper, uranium and the like. The rates vary according to congressional assessment of the risk in each industry. The depletion rate for oil was cut to 22 per cent from 27 ½ per cent by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, and some industry economists claimed this was a mistake. The conflict has an obvious bearing on the energy crisis. It raises the question of whether restoring the depletion allowance to 27 ½ per cent could encourage exploration and production sufficiently to increase energy reserves.

Depletion allowances are based on the fact all mineral deposits will be exhausted in time. The generous tax treatment resulting from depletion allowances has been compared to the high salaries paid professional athletes in recognition of the relatively few years of earning capacity.

Examination of the 1972 reports by major oil companies shows that some depletion allowances exceeded reported net profit. The figures are not exact because the companies tend to lump depletion, depreciation and retirement reserves in a single item deductible from gross revenues.

The Accounting Principles Board has urged that oil companies be required to report depletion allowances to stockholders in a way that would make their effect on the company's earnings and cash flow apparent. Some oil companies have opposed this.

In addition to cost increases and the slash in their depletion allowances, profits of the oil companies have been hit by ever bigger charges for offshore leases in the Gulf of Mexico and the world's oceans, by the high cost of meeting ecological requirements and eliminating water and air pollution at refineries and other installations.

The cost of building supertankers to bring crude and liquefied gas from abroad has been going through the roof. And much foreign oil now costs more than domestic crude because the Arab, Asian and Latin American countries have raised taxes and royalties dramatically. They have demanded, and in some cases obtained, 51 per cent ownership of the petroleum properties established within their borders by the international oil companies.

Libya has expropriated some companies and is threatening total expropriation of others. Saudi Arabia has demanded that the western nations and the oil companies pay for industrializing the country's economy as a price for continued supplies of Saudi petroleum.

Blue Bell no longer rings

By ROGER SPEAR

Q— Blue Bell, Inc. (NYSE) has dropped from over $50 to $15 in the last year and a half. It is my understanding that the shortage of denim material is the problem. What would be your recommendation now on whether this should he held or not?—J.T.

A— Numerous factors, including a shortage of denim, are involved in Blue Bell's sharp price decline in the stock market. Sales have continued to expand rapidly in the current fiscal year and were up 19 per cent in the nine months through June. Earnings, however, have not displayed the same bounce, remaining relatively flat on a year-to-year basis. For the 9 months, per-share results were $1.81 in 1973 versus $1.74 in 1972, a 4 per cent gain. Increased costs for leather and textiles, higher short-term interest rates on borrowings to finance inventory and larger advertising outlays combined with a rise in the rate at which Blue Bell is accruing taxes this year have cut into the company's take down. The net effect was to reduce profit margins from 4.3 per cent to 3.8 per cent in the first 9 months of fiscal 1973.

Blue Bell has expanded its product line to include men's dress slacks, a move that has favorable long-term inplications. On a short-term basis, though, this diversification has cut into profits as start-up costs, promotional and product development expenses have been heavy. The division should be adding satisfactorily to earnings by next year. European operations have experienced reduced demand for garments made of corduroy (although not for the scare denim product lines) which has caused inventory buildup and price cutting. A new fading process for corduroy which produces an appearance after washing similar to that of denim, is expected to make cordouroy jeans more acceptable to younger consumers.

Although market support will probably be lacking for some time, these shares trading at only 6x projected earnings have intrinsic value which is being ignored. The recent special dividend raises the current yield to a generous 4.8 per cent. Hold for gradual recovery.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) —An analyst for Harris, Upham said the stock market pullback this week was "constructive" after two weeks of solid gains. But he cautioned that a rise in the prime lending rate to 10 per cent could cause a major reaction. He said banks probably have been reluctant to raise primes past the current 9 ¾ per cent because of bad publicity that would result from the step.

The prime lending rate has been artifically held down since 1972 and should actually be in the range of 10½ to 11 per cent instead of the current 9¾ per cent, Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co., Inc., said in its weekly investment research roundup. The report said recent increases in the prime rate already have been discounted in the market.

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. will expand its hydrocarbon resin plant at Beaumont, Tex., to a capacity of 100 million pounds a year at a cost of $1.5 million. Hydrocarbon resins are used in making adhesives and coatings.

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Royal Crown Cola Co. has franchised three more soft drink bottling firms in Australia and they will start operations next week. This brings RC's Australian plants to six.

HAL SAWYER will be gratified to see the large turnout being planned for his program on October 27 at Fontana High School. His personal sincerety as a travel expert is believable because he never oversells. He lived for several years in Chili and other parts of South America and was a purser on Grace Steamship lines. He now represents PRUDENTIAL-GRACE Lines and is responsible for their routing ships from Los Angeles to South America instead of only from the East Coast. He personally escorts several trips each year so he gets on-the-spot feedback on what the American traveller enjoys and expects. His Television program reflects this depth when compared to other travel programs full of "isn't it wonderful" notningness with heavy accent on the hosts personality. In person he weighs his comments to the best of his knowledge. Free tickets are still available and the door prize of a 10 day cruise is another worthwhile incentive to spend a pleasant evening out with Hal.

Round trip Australia air fare $577.50 for 10 days or two weeks with Qantas must add prepaid car and hotel arrangements approximately $140.00. Friday departures. Call Pomona Travel Agency for information. Adv.

No point in waiting to divorce

By JEAN ADAMS

BATTLES: (Q.) My mom and dad are planning to get a divorce when I finish school and get married. I am 11 and that will be at least six or seven years, maybe more. They fight all the time and I am in misery. The hollering and shouting and cursing are terrible.

I honestly don't want them to get a divorce, but that doesn't keep me from suffering. My mom says the reason they are waiting so long is that I have to have two parents until I am out on my own.

I have tried to run away, but when the time comes I know I have to have somebody to take care of me. So I don't. What CAN I do? — Nervous in Texas.

(A.) It does not make sense for parents to "protect" a child from divorce and at the same time submit the child to a constant bombardment of anger and hatred.

Talk to your mother about what is happening to you. Tell her what you have told me. Maybe if you talk plain enough to her perhaps she can see that divorce now would be a sensible solution.

IN-LAW-TO-BE: (Q.) My oldest sister is about to get married and my future brother-in-law is very mean to me. I've tried to get him to be nice and kind to me but he won't. I've talked to my parents about it. They won't do anything. I am 13. Please help me! — Unwanted in Alabama.

(A.) Your parents probably reason that it is your sister who is getting married — not you. After the marriage your brother-in-law won't have to see a lot of you and you won't have to see a lot of him. Both of you will be more comfortable. So be patient.

In a way you are fortunate. Some younger sisters who write me have trouble with brothers-in-law who either fall in love with them or with whom they fall in love themselves.

Couples exchange vows

Pennington-Adamson

An evening nuptial ceremony at the White Avenue Baptist Church united in marriage Miss Catherine Marie Adamson and Mark Allen Pennington.

The daughter of Mrs. Beverley Adamson of Chino and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene C. Pennington of Pomona recited their vows before the Rev. A. Rudy Duett.

Escorted to the altar by her uncle, Robert R. Adams of Phoenix, Ariz., the bride wore an A-line gown of reembroidered alencon lace and silk organza with a fluted skirt. Her chapel-length mantilla was edged in matching lace. The former Miss Adamson carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Jeanne Adamson was maid of honor of her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Windy Rutherford and the Misses Sherri Helzer, Rhonda Souza, Virgina Adams, Penny Hudson, Nancy Wolfinbarger and Bonnie Wiebelt. Miss Sandra Grimmett was the flower girl and Michael Sanders was the ring bearer.

Gary Carson stood as best man and ushering were David Pennington, Dwight Rickard, Greg Setser, Mario Gonzales, Terry Rosales, Ernie Todd and Eddie Stem.

A reception in the church social hall followed the wedding.

After a honeymoon in the Prescott Pines, Prescott, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Pennington are now at home in Pomona.

Marston-Wagner

Miss Dana L. Wagner and Chris Marston exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring service at the Pomona Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Bishop David A. Young performed the late-afternoon rites.

The daughter of Mrs. Bettie Wagner of Pomona and Melvin Wagner of Montebello was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Marston of Pomona.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of organza designed with long sleeves. The chapel train was edged with a ruffled hemline.

A cap of seed pearls held the bride's tiered illusion veil and she carried an arrangement of white carnations, white baby roses and baby's breath.

Sisters of the bride, Mrs. Zoe Ann Craig and Mrs. Tharyn Steele, were honor attendants. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Nicole Hanson, Mrs. Barbara Beckner, Miss Colette Ramella and Miss Kathy Acree.

Nieces of the bride, Kelly Craig and Michele Steele, were flower girls while a nephew, David Craig, was ring bearer.

The groom chose his brother, Maurice Marston, as best man. Ushers were Larry Steele, Louie Hanson, Myron Beckner, Jime Herrera and Mike DeLuca.

A reception at the Chino American Legion Hall honored the couple.

After a honeymoon in San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Marston will reside in Pomona.

Wallace-Tyree

Miss Trillie Yvonne Tyree exchanged wedding vows with Charles L. Wallace in a morning ceremony at the First Lutheran Church in Ontario.

The Rev. R. C. Anderson performed the double-ring service for the daughter of Mrs. Frances Tyree of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Wallace of Townsend, Mont.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Neil Tyree of Green River, Wis.

She wore a white, floor-length traditional gown and carried a bouquet of white roses, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Joanne Everett was matron on honor and Mrs. adine Patterson was bridesmaid.

Cressie Patterson was flower girl.

Serving as best man was Donald E. Morgan. Ushers were Larry E. Walker and Lionel Tyree.

A reception at the Tyree home followed the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Montana, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace will reside in Chino.

Whitehead-Wingard

The Chapel of the Bells in Ontario was the setting for the marriage of Miss Phyllis Ann Wingard and Bradley Dean Whitehead.

The Rev. Lee Kirk, minister of the Mountain View Free Methodist Church in Upland, officated at the evening rites.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Wingard of Chino was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Whitehead of Upland.

The bride's gown of French chantilly lace was trimmed with pearls and scalloped cotton lace. Lace outlined the sweeping chapel train.

She carried her mother's prayer book decorated with white orchids and baby pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Lynn Pierce of Chino was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Melissa Benfield of Chino and Miss Mickie Whitehead of Upland. Miss Lori Whitehead handled the guest book.

Eddie Pierce of Chino was best man while ushers were Tom Wingard of Riverside and Bruce Stevens of Chino.

The newlyweds traveled to Memphis, Tenn., where they will reside while the groom completes a tour of duty with the U. S. Navy.

Hettinga-Sybrandy

Now residing in Chino are newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hettinga.

The bride, the former Anna Sybrandy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Sybrandy of Ontario. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hettinga of Earth, Tex.

The couple exchanged vows at the Chino Valley Reformed Church.

The bride wore an empire gown accented with ribbon and lace trim on the fitted bodice and puffed sleeves. Laced edged her illusion veil which fell from a petal headpiece. She carried a bouquet of roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The honor attendant was Marilyn Sybrandy of Ontario. Bridesmaids were Gwen Bouma, Ontario, Margaret Hettinga, Ontario, and Susan Boschma, Covina.

Serving as best man was Jon Hettinga of Ontario, Groomsmen were George Oppedyk, Ontario, John De Vry, San Jacinto, and Sid Sybrandy of Ontario.

The newlyweds were feted at a reception at Griswold's, Claremont. They honeymooned in Canada.

A 1972 graduate of Ontario Christian High School, the bride is employed as a dental assistant in Montclair. Mr. Hettinga is a truck driver for Pete DeBoer of Ontario.

Sherman-Kelleher

Miss Lauren Ann Kelleher and James David Sherman were united in marriage in an evening ceremony at St. Dorothy's Catholic Church in Glendora.

After a trip along the California coastline, the newlyweds plan to make their home in Glendora.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Kelleher of San Dimas and the groom is the son of Mrs. Benjamin H. Sherman of Glendora.

MRS. KENNETH SALTGAVER

MRS. PETER BAZOVSKY

MRS. STOWELL WERDEN

The Rev. William Trower was the officiant for the evening rites. Servers were William and Mark Kelleher.

The bride's floor-length gown of Jacquard was trimmed with alencon lace. A headpiece of fresh stephanotis held the bride's illusion veil which was edged in alencon lace.

She carried a cascade of stephanotis, baby white roses and yellow baby's breath.

Miss Karen Kelleher was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cynthia Goodwin, Miss Jill Sherman, Miss Theresa Dieterle and Mrs. Martha De Bolt.

Jeffrey Tribble was best man. Ushers were Michael Kelleher, brother of the bride, Kenneth Nance, Timothy Picket and Steven Haines.

A reception at the San Dimas Community Building followed the rites.

Saltgaver-Parker

Now making their home in Upland are newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bruce Saltgaver.

The bride is the former Miss Mary Catherine Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Parker of Covina.

The bride and groom were wed in a double-ring afternoon ceremony at the Sacred Heart Chapel, Covina, with the Rev. Peter Beaman officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a contemporary gown of organza with a sabrina neckline edged in venise lace and the bodice, full sleeves and skirt were accented with vertical bands of matching lace. The bride's cathedral-length veil was held by a Camelot headpiece and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, green baby's breath, pink and blue blossoms and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Kristi M. Ward was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Barbara Stone, Susie Franz and Carolyn Parker.

Standing as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Saltgaver of Upland was Bruce M. Ward. Ushers were Tom Fitzgerald, Ron Saltgaver and Jim Parker.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the wedding. The couple honeymooned at Mammoth Lakes and San Francisco.

Bazovsky-Muir

After a honeymoon in Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Louis Bazovsky are making their home in Beverly Hills.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Muir of Chino. Mother of the groom is Mrs. Peter Bazovsky of Budapest, Hungary.

The couple recited their wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony at the Highlands Inn Chapel in Carmel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of light peach crepe. The original, Edwardian design gown was highlighted with antique lace on the fitted bodice and bell-shaped sleeves.

She carried a bouquet of roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The bride's mother was matron of honor while Mr. Muir was best man.

A reception at the Highlands Inn honored the couple.

Werden-Mason

Using a Hawaiian theme, Miss Nancy J. Mason of Honolulu and Stowell C. Werden of Burbank exchanged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony at Kingman Chapel in Claremont. Dr. Francis C. Ellis performed the double-ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mason, former Claremont residents who now live in Newport Beach. The groom is the son of Mrs. Ellen Werden of Upland and the late Max C. Werden.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Betty Dawn Skov of Los Alto and Mrs. Mary Nyberg of Montclair was bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Rodger G. Harbaugh of Pasadena. Richard J. Mason of Santa Monica, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

The bride wore a mandarin-style, floor-length gown fashioned with an empire waist and long sleeves with alencon lace overlays on the waist, sleeves and slightly gathered skirt. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis.

Hawaiian music was sung by Jerry and Susanne Roshay McClain of North Hollywood.

Miss Gail Sage of Santa Rosa held the guest book and the gift table was attended by Mrs. Diane Roshay Finnegan of Tacoma, Wash.

Following a champagne reception at Griswold's Indian Hill Inn, the couple honeymooned at Lake Tahoe.

They are making their home in Burbank where the groom is employed as a Video Tape Editor at NBC.

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than five weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a picture of the bride only.

Snapshots, polaroid and color pictures are not acceptable for wedding pictures, although most color photos will be accepted for engagement announcements.

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) —Penny Franks has her blue eyes fixed on a future in the Broadway theater district. On the stage. As an actress.

Penny, 21, a college senior from Wellesley, Mass., is luckier than most pretty and talented star gazers looking longingly at the stage. She's there, in the middle of it, doing her first semester's senior year work as the "shadow" of Jerry Adler, a director. She's learning all about behind the scenes —from the word "go."

In an interview, Miss Franks said the apprentice program that puts her in such an envious position is conducted under the aegis of the Great Lakes College Association—an apprentice program for students in the arts enrolled in 12 Great Lakes schools. From her college, Albion in Albion, Mich., other "arts" seniors are putting in a semester in the shadow of artists, musicians, architects, broadcasters.

"It is part of a plan to give us a real taste of the careers we have in mind," Miss Franks said.

Her one apartment-mate in the program, Roxanne Rix, is being a "shadow" at an educational radio station in Brooklyn, N.Y. Miss Rix is from Dayton, Ohio.

Another apartment-mate in the program — they needed three to make the $300 a month rent—is Chris Mendell, 22, male, from Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio. He is being a "shadow" to an architect.

Since the three have strange and different hours—he sleeps in the living room—as they follow the professionals they're shadowing, the meal-getting is a solo operation. Miss Franks said Chris is the best cook.

"He goes in for stews and chickens," she said.

Miss Franks has been helping out at rehearsals for a comic production called "Good Evening" and featuring the British comedians Dudley Moore and Peter Cook. In the mid-sixties they starred in the long-running Broadway production, "Beyond the Fringe."

On Monday the show hits Boston for a tryout period, then it's back to New York. The opening on Broadway is Nov. 14. In the working list of important people connected with the production, Miss Franks is down as Go-fer. It's an endearing term in theater.

That is, she goes for—goesfer—coffee, props, pills, ashtrays and does lots of seemingly menial things. She had to go to find a feather man in the millinery section of the garment district. "For long feathers for a feather duster," she said.

She hit a lot of restaurants trying to buy a cheap-looking mug for one comic sketch. No go. She finally had to go to the Bowery to a restaurant supply house—"picking my way carefully through the people sleeping on the sidewalk."

She sits in on some conferences, "mostly to be seen and not heard." Sometimes, though, she is asked for an opinion and gives one. After "Good Evening" gets moving, Miss Franks said she will follow Adler into a production of "The Championship Season."

Miss Franks, is having a time stretching her funds. She tags along with the director and other greats for lunch at a little deli near the rehearsal place, the penthouse of Hotel Piccadilly.

"The first time we ate there I thought I had to pay for it myself and I ordered the cheapest thing on the menu, matzoh ball soup," she said.

"The check was picked up. Now I'm eating a lot of stuffed cabbage. That's what Mr. Adler likes."

Miss Franks, as many aspiring starlets, also cleans house for her sister, Lucinda Franks, a Pulitzer Prize winning United Press International staffer based in New York. And gets paid for it.

The young lady for two years was named the Best Actress at her school. If she doesn't like what she sees in the theater— especially about her chances there, she may go into nursing, another career goal.

But flipping through her journal, which she is required to keep for the semester, it looks as though her career goal is fixed.

"Weds. Still working out of office (before rehearsals). Impressions: head spinning. Wish I knew what, where, about something, anything."

"Thurs. Trying to stay out of people's way. Yet be useful. Somehow have feeling like I'm fading into woodwork and missing opportunities that are invaluable."

"Fri. So much fascinating conversation going on all over, yet never quite know what people talking about in connection with what. Feel like I at all costs don't want to be office pain in neck by asking or interrupting important business conversations or meetings. Subsequently end up standing around trying to look not too much like a nurd doing errands for various people."

The next week, rehearsals started. Miss Franks advanced beyond "go." One afternoon a young director's assistant showed her some sights, including Sardi's, where the theatrical elite meet to see and be seen and massage one another's egoes.

Miss Franks said she has wanted to be an actress ever since she was a "tree" in a nursery school production.

"The applause turned me on," she said.

Attention of another sort was first appreciated and then not appreciated as she walked through a safe part of Central Park the other day. Whistles, and more whistles.

"I wondered why," she said. "A jogger stopped and in a very perfect English accent said—'I say, Miss, your skirt is tucked into your pantyhose'."

Curtain Raisers

Plan Asian progress

The Curtain Raisers of Garrison Theater will open the season with its annual Act I fall membership meeting at the theater at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 23.

Stanleigh Jones, head of the Asian Studies department of Claremont Graduate School, will discuss "The Art of Bunraku: the Japanese Puppet Theater." He will explore all the facets of the ancient folk theater and will illustrate his talk with slides.

Dr. Jones spent a year studying the Japanese language, literature and history in the '50s and in 1972 spent seven months in Japan working with Japanese in and out of the Bunraku Theater in Osaka.

The Curtain Raisers was founded upon completion of the Garrison Theater, a joint facility of the Claremont Colleges, in 1963. Purpose of the group is to help in acquiring essential capital equipment and to promote and enjoy events at the theater. Membership is open to all interested persons.

Mrs. Otto B. Christian, president, will welcome prospective members and guests. Japanese tea will be served after the program.

Other officers of the group this season are Mmes. John Esterline, vice president; Eva S. Ballard, recording secretary; Kirk Ashford, corresponding secretary; Denman P. Gambill Jr., treasurer; Louise H. Padelford, founding member; Elbert B. Griffith, past president; Robert W. Cooper, Jack L. Stark, Howard Brook, Leo G. Clarke and Jay Doty, directors.

Mmes. H. Vance Kindt, William Abbott, Stanton P. Welsh, George E. Carlberg, Ben Kayashima, Ward Elliott and John O. Regan are committee chairmen.

Division convention charted

"Women Make the Difference" is the theme for the annual convention of the Southern Division of California Federation of Republican Women on Wednesday at the Los Angeles Convention Center.

Among the 2,000 women attending will be Pomona Valley Republican Women's Club members Mmes. Richard Speier, Hollis Page, Arthur Jaynes and Jack Fulton, delegates. Serving as alternates will be Mmes. E. C. Harrison, F. Hazel Wray, Thomas Soupcoff, Bertha N. Schmidt and Alex Duarte, Mrs. Marvin Grove, president, will head the contingent.

Luncheon speaker will be Lt. Gov. Edwin Reinicke.

Officers for the next two years will be elected to direct the division which includes the counties of Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, San Diego and Imperial with a membership of 30,000 women.

Population

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most population growth in the United States over the next two decades will take place in the country's large urban areas — the megalopoplis. So say projections published by the Population Reference Bureau.

Zontians set talk by WETIP director

The president and state director of WETIP (We Turn in Pushers), Bill Brownell, will speak at the Zonta Club of Pomona Valley dinner meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Heritage House, 1767 N. Garey Ave.

Sponsored by major service clubs, the non-profit WETIP organization serves the southern counties in the state with headquarters in Pomona. A retired Los Angeles County Deputy Sheriff, Mr. Brownell will tell about the activities of WETIP.

Six members of Zonta Club will attend the district nine conference of Zonta International in Anaheim at the Grand Hotel. The three-day convention begins Friday. Local club members attending will be Elaine Fletcher, president; Helen Baughton, secretary; Hillie Thurn, Betty Jackson, Gry Kvalheim and Clair Dewey.

Workshops will be held Friday followed by a "fun night" at Disneyland. The main speaker on Saturday will be second vice president of Zonta International, Evelyn DeWitt. The conference will be conducted by District Governor Josephine Heckman.

Lutheran Women send delegate to meeting

Mrs. Frances Weigand of Trinity Lutheran Church has been named a delegate to the 12th annual convention of the Pacific Southwest Lutheran Women, an auxiliary of the Lutheran Church in America at the Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove, Oct. 22 to 25.

Also joining representatives from California, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and Hawaii will be Mmes. Lorraine Peterson, Barbara Price, Ann Berge, Diane Nelson, Katherine Geyer and Vickie Dony, all from Trinity Lutheran Church.

Speakers will include Dr. Marvin Cain of Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. Quentin P. Garman, women's chairman of the taskforce of the Lutheran Church in America; Dr. Muriel James, a director at the Oasis Center in Lafayette; and the Rev. Carl W. Segerhammar, president of the Synod of the Pacific Southwest.

Mrs. Fuhrman to address secretaries

The Professional Secretaries Association (Arcadia Unit) will meet Wednesday evening at the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, 1400 W. Covina Parkway, West Covina.

Mrs. Dorothy Fuhrman, home economist with Southern California Edison Company, will speak and show slides on the preparation of holiday foods.

Mrs. Fuhrman has keyed this program especially for working women. Reservations and further information can be obtained from Donna Sells, (213) 334-4991, or Macaleen Spaulding, (714) 629-5111, extension 8378.

Holiday craft demonstration set by Juniors

A holiday demonstration is planned as part of the meeting of Walnut Junior Women's Club Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at United Methodist Church of Walnut.

Mrs. Sue Lane and Mrs. JoAnne Castleberry will be in charge of the demonstrations.

Dinner Club program opens year Thursday

The executives' Dinner Club of Pomona Valley will open its season Thursday with a dinner and program at Diamond Bar Country Club at 6:45 p.m.

BOB OATES

Bob Oates, America's foremost alpine yodeler and whistler, will present the program.

Mr. Oates is a motion picture, television and radio artist. His whistling was heard in the motion picture "Bridge Over the River Kwai" and his yodeling was heard in the "Little Ole' Winemaker" commercials. He is a featured soloist in the Hollywood and Banning Bowl and with the Desert Symphony Orchestra.

Square dance class still open Monday

The Foot 'n' Fiddle square dance class in La Verne is still open to those couples who have had some experience, according to John Kirk, club president.

The class has been underway for five weeks under the direction of Kenny McNabb, professional caller and instructor. It is held each Monday at 8 p.m. at the La Verne Community Center, 1550 Bonita Ave.

A workshop for regular dancers is held each night after class instruction

NOW unit to hear panelists

The Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Organization for Women will conduct a panel discussion concerning "Men's Liberation: The Masculine Mystique," at its meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in McAllister Center, 919 N. Columbia Ave., Claremont.

Appearing on the panel will be Daniel Fox, an attorney active in American Civil Liberties Union litigation; Tom Minnock, American Government teacher at Claremont High School; Russ Neuman, electronics engineer; and James Brodie, Chaffey High School Learning Assistance Program teacher.

They will discuss the many effects that stereotyping of the masculine role has had on the lives of boys and men. Jim White, director of the Young Adult Center in Riverside and student at Claremont Graduate School, will be moderator for the panel.

The meeting is open to men and women of all ages. Also to be discussed by the group will be how the Women's Liberation Movement has influenced male attitudes toward themselves and other men.

Auxilians plan tea Monday

San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary will open its year Monday with the traditional silver tea.

Newcomers will join auxiliary members and guests in the home of Mrs. Louis C. Altman, Upland. Chairman is Mrs. C. Robert Erickson. Assisting her will be Mrs. Richard Davidson.

Reunion scheduled

A former young adult group from Trinity Methodist Church will hold a reunion in the Asbury Room of the church Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The event will honor Mr. and Mrs. Fred I. Rose, sponsors of the church group from 1944 to 1954, who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary next week.

Dr. John Black, minister at Trinity Methodist while the young adults group was active, will attend the reunion, as well as group members from various cities in the state.

Reunion activites include a meeting similar to the snack and fellowship hour of the group in the past and a musical program.

Those attending the event will also attend a reception at the church on Sunday afternoon, 2 to 5 p.m., honoring Mr. and Mrs. Rose.

Purely Personal

MR. AND MRS. WARREN Essells and daughters, Barbara and Laura, have returned from Wausau, Wis., where they attended the marriage of their daughter, Mary Catherine, to Jerry Scott Schultz. Their eldest son, David, returned to Bethel College in St. Paul, Minn., and another son, Rick, is visiting his grandparents in Hutchinson, Kan.

EVENT SITE — The Diamond Bar Country Club will be the site for the Diamond Bar Woman's Club Las Vegas Night on Nov. 3. Casino games will be featured at the fund-raising event. Club members pictured above walking across the golf course at the country club are, from left, Mrs. Marvin Studts, president; Mrs. Billy Chaowell, budget and finance, and Mrs. Paul Grantz, telephone.

Thursday meet set by Chino Methodist unit

The Women's Society of the Chino United Methodist Church will meet Thursday at 10 a.m. at the church.

Program meterials will be featured by Mrs. Dan McCalla at the meeting. The noon luncheon will be served by members of Hannah Circle.

The ice cream cone was introduced at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904.

Country Store bazaar set by Methodists

An old-fashioned Country Store bazaar is planned Thursday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at 3205 D St., La Verne.

Members of the United Methodist Women of the La Verne Methodist Church have spent most of the year making the items to be offered.

Available will be a snack bar, homemade baked goods, aprons, toys, stuffed animals, garden items, terrariums and an assortment of Christmas gifts.

Grandma's stew dinner will be served from 4:30 to 7 p.m. with the Methodist youth group as waiters and waitresses.

Counter chairmen include Mrs. Neal Mouser and Mrs. Fancheon Binnall, aprons; Mrs. Tom Taylor, boutique; Mrs. Florence Reeves and Miss Hazel Snoke, Christmas decorations and novelties; Mrs. Floyd Slagle and Mrs. Ethel Corse, snack bar and baked goods; Mrs. Robert Bitner, plants and terrariums; Mrs. Paul Boettcher and Mrs. James Bowen, toys and stuffed animals; and Mrs. Glen Hall, decorations and dinner tickets.

Mrs. Don Stephens is bazaar chairman and Mrs. Price Glasgow is in charge of the dinner. The event is open to the public.

Plaza party scheduled

Selections from the American Musical Theater, films and popular classics will be performed by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Symphony, with John Green conducting, in two concerts at the Broadway Promenade Party of the Philharmonic Affiliates on Nov. 16 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Leaders of an early ticket sale campaign for the event were honored at a "petite breakfast" held recently in the Founders Room of the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Music Center.

Gold logo medallion pins were presented to Mrs. Elbert B. Griffith of Covina, president of the Foothill Philharmonic, and Mrs. Patton Lewis of Cucamonga, ticket chairman of the Foothill Philharmonic, for their part in the ticket campaign.

The Promenade Party will be held on the Broadway Plaza. Those attending will tour through the fashion filled floors of the new Broadway Flagship store. Special music, fashion modeling and cheese and champagne tables will be featured.

Tickets may be obtained at the Philharmonic Box Office in the Music Center or at the information desk of the new Hyatt Regency Hotel in Los Angeles. Ticket information is available by calling Mrs. John C. McCarthy of Claremont at 624-6693.

Amy Vanderbilt

Southern manner

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: We—and almost all of our friends—were taught as children to call our older and elderly relatives and close family friends 'Miss Martha' or 'Mister Jones.' I do this still, and my husband and I instruct our small children in the same manner. We also teach them to answer 'Yes, M'am' and 'No, Sir,' feeling that the use of these terms has a definite place in the manners and training of children, especially today when manners are so lacking in many. I believe this custom is being followed by almost all of our friends here in Knoxville and in other citties in the South.

"Regarding other customs in our area, there is seldom an 'invitation only' funeral. We still take prepared food to the bereaved home. We call on new residents in our street a week or so after they arrive. Our debutantes are presented at a Deb Ball at Christmastime. We 'dress' for our local theater and symphony, and we are almost always glad for an unexpected visit from a friend for coffee (the work will still be there when the friend is not!).

"In our area we use our homes for most of our entertaining — small dinner parties, buffet suppers for 10 to 14 people, about eight or ten times a year. I hope that knowledge of these customs is of some help to you. —Mrs. N.S., Knoxville, Tenn."

I wish some of these Southern manners were national ones, or could be made such. The South is changing, too, with the admixture of people from other parts of the country, and I am sure that where this admixture hasn't already influenced customs and manners it is certain to do so.

At the same time, a Southern family transported to the North would have great trouble forcing their children to comply with certain Southern customs in a new society where children are not taught to say, for example, "Yes, M'am" to elders (although "No, Sir" is more common). To a Northerner, for example, a polite "Yes" is even more acceptable than a "Yes, m'am," which might sound servile to his ears.

This does not mean that Southern parents should not teach Southern manners to Southern children in the South, but they should realize that politeness has various interpretations in other parts of the country. I, for example, have never said "Yes, M'am" to anyone in my life, even as a child. My sons said "Yes, Sir" and "No, Sir" at their prep schools and do still to much older men, especially in their work, and I hope it continues, although I suspect this kind of differentiation is fading completely in the North at least.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am German and would like you to know that your reader was wrong in her use of the word 'grossie.' First of all, there is no such German word. There is a similar word which is 'gross' meaning big in stature or tall. The German word for 'older' is 'alter.' Most German children call their grandmothers 'Oma' or 'Grossmutter.' —W.D., Nashville, Tenn."

I'm sure my reader meant that "Grossmutter" has been shortened to "Grossie" in her family, a diminutive.

Incidentally, in Holland, too, grandmothers are called "Oma," and in Holland there is a sugar shaker which is called an "oma." I have one in pressed glass with a silver top which I use for powdered sugar.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: When our children were small, they called my parents by their first names. My husband's parents were Grandma Keene and Frank. None of us knows how this all came about, but everyone was happy with it.

"Now we have a young grandson who calls us Betty and Bob. In fact, his first word was not mama or daddy but Bob! We are crazy about him and love being called by our first names. It has always been easy for him to say and it shows only love and respect. —Mr. B.K., Phoenix, Ariz."

If you love it, that's the answer for you.

(Amy Vanderbilt welcomes your letters and strives to answer all those of general interest in her column. Send your questions and comments to Miss Vanderbilt in care of Progress-Bulletin.

Whats Going on At Griswolds

For an evening of fun and outstanding Mexican food, drop into Casa Ramon in and Monday, we have au- Griswold's Old School House in Claremont. Every night except Sunday thentic Mexican dancing and singing. The Ballet Tarahumara dancers perform on Tuesdays and Wednesdays with their native dances of Mexico—in full costume. The Mariachis play guitars and sing on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. A great place to entertain guests . . . especially with the Double Margarita, which is so popular before dinner!

Thirty-Four SHOPS will all be open at the School House in a few days. The last few shops are finishing up their decor and moving in! What a galaxy of FASHIONS and JEWELRY!

Guess the weight of our giant pumpkins in the Smorgasbords and you win 2 free dinners to any Griswold's restaurant.

Fashion Fair set Friday

A Fashion Fair will be held for women of the Lincoln Avenue Community Reformed Church on Frilay at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall, sponsored by Women's Fellowship.

"Home-made" fashions in three categories — sport clothes, daytime clothes and evening fashions — will be shown. Mrs. Pete Wiersma will be moderator for the style show and Mrs. Ronald Van Dam is coordinator.

Modeling fashions will be Gail Zwart, Karen Bono, Nancy Hop, Sheila De Raad, Denis Ordt, Lauri Vanden Hoek, Kelby Hop, Becky Coppersmith, Cindy Coppersmith, Mary Wiersma, Nalia Beukleman, Valera Rowden, Luann Benzema, Mariana Vander Meulen, Mrs. Lynwood Davis, Mrs. Otto Wiersma and Mrs. Stephen Vander Meulen.

Dinner will be cooked by the men of the church and serving will be done by members of the senior high school and college groups.

Mrs. Donald Brandt is chairman of the event. Assisting her are Mrs. Tom Sargent, decorations; Miss Vickie Benzema, posters; Mrs. Ken Perry, arts and crafts display; and Mrs. Thomas Medieros, dinner committee.

Reservations for the show and dinner may be made with Mrs. Tony Hamming and Mrs. Elsie Trudeau.

LET'S ASK THE COOK by Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN:

Every time I read instructions on how to make a perfect meringue I feel compeled to say it won't work for me and to tell you my own absolutely foolproof one-and-only way to make a non-weeping topping.

Somewhere back in my past I read it but never saw it again. It seems I am the sole remaining possessor of the technique. Of course the fact that none of you experts ever recommend it tells me there is something unacceptable about it but my only defense is that it works, makes a nice dry, high crisp tender meringue that stays that way even in high humidity and it is so simple.

When your meringue has reached the desired doneness (350 degrees for 15 minutes) turn off the heat, open the oven door slightly and leave the pie there until it is practically cool, at least 30 minutes. I am going to try your meringue recipe that has cornstarch in it. I'm a sucker for anything that adds calories. I love your column.

Eva Watson,
Golconda, Ill.

Calories is a dirty word around this house. One of the occupational hazards of writing a food column and books is not just the testing and tasting but the fact that, of necessity, I think food, food, food almost every minute of the day. If I'm not writing about it I'm reading it and maybe at the same time testing it.

About your meringue method, why not? If it works for you that's it. The only reason I can see against it is that some cream type fillings might separate from overcooking but, with the oven door a jar the gradual cooling might be okay. It's worth anybody's try but don't bank on it being foolproof for everyone. Every time I use that word somebody snaps back, "Not for this fool it wasn't."

George Lawrence of the Southern California Glass Reclamation program will show a film, "Cycles," on the recycling process when Pomona Junior Women's Club meets Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held at Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan, Foothill and Indian Hill Boulevards, Claremont.

Members are invited to bring guests.

Appliances' First Aid program set

A new type of first aid instruction, "Small Appliance First Aid," will be offered at the Pomona Public Library's special program on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the public conference room.

Roy Miles of Pomona will demonstrate to appliance owners how to diagnose faulty devices and gadgets and put them in working order.

Those attending the program are asked to take a faulty appliance, such as toasters, irons and electric mixers. Mr. Miles will try to aid the appliance owners with their problems.

During the program, Mr. Miles will also display the kinds of tools needed to make repairs and will tell how to obtain parts.

A listing of books on small appiance repair available at the Pomona Public Library will be given to those attending.

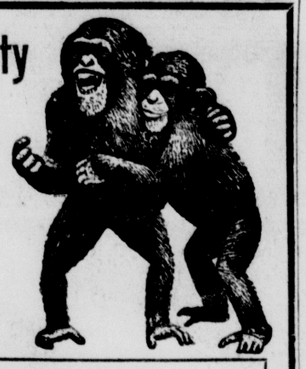

"Small Appliance First Aid" is offered without charge to all residents of the West End, Pomona and San Gabriel valleys as part of a continuing series of family-oriented programs at the Pomona Public Library.

Those wishing a complete listing of scheduled library programs should call 620-2038.

Heathcock and Tarr vows are exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. William Tarr of Apple Valley, formerly of Diamond Bar, announce the marriage of their daughter, Leann, to Steven Heathcock of Hemet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Heathcock of Rowland Heights.

The marriage was solemnized at a double-ring ceremony read in First Presbyterian Church, Pomona, by the Rev. George Wilson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional white lace, floor-length gown designed with tiers of lace over a hoop skirt. A scalloped boat neckline and long fitted sleeves enhanced the bodice. Her fingertip veil was caught to a headpiece of chiffon rosettes, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations centered with a white rose corsage.

Miss Luann Dietz of Rowland Heights was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Beth Tarr, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Lori Poirier.

Gene Walklin of Rowland Heights was the best man and ushers were Mark Goodwin and Earl Heathcock.

The couple left on a honeymoon after a reception at the church. They will reside in Hemet.

Mrs. Murtle Tarr came from Washington, Pa., to attend her granddaughter's wedding.

Fuel shortage seen:

Homeowners make repairs to keep out cold weather

NEW YORK — Many homeowners are making major improvements to avoid being "left out in the cold" by anticipated fuel shortages this winter.

An increase in loans for winterizing projects, ranging from new heating equipment and structural repairs to insulation and storm windows is reported by the GAC Finance, Inc.

"A properly weatherproofed home with efficient heating can save as much as 30 per cent in fuel costs," said William R. Hobson, GAC vice president.

"While improvements in this area have always been considered a wise investment, there is increased realization they can make a critical difference during the coming months in view of limited fuel supplies."

Homeowners should take precautions now to have heating equipment looked at for any necessary repairs and adjustments, and conduct a thorough home inspection to guard against unnecessary loss of heat, he advised.

Fundamental needs in weatherproofing include full attic and ground floor insulation and storm doors and windows.

A number of potential trouble spots should be checked before cold weather sets in, he added. These include:

—Check flashing (sheet metal) of roof and foundation for looseness, and seal with caulking compound or roofing cement.

—Cement loose shingles and replace missing or damaged shingles.

—Examine outside brick or cement walls for cracks and repair with caulking or patching cement.

—Check condition of door weatherstripping and tighten loose hinges.

—Cover chimney if it isn't used.

—Check attic and crawl areas to make sure insulation is properly secured.

—Inspect siding for needed repairs or replacement.

—Clean and align gutters and downspouts to prevent ice formation.

Many minor repair jobs can be accomplished handily by the homeowner, but professional contractors should be consulted on major problems, said Hobson.

Another important way consumers can conserve fuel consumption this winter is through the simple procedure of turning down thermostats at night, when less heat is needed," he added.

Buyers at La Linda get air conditioning

FONTANA — The La Linda Homes development here includes a package of luxury extras, such as air conditioning.

Other "extras" include dishwashers, shag carpeting, draperies and fencing, said Richard Hall, president of La Linda Estates and builder of the homes.

Buyers have their choice of three floor plans with two, three or four bedrooms and one or two bathrooms.

The 14 home community is valued at $350,000. The prices of homes start at $24,500, with conventional financing terms available.

Featured at La Linda is the "Granada Plan," which won a National Association of Home Builder's Gold Nugget award in a previous La Linda Homes development.

The La Linda sales office is located in the model home at 7812 Blanchard Ave. Eight of the homes are located on Blanchard, which flanks Fairview Road. This street contains the other six homes.

Persons may reach the site from the San Bernardino Freeway by going north on Sierra Avenue, east on Foothill Boulevard, north on Palmetto Avnue, west on Reed Street and north on Blanchard to Fairview.

SUPERVISOR Daniel D. Mikesell of San Bernardino County wil be speaker at the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors luncheon program Tuesday at Orando's restaurant. Mikesell, of Ontario, is currently a director of the West Valley Planning Agency and chairman of the steering committee on transportation for the National Association of Counties. He is a former mayor and City Councilman of Ontario.

Reinecke to speak at convention

OAKLAND — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke will be speaker at the California Apartment Association's 32nd annual convention Oct. 25-27 at the Edgewater Hyatt House at the Oakland International Airport.

Reinecke, whose topic is "State of the State," will speak Oct. 26 during the general session.

Some 300 delegates and their wives are expected to represent the 20,000 members of the California Apartment Association at the convention.

Other speakers will include Robert Karpe, California real estate commissioner, James Tanck, executive vice president of the National Apartment Association, and Robert A. Rogers, chairman of the "Citizens Opposing Rent Control.

Wheat is old crop

Wheat has been found preserved in the ruins of an ancient village in Iraq, 6,700 years old. The first wheat crop in the United States was planted at Buzzards Bay, Mass., in 1602.

Real estate seminar planned Thursday

CLAREMONT — The California Real Estate Association and the 26th District Education Committee will co-sponsor an education seminar on "Listing Real Estate" here on Thursday.

The all day session, open to the public, will be held at Griswold's Indian Hills Restaurant. Members of local boards of Realtors and CREA members may earn a unit of credit toward the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) certificate and designation.

These certificates require 18 units of credit, equaling 108 hours of study of specialized real estate subjects, and three years as a member of a board of Realtors and CREA.

Speakers at the conference will be Philip J. Yeager and Harry H. Winters.

"This is an opportunity for real estate practitioners to broaden their knowledge and understanding of their profession," said J. Stan Heckmer, local chairman.

"The course features advanced materials designed to help Realtors and salesmen who already have a good working knowledge of the real estate business, but who want to learn more, especially new techniques for helping their clients."

Faculty and materials are provided by the CREA, with the local board making other conference arrangements.

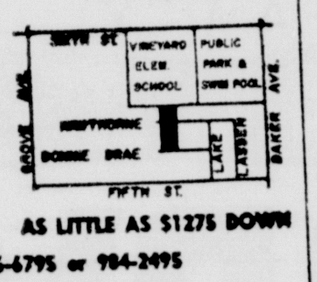

Registration is $15, which includes course materials, examination, coffee service and luncheon. Registration begins at 8:45 a.m.

For more information, persons may contact the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

'Plum Tree' celebrates opening with art show

CHINO — A new family and adult apartment project here will celebrate its grand opening today with 60 per cent of its 150 units already rented.

Festivities will include an antique car exhibit, art show, refreshments, and Bee Bee the Clown, with balloons for the children.

The development, called "Plum Tree," is located near Marshall and Walnut avenues. Developed and managed by the American Housing Guild, the $2.3 million complex offers adults and families recreational and social activities enjoyment, officials said.

The project includes two complete recreational facilities—one for adults and one for families.

The two level adult clubhouse contains a sauna, exercise room, party kitchen, card table, sunken fireplace, conversation lounge, color television and billiard loft. It is available to residents for private parties.

The family clubhouse is oriented to the family pool and features a teen and children's center and activity room.

designed to provide maximum

One convenience for mothers is our closed circuit television system in the children's play area. Mothers may turn their television to a certain channel connected by a closed circuit system, thus allowing them to watch their youngsters without having to leave their apartments.

Other features include a large adult swimming pool, separate family pool, jacuzzi, all purpose sports court and several outdoor gas barbecues.

The two-story garden apartments offer residents large living rooms with sliding glass doors opening onto patios or balconies, air conditioning, sound conditioning and extra storage areas, said Nancie Larimore, national director of consumer marketing.

Kitchens include electric ovens, wood cabinets, dishwashers, serving counters and double sinks. Refrigerators are available for rent.

Laundry facilities, decorated with handpainted graphics, are convenient to each unit.

Tenants have seven different plans from which to choose. These include a furnished junior, one bedroom model; a one bedroom, one bathroom model; two bedroom, one and a third bathroom townhouse; and a three bedroom, two bathroom model.

Rents range from $150 to $240 a month. Furniture designed for Plum Tree is available to residents on a monthly rental basis.

Landscaping includes mature trees, plants and grassy areas. Internal open space and recreation areas add to the park-like setting.

Seven furnished model apartments are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The American Housing Guild, based in San Diego, is one of the nation's largest privately owned residential builders. It is developing multi-family projects in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Chicago, and Washington, D.C.

ED COMBS, 26, a local Realtor, has opened his own real estate office in Pomona. He has been involved in real estate sales for the past 4½ years and was awarded the "salesman of the month" award five times by the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors. He will specialize in residential sales and investment counseling. He is a member of the California Real Estate Association and the Pomona Jaycees.

Hearings set on house financing

SAN DIEGO —Plans to investigate the total costs of new housing construction and the possible effects of state financing on housing on the state's credit were announced by Assemblyman Peter Chacon, D-San Diego.

Chacon, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Urban Development and Housing, said the committee will hold two hearings during the interim. He hopes that members of Gov. Ronald Reagaon's staff will explain to the committee the facts and reasons to support his veto message of Assembly Bill 1152.

This bill provided a housing finance program for moderate and low income families and elderly persons in California. In vetoing the bill, Reagan said it would adversely affect the state's credit rating, said Chacon.

The first hearing is set for Nov. 12 in San Diego at the State Building, 1350 Front Street. The subject will be on costs, user fees and essential elements in land acquisition and development, construction and financing of new housing in California.

The second hearing will be Dec. 17 in San Francisco at the State Building, 455 Golden Gage Ave. The subject will be on the sale of bonds for housing and the effects on the credit of the state.

No rush for mayor's job

DIETRICH, Idaho (UPI) — They're not rushing to challenge Mayor Clifford Davis in the Nov. 6 municipal election.

Davis said recently that no one has filed for his job or the four seats on the city council.

"If the voters write in the names of the incumbents, the incumbents will serve," Davis added. "That's the way we always do it."

Money crunch hasn't affected Lewis Homes

UPLAND — Predictions that the current "tight money" market would put the brakes on home sales are being rendered groundless by home buyers themselves, said Richard Lewis, president of Lewis Homes.

"The alarmists who predicted that a one per cent increase in interest rates would scare off home seekers failed to take into account the practical thinking of today's buyer," he added.

"For one thing, today's buyer takes a more sophisticated approach on money matters. He realizes that what he might save on interest by waiting, problematical as that is, could be wiped out by the large purchase price he would probably be forced to pay at the time."

Lewis pointed to his Alta Loma housing development as an example. Purchases last week reduced to five the number of homes still available there.

The homes, priced from $25,450 to $26,650, are located on Eastwood Avenue near Ceilito Street.

Similar buying activity is reported at Lewis Homes-Upland, a 44-house development at 15th Street and Mountain Avenue, he added.

"Our interest rate at Upland is one of the appeals to buyers," Lewis noted. In effect until Monday are conventional terms at 7¾ per cent interest.

Selecting new home:

Surveys don't show reason for purchase

UPLAND — The major motivation for buying a new home is probably one that doesn't ordinarily show up in the surveys, said Richard A. Lewis, president of Lewis Homes of California.

"This was revealed in question-and-talks with buyers at the La Verne and Upland developments," he added.

Asked what influenced their purchases at these sites, most respondents cited such inducements as "interesting floor plan," "beautiful kitchen," and "shower in each bath."

When Lewis instructed his sales pesonnel to ask the question: "what's your goal in wanting these things?," a different answer was given.

It took the form of "for my kids."

Lewis said his deduction is that parents link the chances of their children's well being to the kind of house and neighborhood in which they are raised.

"I knew we were on safe ground in asking that further question," he said. "Both the designs of our La Verne and Alta Loma houses and their locations were selected by us for their environmental appeal."

The La Verne development is located on Sixth Street between Fulton Road and Aldon Avenue. Its nearness to the Frank G. Bonelli Regional Park, Puddingstone Lake, and also schools and shopping areas are factors winning buyers' approval he added.

The homes, priced from $27,700 to $29,550, include fireplaces, garden kitchens, cathedral ceilings and cultured marble pullman ounters.

The Upland community is located near Mountain Avenue and 15th Street. These homes have shake roofs with wide, sloping eaves which form covered entryways.

They are priced from $28,950 to $31,500, with VA, FHA and conventional terms offered. Interest rates at 7¾ per cent will remain in effect through October. Cal Vet terms of 4¼ per cent are also available.

Chino names 3 school delegates

CHINO — The Chino school board has named one of its members and two others as delegates to the assembly of the California School Board Association.

Al McCombs was recommended as a candidate for subregion 16B of the association's delegates. Others were Rose Kelber of the Ontario-Montclair board and Anthony Longhetti of the Rialto board.

JFK assassination film being readied

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —It was inevitable that a motion picture would be made about the assassination of John F. Kennedy, including the recreation of the shooting scene at the Texas Book Depository in Dallas.

On the eve of the 10th anniversary of the assassination, "Executive Action" will be released in theaters across the country starring Burt Lancaster and the late Robert Ryan.

The film contends the murder of the President was the culmination of a conspiracy of powerful industrialists.

Driving force behind the picture is Gary Horowitz, a balding, mustached man of 37 who wears his hair in a pigtail. He is bright, given to quick physical movements and supremely confident of the conspiracy theory.

"The concept is basic," Horowitz said. "The story line is conjecture, of course. We have no proof. Nor does anyone else. But we have a lot of facts. No one of them is sufficient evidence. But thousands of discrepancies in the Warren Report are like grains of sand. Put them together and you realize they couldn't all be coincidence.

"The picture is based on a story line by Mark Lane and Donald Freed which takes up the errors of the Warren Report.

"We will make movie history by giving a pamphlet to all people entering the theater documenting every point in the picture, sort of an annotation or bibliography.

"Dalton Trumbo wrote the screenplay. He was as cynical as I was about the project and the conspiracy. But Dalton did some research of his own, agreed with the concept, and went ahead with it.

"I think our ideas about the conspiracy are not only logical but also possible."

If Horowitz was cynical to begin with, he has become something of a fanatic in his conviction that President Kennedy's assassination was clearly a plot by a group of rich and influential men who thought they were performing a service for the country by killing him.

The producer all but rejects the faintest possibility that the assassination was the work alone of Lee Harvey Oswald.

"We had to make the picture in secret," he said. "Pressure was brought against Lancaster not to make the film, and executive producer Edward Lewis also was advised by some important people to drop the project.

"Lancaster plays a key man who implements the conspiracy and Ryan is the motivating force.

"Naturally, we aren't using a double or look-alike for President Kennedy. We're showing all closeups of the President in stock footage. In the longdistance scenes of the actual shooting we hired doubles for both Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy.

Origin of Pilsner

Although Pilsner beer is used to describe light lager beer, the original Pilsner came from Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, where the clear, pure water gave it a light flavor.

Enrollment rises at Azusa Pacific

AZUSA — Fall enrollments at Azusa Pacific College have increased by 8 per cent. The increase brings the total enrollment to 1,149, the largest in the college's history.

According to Peb Jackson, director of admissions, the increase can be partly attributed to a high retention rate and an increased number of new applications.

"We also feel that our new philosophy of increased personal contacts with prospective students has shown that Azusa Pacific cares about the individual student," Jackson said.

New art works by Calder on display

LOS ANGELES — Newly created art works by American sculptor Alexander Calder are on exhibit through Oct. 30 at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art.

The works are half a dozen model aircraft painted by Calder as preliminary studies for the painting of an entire jet plane this fall. They are hung from the ceiling of the museum's Ahmanson Gallery, and can be seen from each of the gallery's four levels.

Calder was commissioned earlier this year by Braniff International to paint the exterior of one of Braniff's planes-a DC which flies daily between the United States and South America. Harding L. Lawrence, chairman of the board of Braniff, said, "Calder's achievements in putting art into space, through his invention of the mobile and stabile, made us feel that he, of all artists, was eminently suited to create a work of art using a DC-8 as his canvas. More people will see this painting by a famous artist than perhaps any other in history."

Braniff made the preliminary painted models available to museums around the country for exhibition, as a means of focusing attention on South America as a vacation destination that is "as colorful and exciting as Calder's art." The models are coming to Los Angeles from the Guggenheim Museum in New York.

Calder, now 75, will supervise the painting of the jet, which is 157 feet long and 148 feet from wing tip to wing tip. Both the models and the real plane will have Calder's familiar bright colores — red, yellow, blue and black.

Admission is free to the Ahmanson Gallery. The "Calder: Painted Planes" exhibition can be seen Tuesday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Claremont sixth graders

Ecology-minded class wins county citation

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Ida H. Jacobsen, teacher at Mountain View School, and her sixth-grade students were recent recipients of a meritorious service award from the county Board of Education for their work in the First Student Environmental Award Program.

The sixth-graders qualified for the award by planning a project called "Students for Endangered Species" and completing it within a year.

Activities included in the project were collecting Hunt's labels which resulted in the acquisition of 200 square yards of land in Minnesota for American eagle nesting; collecting money to buy a tree for the school; writing a letter to Congressman Jerry Pettis regarding unnecessary slaughtering of seals; inviting the Pomona Valley Humane Society to give a program on ecology; riding bikes on 42 field trips to conserve gasoline; and studying endangered species in newspapers, magazines and books.

The students received a reply from Pettis, a certificate from President Nixon, and an award of merit from state Supt. of Schools Wilson Riles.

Group forms for persons with lung problems

COVINA — A new organization being formed for people with chronic respiratory problems will meet Tuesday at the Inter-community Hospital here.

Dr. James Sands will speak on the topic, "How To Live with Chronic Pulmonary Disease." The program starts at 7:30 p.m.

The organization is being sponsored by the San Gabriel Pomona Valley Region of the Lung Association of Los Angeles County. The objective will be to promote understanding and education in the problems of living with respiratory diseases both for the patient and his family, said Mrs. Robert Graham, program chairman.

Persons wanting more information may phone (213) 332-3442.

Loving County hides the fact

MENTONE, Tex. (UPI) — Loving County, located on the New Mexico border east of El Paso, is the least populated county in Texas and perhaps the United States, with 164 residents as of 1970. It also was the last county formed in the state and that was in 1931.

Apollo pilot a lively guy at podium

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (UPI) —The late American humorist Will Rogers would have liked the way the astronaut from his old home town of Claymore, Okla., tells the space story.

Stuart Roosa fills the void as Will Rogers might have, had he not died in a plane crash in 1935.

An evening with Lt. Col. Roosa, command pilot of Apollo 14, offers opportunity to learn about all the things you wanted to know about going to the moon but never got the chance to ask.

The red-haired, mustashioed pilot who speaks with the southwestern twang of an Oklahoman who's picked up some Texan while living around Houston, starts off his discussion with a bit of a ramble. Then he notes that he's probably a lot like "Zsa Zsa Gabor's fifth husband—I know why I'm here and what I'm supposed to do. My problem is how to keep it interesting."

His talk is scheduled for 25 minutes, but he goes for two hours, and says, "I quit when I see the first guy nod."

Among some of his space quips:

"You've heard of the supersonic transport, the SST? Well, in NASA we discovered on our trip to the moon we had an SSJ —supersonic John."

"You know, after you make a few talks you learn to size up your audience pretty well," he told a meeting of newspaper eitors here recently.

"A group like yours wants to know what I think about the cost of the space program. College youngsters ask whether we should be going to the moon or feeding the hungry, and I'll answer that. High schoolers ask how to become an astronaut. Grade schoolers ask if 'Star Trek' is real.

"But the junior high kids have the toughest questions. First, they want to know how you go to the bathroom in space."

Roosa thinks a poet or writer should go on a space flight soon.

"We really do a poor job of describing the situation," he said. 'Here we are up there and the world is waiting to hear us tell about our sensations. What do we see and feel? And all we say are things like 'Fantastic,' or 'Boy, I never have seen anything like this before.'"

"Weightlessness is a wonderful state," he said. "No. It's not like swimming. You want to go somewhere and you just sort of go in the direction you want with no effort. Weightlessness makes the heart lazy, and that is because without gravitational pull, the heart doesn't have to beat as fast to keep the blood moving.

"On blastoff, your head fills up with fluid, but that is because your heart is beating as it should be earth normal, and when the body reaches the weightless area, it takes a little while for the heart to back off and not pump the blood so fast. It is sort of like hanging upside down and the blood is rushing to your head when you reach beyond the gravitional pull."

Of the American linkup in space with the Russians, scheduled for 1975, Roosa said: "It will be nice, and a good thing for the world. When you're out there as far away as the moon you can hold your hand up and blot out the earth inside your palm. You begin to think—'There is my planet. It is a beautiful blue and green planet with white, that is, the cloud layers. Space is so black, pitch black.' But when you hide the world in your hand you forget race, politics, differences.

"Our guys will speak in English to the Russians, and the Russians will speak to our astronauts in Russian. The crews will know what is being said. They will look over each other's ships in space, shake hands, and say for the TV cameras to the folks back home, 'Hey look, here we are.' Then they they will go back to their own ships."

Roosa, who pokes fun at those 12 "cats who have an exclusive club because they walked on the moon," says he belongs to an even more exclusive club—that of the CMP's—command module pilots who have soloed around the moon. There are but six of them.

State's prison escapes down

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State prison and camp escapes during the first months of 1973 fell to 128 compared to 344 for the same period last year, the state Department of Corrections reports.

"The great majority" of the 1973 escapes, the department said Tuesday were from various minimum security facilities.

Escapes and no-shows from work furlough and temporary community release programs also have declined. In the first nine months of this year there were 64 such escapes, compared to 160 for the same period last year, the department said.

Tapped maple trees

More than 100 drops of sap is emitted, each minute, from a tapped maple tree.

WE'LL NEVER TELL YOU THAT YOU'RE TOO OLD

Have you been told "Sorry, you're just too old to fit our plans?"

You'll never hear it from us. We want you to be older! Your maturity can be an asset to both of us.

If you are a man or woman with enthusiasm, we'll take your age and show you how to put it to work making money. Our records prove many of our "Older" people have averaged $800 to $1200 per month, is that over the hill?

Our company has been in business nearly sixty years at the same location and we are the leader in our field.

Our outstanding benefit package includes hospitalization insurance. You also have a complete and comprehensive training program and it won't cost you a cent. Our commissions and bonuses are second to none.

All we ask is: you be in good health, like to meet and work with people, and have an automobile.

We'll take it from there.

So if you are one of those 50 or 60 year olds who have been told "You're too old," try us. We think you'll like us.

If you're interested you can get full details by seeing on Monday between 6 pm & 9 pm or on Tuesday from 9 am & 11 am.

Mr. Tutor at the Holiday Inn, 3223 E. Garvey, West Covina, one block west of Grand.

LITE MY FIRE
I'm a georgous 3 bdrm, 2 bath home, situated among beautiful orange trees and I have a problem, I have a lovely fireplace, with no one to lite it. Come on baby lite my fire! ! Chino V.I.P. Area $29,000 all terms . . .

I'M OVER DEVELOPED
I'm 15 years old, and I'm over developed for my neighborhood, every one seems to be jealous because my 3 bdrms are super large and my 15 x 18 family room was designed for fun and entertainment. Not to mention all the other lovely things, my owners have added, to make me pleasing to the eye, I just want to make some one happy and have them appreciate me. $38,500.

I'M OLD
But I'm a classic I look like a story book house, with my danity 2 bdrm, and lovely unusual kitchen, I'm surrounded by weeping willow trees, and if they could talk they would tell you about all the people I've entertained, on my romatic grape vine covered patio. I may be old, but I have years of experience making people happy, $19,000 all terms . . .

I'M BEAUTIFUL
at least that is what I've been told, I have 4 large bedrooms, 1¾ bath, and WOW am I built. My present owners have spoiled me with every thing a house could want. Why don't you come over and see me some time, your terms are my terms $31,000.

Looking for an APARTMENT? Look Again.

How would you like greater privacy, a patio of your very own, a home with greater individuality, park-like surroundings?
Have you considered the advantages of a single-story home without noisy neighbors overhead or underfoot?
Don't you wish you were building equity and enjoying tax benefits, instead of pouring rent money down the drain and into the landlord's pocket?
Yes, look again... this time at Orchard Lane. Here is maintenance-free living in a 2 or 3 bedroom home for as little as $20,000. Features include a rambling greenbelt, fireplaces, private patios, enclosed garages, swimming and therapy pools... and more. Don't cramp your style in an apartment. Make a solid investment in an Orchard Lane condominium home.

LEASE-SPECIAL
FOR THE DISCRIMINATING BUYER
VOLVO 142-E
$238.06 dn. $99.08 mo. 36 mo.
OPEN END LEASE — PLUS SALES TAX

YOU'LL APPRECIATE OUR VOLVO 142 FOR WHAT IT HAS. AND WHAT IT DOESN'T.

WHAT IT HAS
The Volvo 142 is our least expensive model.
Yet is has four-wheel power-assisted disc brakes. Fuel injection. Radial tires. Rear window defroster/defogger. A three-speed, 10-outlet, heating/ventilation system. A six-boxed-steel-pillar passenger compartment. And combination three-point safety belts.

WHAT IT CAN HAVE.
You can change the four-speed transmission to a four-speed transmission with optional overdrive. Or do away with it altogether with a three-speed optional automatic.
Come in and take out our 142. You'll really like it.
More or less.

WHAT IT DOESN'T HAVE.
The Volvo 142 doesn't have child-proof rear door locks because it doesn't have any rear doors. Which could be the ultimate in rear door safety for children. So it comes for about $180 less than our four-door Volvo 144.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When hemming a readymade garment I pull out the machine stitching so I can reuse the matching thread. I find that pressing the thread before reuse keeps it from tangling and knotting while I use it. — CAROL.

●

DEAR POLLY — A friend was unable to find a long slip to go under her daughter's dotted Swiss dress so she bought a plain cotton nightgown. It served the purpose beautifully. — MRS. P. D.

●

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I keep the current register tape from the supermarket magnetically clipped to my refrigerator with the blank side out. This not only keeps the receipt handy should a refund or return be necessary but provides a handy place to jot down items for my next shopping trip.–ALICE

●

DEAR POLLY — To make my sleeping bag much more snug and warm I fold a sheet in half, slip it inside the bag and then snuggle down between the folds of the sheet. It serves as extra insulation and preserves the natural body warmth. — JAN

●

DEAR POLLY — When my granddaughter gets holes in her pants I embroider flowers here and there all-over them. Baby acrylic yarn works best on her knit things and by doing this they do not have a patched look. — VERA.

DEAR POLLY — I use an old-fashioned square potato masher as a holder for sharp knives to be placed in a drawer. Put the blades in the part that mashes the potatoes and also do away with that searching for the right knife.–M. R.

●

DEAR POLLY — To keep from spilling cough syrup or any other medicine, I use a spoon one size larger than the dose. I fill this spoon part way full and find I can easily judge the required amount. Fewer spills. — MRS. H. J.

●

DEAR POLLY — When one has a cold and is using tissues we all know most of these used tissues go back in our purses or pockets to spread germs. It is so easy to carry along a plastic sandwich bag and then place each tissue in it after it is used. On arrival home throw the filled bag into the trash. — HELEN

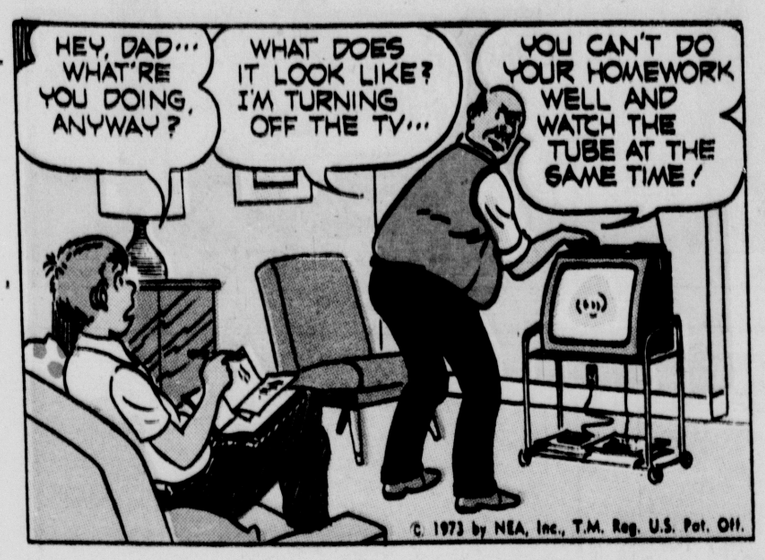

Bright Flowers

Perk up your daily towels with these colorful cross-stitch flowers. So easy to do. No. 2115 has hot-iron transfer for 7 designs; color chart.

Capitol Hospital in Washington, D.C., sets the comedy scene for The New Temperatures Rising series starring Paul Lynde and Clearon Little, on ABC, Tuesdays at 8PM. Lynde plays Dr. Paul Mercy, chief administrator of the hospital owned by his mother. Dr. Mercy is very much "establishment" and is mostly concerned with keeping the hospital's operating costs on the black side of the ledger. Clearon Little returns in his role of Dr. Jerry Noland, but this season he's a resident doctor at the hospital. Thus permitted more authority, Jerry uses it to the fullest extent to take care of his patients in opposition to the system and Dr. Mercy.

MERRY METAPHORS

"Dr. Seuss on the Loose," a trilogy of allegorical classics—"The Sneetches," "The Zax" and "Green Eggs and Ham"—comprises the newest half-hour animated cartoon special written by Theodore Geisel, and airing on CBS, Monday at 8:30PM. Set to original music by Dean Elliott, with special lyrics by Dr. Seuss, the three fables are introduced by the Cat in the Hat, whose voice is provided by Allan Sherman. Hans Conreid is the storyteller and voice interpretations are by Paul Winchell and Bob Holt.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'ROLL OUT!' DOES THE JOB

It took 20th Century-Fox Television's hit series M*A*S*H to get the new comedy spatial Roll Out! off producers Gene Reynolds and Larry Gelbart's drawing board to make its maiden flight this season on CBS. Roll Out! which was earlier wartime comedy creation of these M*A*S*H co-producers is unreeled with World War II as its background. Its principals, as they were in real life, are mostly Black soldiers manning the famed Red Ball Express, whose trucks supplied General George S. Patton and his army in its dash across France in pursuit of the Germans. Their improvised 700-mile-long highway was referred to in that conflict as "the world's longest one way street."

Despite the fact that M*A*S*H was tailored for a sophisticated adult audience in a late time slot, it made its way up the popularity poll to enjoy a berth among the top series programs in an earlier hour where it competed with long-proven series and childrens' shows. (This season CBS has moved M*A*S*H to the 8:30 to 9 PM time slot on Saturdays).

Heading the list of stars in the new Roll Out! series, which airs 8:30 to 9 PM on Fridays, is ventriloquist and popular nightclub entertainer Stu Gilliam. He plays Corporal "Sweet" Williams, a slick, sophisticated and highly devious product of Chicago. His "foil" is Hilly Hicks in the character of Jed Brooks, Williams' assistant driver who is a deeply religious country lad from Louisiana possessing inflexible moral standards.

In real life, Gilliam never finished high school, but was expert enough pool player to beat legendary Minnesota Fats one time. In contrast, Hicks started his Baptist ministry in his father's Los Angeles church at the age of seven; holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Occidental College, and his wife is a pre-medical student.

Mel Stewart, as Staff Sergeant B. J. Bryant, is a "book" soldier very much aware of the short-comings of the men serving under him, but is not always able to cope with them.

The company commander, Captain Rocco Calvelli Jr., played by Val Bisoglio, is white, as is Ed Begley Jr., his adjutant, Lieutenant Robert Chapman. The captain would like to be a first rate officer but appears not to be endowed with all the needed qualities, while the lieutenant believes the army moves on its paper work. Begley is the son of the late Academy Award actor Ed Begley.

As many things seem to go in pairs in the Roll Out! series, Gene Reynolds and associate producer James Lydon were motion picture stars together as children. The former was known as the one most often to portray the movie star as a child in flashback sequences, such as Robert Taylor as a boy in "The Crowd Roars," Don Ameche in "Sins of Man" and Tyrone Power in "In Old Chicago."

Lydon, who appeared in five Broadway plays, 2000 radio shows, 480 television presentations and 100 movies, was the star of the "Henry Aldrich" motion picture series which became a family affair prior to World War II.

Compounding the duplicities in Roll Out! Hilly Hicks (May 4) and Val Bisoglio (May 7) have birthdays three days apart, as do Mel Stewart (September 19) and Ed Begley Jr. (September 16).

Only Penny Santon stands uniquely alone in the star roster. She is the only female regular—who runs a road house in France.

Although, as noted, the Red Ball Express forms only a background for Roll Out! it deserves some further mention. It was improvised through necessity following General Patton's breakthrough at St. Lo. The general moved so swiftly in pursuit of the enemy that he outran his own supplies. Red Ball, which ultimately consisted of 25,000 men, was thrown together to meet these needs. Many of the men were not trained in handling the vehicles or the problems of servicing them; they came under fire and there were casualties from the continuous strain on men and machines. But they did the job.
